Place and Postcolonial Ecofeminism Shazia Rahman, 2019-08-01 While news reports about Pakistan tend to cover Taliban attacks and bombings and academics focus on security issues the environment often takes a backseat in media reportage and scholarship In particular Pakistani women's attachment to their environment and their environmental concerns are almost always ignored Shazia Rahman traces the ways in which Pakistani women explore alternative environmental modes of belonging examines the vitality of place based identities within Pakistani culture and thereby contributes to evolving understandings of Pakistani women in relation to both their environment and to various discourses of nation and patriarchy Through an astute analysis of such works as Sabiha Sumar's Khamosh Pani 2003 Mehreen Jabbar's Ramchand Pakistani 2008 Sorayya Khan's Noor 2006 Uzma Aslam Khan's Trespassing 2003 and Kamila Shamsie's Burnt Shadows 2009 Rahman illuminates how Pakistani women's creative works portray how people live with one another deal with their environment and intuit their relationship with the spiritual She considers how literary and cinematic documentation of place based identities simultaneously critiques and counters stereotypes of Pakistan as a country of religious nationalism and oppressive patriarchy Rahman's analysis discloses fresh perspectives for thinking about the relationship between social and environmental justice The Struggle for Hegemony in Pakistan Aasim Sajjad Akhtar, 2022-04-20 The collapse of neoliberal hegemony in the western world following the financial crash of 2007-8 and subsequent rise of right wing authoritarian personalities has been described as a crisis of the political in western societies But the crisis must be seen as global rather than focusing on the west alone Pakistan is experiencing rapid financialisation and rapacious capture of natural resources overseen by the country's military establishment and state bureaucracy Under their watch trading and manufacturing interests property developers and a plethora of mafias have monopolised the provision of basic needs like housing water and food whilst also feeding conspicuous consumption by a captive middle class Aasim Sajjad Akhtar explores neoliberal Pakistan looking at digital technology in enhancing mass surveillance commodification and atomisation as well as resistance to the state and capital Presenting a new interpretation of our global political economic moment he argues for an emancipatory political horizon embodied by the classless subject The New Pakistani Middle Class Ammara Maqsood, 2017-11-13 Images of religious extremism and violence in Pakistan and the narratives that interpret them inform global events but also twist back to shape local class politics Ammara Maqsood focuses on life in Lahore where she untangles these narratives to show how central they are for understanding competition between middle class groups The Awakening of Muslim Democracy Jocelyne Cesari,2014-04-14 Why and how did Islam become such a political force in so many Muslim majority countries In this book Jocelyne Cesari investigates the relationship between modernization politics and Islam in Muslim majority countries such as Egypt Iraq Pakistan Tunisia and Turkey countries that were founded by secular rulers and have since undergone secularized politics Cesari argues that nation building processes in these states have not created liberal democracies in the Western mold but have instead spurred the politicization of Islam by turning it into a modern national ideology Looking closely at examples of Islamic dominance in political modernization this study provides a unique overview of the historical and political developments from the end of World War II to the Arab Spring that have made Islam the dominant force in the construction of the modern states and discusses Islam s impact on emerging democracies in the contemporary Middle East

Islamophobia and the Novel Peter Morey,2018-08-14 In an era of rampant Islamophobia what do literary representations of Muslims and anti Muslim bigotry tell us about changing concepts of cultural difference In Islamophobia and the Novel Peter Morey analyzes how recent works of fiction have framed and responded to the rise of anti Muslim prejudice showing how their portrayals of Muslims both reflect and refute the ideological preoccupations of media and politicians in the post 9 11 West Islamophobia and the Novel discusses novels embodying a range of positions from the avowedly secular to the religious and from texts that appear to underwrite Western assumptions of cultural superiority to those that recognize and critique neoimperial impulses Morey offers nuanced readings of works by John Updike Ian McEwan Hanif Kureishi Monica Ali Mohsin Hamid John le Carr Khaled Hosseini Azar Nafisi and other writers emphasizing the demands of the literary marketplace for representations of Muslims He explores how depictions of Muslim experience have challenged liberal assumptions regarding the novel s potential for empathy and its ability to encompass a variety of voices Morey argues for a greater degree of critical self consciousness in our understanding of writing by and about Muslims in contrast to both exclusionary nationalism and the fetishization of difference Contemporary literature s capacity to unveil the conflicted nature of anti Muslim bigotry expands our range of resources to combat Islamophobia This in turn might contribute to Islamophobia s eventual dismantling Being Bengali Mridula Nath Chakraborty,2014-03-26 Bengal has long been one of the key centres of civilisation and culture in the Indian subcontinent However Bengali identity Bengaliness is complicated by its long history of evolution the fact that Bengal is now divided between India and Bangladesh and by virtue of a very large international diaspora from both parts of Bengal This book explores a wide range of issues connected with Bengali identity Amongst other subjects it considers the special problems arising as a result of the division of Bengal and concludes by demonstrating that there are many factors which make for the idea of a Bengali identity Afghan Crucible Elisabeth Leake,2022-03-31 A new global history of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan an invasion whose consequences are still felt in Afghanistan and across the wider world On 24 December 1979 Soviet armed forces entered Afghanistan beginning an occupation that would last almost a decade and creating a political crisis that shook the world To many observers the Soviet invasion showed the lengths to which one of the world's superpowers would go to vie for supremacy in the global Cold War The Soviet war and parallel covert American aid to Afghan resistance fighters would come to be a defining event of international politics in the final years of the Cold War lingering far beyond the Soviet Union's own demise Yet Cold War competition is only a small part of the story Soviet troops entered a country already at war with itself A century of debates within Afghanistan over the nature of modern nationhood culminated in a 1978 coup in which self-described Afghan communists pledged to fundamentally reshape Afghanistan Instead what broke out was a civil war in which Afghans asserted competing models of Afghan statehood Afghan socialists and Islamists came to the fore of this conflict in the 1980s thanks in part to Soviet and American involvement but they represented a broader movement for local articulations of social and political modernity that did not derive from foreign models Afghans in conversation with foreigners set many of the parameters of the conflict This sweeping history moves between centres of state in Kabul Moscow Islamabad and Washington the halls of global governance in Geneva and New York resistance hubs in Peshawar and Panjshir and refugee camps scattered across Pakistan's borderlands to tell a story that is much more expansive than the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan a global history of a moment of crisis not just for Afghanistan or the Cold War but international relations and the postcolonial state

Political Vasudevan, Ravi, 2022-01-01 This volume features the writings of leading media scholars from South Asia and Europe on the topic of how media articulates political energies and transformational logics The research traverses the press newsreels entertainment cinema photography television music social media and data driven politics The authors consider how media industries institutions and practices constitute sites where conflicts relating to wider social change are observable Authors address media materiality and aesthetics in tracking political effects and resonances on subjects such as wire photo transfers film set design the formal structures of the newsreel the role of television audience surveys the relationship between digital and paper records the place of media in courts of law and the phenomenon of the media trial The overall approach in understanding media and the political is not only to access formal institutions both of media and politics but also to expand perspective to trace the wider dispersed appearance of the political in and through media Sisters in the Mirror Elora Shehabuddin, 2021-08-24 Taking a transnational approach this book challenges the belief that the Muslim world is unrelentingly antifeminist The author challenges assumptions about inevitable civilizational antagonism between the West and the Muslim world a notion that has become increasingly popular in recent decades and of a lag in the emergence of feminism in the latter While it shouldn't be controversial to insist that male bias and privilege are present in Western as well as in Muslim majority societies it is more difficult to show how and why efforts to improve women's lives in even these geographically distant parts of the world have long been interconnected and interdependent Sisters in the Mirror is a feminist story about how changing global and local power disparities between Europeans and Bengalis between Brahmins Hindus and Muslims within Bengal between feminists of the global North and South and between Western and Muslim feminists have shaped ideas about change in women's lives and also the strategies by which to enact change With the lasting shift in the balance of economic political and military power between Muslim and Euro American nations toward the latter since the eighteenth century Muslim advocates for women's rights have had to define their agendas for reform in the shadow of Western imperial and economic power The stories in this book show that no society has a monopoly on ideas about justice and fairness in the matter of women's or any other group's rights or for that matter on male bias violence and injustice no community is isolated or pure and people everywhere are enriched by open minded encounters with people who eat dress and pray differently or don't pray at all
