

"The End"

She never got out of bed. The sheets were tossed and tangled where her legs had wrestled with his. They smelled like stale cologne, sweat and leftover passion. There was a smear of color from the lipstick she was wearing three days ago on the pillow next to her. Now the color was faded from brilliant red to barely-there pink. It was hardly visible amongst the fresh black rubbed in from her wet mascara. In the background the muffled sound of a television next door soothed her slightly. She listened to breakfast being made and the shower running, the hunt for shoes and the jingle of car keys, the television being silenced. The sound of a door being slammed carelessly closed...then silence. It reminded her vaguely that she had things that needed to be done; a job to show up to, a dog to feed. She needed another day, she thought, she'd feel better tomorrow. She rolled over.

Book jacket The World of Nabokov's Stories Maxim Shrayer, 1999 Drawing on Nabokov's unpublished manuscripts and letters Shrayer analyzes the paradigms of Nabokov's poetics and tests them in studies of major stories such as Spring in Fialta and Cloud Castle Lake He investigates Nabokov's dialogue with Chekhov and his rivalry with Bunin over such issues as the use of narrative closure and the nature of love This in-depth analysis places Nabokov's short fiction in the main line of his bilingual and bicultural writing career Through references to all of Nabokov's stories as well as to many novels and discursive writings from the early emigre works of the 1920s to the late American works of the 1970s Shroyer delineates the principal historical and cultural contexts that shaped Nabokov's development. Most importantly, he reveals the metaphysical, ethical, and aesthetic concerns that shaped one of the most significant bodies of modern fiction. The Buddha Vanessa R. Sasson, Kristin Scheible, 2023. Retellings of the Buddha's life story have animated and sustained Buddhist thought and practice through some 2,500 years of history. To this day, Buddhist holidays and rituals are pinned to the arc of his biography: celebrating his birth, awakening, teaching, and final nirvana. His story is the model that exemplary Buddhists follow. Often, there is a moment of insight akin to the Buddha's experience with the Four Sights, followed by a great departure from home and a period of searching that it is hoped will lead to final awakening. The Buddha's story is not just the Buddha's story; it is the story of Buddhism. In this book, twelve leading scholars of South Asian texts and traditions articulate the Buddha life blueprint, the underlying and foundational pattern that holds the life story of a Buddha together. They retell the episodes of Buddha Gautama's extended life story while keeping in mind the cosmic paradigmatic arc of his narrative. The contributors have dedicated their careers to exploring hagiographical materials, each applying their own methodological and theoretical interests to shed new light on the enduring story of Buddhism. Using multiple perspectives, voices, and sources, this volume underscores the multivalent centrality of this story. The book will be an invaluable resource to practicing Buddhists and students of Buddhist Studies to help them engage in the most foundational story of the tradition.
