Walks Through Lost Paris A Journey Into The Heart Of Historic Paris:

Walks Through Lost Paris Leonard Pitt,2006 Walks Through Lost Paris Leonard Pitt,2006-05-24 When he discovered that the city he lived in for many years was actually entirely rebuilt during the mid 1800s Leonard Pitt plunged into Paris s history and began photographing what he learned had changed Eventually he led tours and gave lectures on the demolition and reconstruction that changed the city forever Walks Through Lost Paris chronicles Paris s great periods of urban reconstruction through four walking tours With a special focus on the work of Georges Eugene Haussmann this book provides a history of each site along with the motives behind the urban redesign and the reactions of Parisians who witnessed it Detailed maps take you through a city whose changes were captured by photographers and artists in each stage Hundreds of color photos diagrams and engravings splendidly survey the massive transformation that resulted in the Paris of today The Photographic Uncanny Claire Raymond,2019-11-23 This book argues for a renewed understanding of the fundamentally uncanny quality of the medium of photography It especially makes the case for the capacity of certain photographs precisely through their uncanniness to contest structures of political and social dominance The uncanny as a quality that unsettles the perception of home emerges as a symptom of modern and contemporary society and also as an aesthetic apparatus by which some key photographs critique the hegemony of capitalist and industrialist domains The book s historical scope is large beginning with William Henry Fox Talbot and closing with contemporary indigenous photographer Bear Allison and contemporary African American photographer Devin Allen Through close readings exegesis of individual photographs and careful deployment of contemporary political and aesthetic theory The Photographic Uncanny argues for a re envisioning of the political capacity of photography to expose the haunted homeless condition of modernity Death Is All Around Us Jonathan M. Weber,2019-04-01 Late nineteenth century Mexico was a country rife with health problems In 1876 one out of every nineteen people died prematurely in Mexico City a staggeringly high rate when compared to other major Western world capitals at the time which saw more modest premature death rates of one out of fifty two London one out of forty four Paris and one out of thirty five Madrid It is not an exaggeration to maintain that each day dozens of bodies could be found scattered throughout the streets of Mexico City making the capital city one of the most unsanitary places in the Western Hemisphere In light of such startling scenes in Death Is All around Us Jonathan M Weber examines how Mexican state officials including President Porfirio D az tried to resolve the public health dilemmas facing the city By reducing the high mortality rate state officials believed that Mexico City would be seen as a more modern and viable capital in North America To this end the government used new forms of technology and scientific knowledge to deal with the thousands of unidentified and unburied corpses found in hospital morgues and cemeteries and on the streets Tackling the central question of how the government used the latest technological and scientific advancements to persuade citizens and foreigners alike that the capital city and thus Mexico as a whole was capable of resolving the hygienic issues plaguing the city Weber explores how the state's attempts to exert control over procedures of death and burial became a powerful weapon for controlling the behavior of its citizens

The Pet Thief Kassten Alonso, 2013-03-11 The Pet Thief is a dystopian fable of science rebellion humankind's inhumanity and the struggle for identity and survival in a post human world

Piercing Time Peter Sramek, 2014-01-01 Piercing Time examines the role of photography in documenting urban change by juxtaposing contemporary rephotographs taken by the author with images of nineteenth century Paris taken by Charles Marville who worked under Georges Haussmann and corresponding photographs by Eugène Atget taken in the early twentieth century Revisiting the sites of Marville's photographs with a black cloth tripod and view camera Peter Sramek creates here a visually stunning book that investigates how urban development the use of photography as a documentary medium and the representation of urban space reflect attitudes towards the city The essays that run alongside these fascinating images discuss subjects such as the aesthetics of ruins and the documentation of the demolitions that preceded Haussmannization as well as the different approaches taken by Marville and Atget to their work The book also includes contemporary interviews with local Parisians extracts from Haussmann's own writing and historical maps that allow for an intriguing look at the shifting city plan Sure to be of interest to lovers of the city be they Parisians or visitors Piercing Time provides a unique snapshot of historical changes of the past 150 years But it will also be of enduring value to scholars The accurate cataloguing and high quality reproductions of the images make it a resource for a significant portion of the Marville collection in the Musée Carnavalet and it will aid further research in urban history and change in Paris over the past century and a half Photographers will be drawn to the book for its new thinking in relation to documentary methodologies

Low-tech Magazine 2012-2018 Kris De Decker, 2019-03-18 Low tech Magazine underscores the potential of past and often forgotten technologies and how they can inform sustainable energy practices Sometimes past technologies can be copied without any changes More often interesting possibilities arise when older technology is combined with new knowledge and new materials or when past concepts and traditional knowledge are applied to modern technology Inspiration is also to be found in the so called developing world where resource constraints often lead to inventive low tech solutions
