The Aerialist Victoria Hallerman, 2005 Poetry THE AERIALIST is a wise observant and deeply reflective body of work With mature authority and true poetic intelligence Hallerman presents us with our lives as aerialists Her life is the wife she can never come down if she were to cut the wire she dreams of this the sky would break like a mirror into the sea and nothing would be whole again Jean Valentine As soon as I began reading these poems I knew I was in the company of a writer I wanted to be with someone whose personality becomes recognizable on a basic yet open level that is appealing and not in any way exclusive I was eager to learn what she had to say about the wide variety of things that concern her This is the unforced voice of a poet who has nothing to prove and therefore does not need to lecture or presume and does not restrict herself to one small area in short a poet who reveals herself without needing to confess The Aerialist is a superb collection it is hard to believe that it is the The Spirit of the Walrus Elisavietta Ritchie, 2005 Poetry Elisavietta Ritchie's writing informs and at the same time plays with language gives off a joy a pleasure in words I admire her rhythmic sentences Yes a poet is afloat gambling lolling may even be grazing flanks Colette Inez Elisavietta Ritchie's work is original varied and exciting and has been growing steadily in scope and control The core of her poems is vitality Grim joyous exuberant or erotic they have a strong and vivid life Josephine Jacobsen Ritchie's poetry has been widely published Her poetry collections include The Arc of the Storm Elegy for the Other Woman New Selected Terribly Female Poems and A Wound Up Cat and Other Bedtime Stories She edited a volume entitled Dolphin's Arc Poems on Endangered Creatures of the Sea She has made many translations of Russian poetry and prose and has worked as a contract translator from French and Russian for various governmental and private clients Her own poetry has been translated and published in a Book Arts ..., 2005

Web-watching Bruce Bennett, 2005 Poetry Has fate a hand The stance is witty but the underlying questions are serious In the shifting light of human consciousness WEB WATCHING addresses large issues by looking at the small worlds of moth and loon and dragonfly Form mediates it delights and instructs Within the Large Uncertainty the patterns on the page provide at least a partial answer By his ceaseless flow of mind and craft Bruce Bennett again proves that the deft hand of the poet makes of quandary a kind of Fate Judith Kitchen A Sense of Place Bhikshuni Weisbrot, 2007 Poetry Nature plays a strong role in this collection of poetry This is nature portrayed both through outer observation and inner reflection Place can mean somewhere as detailed as the mountaintop of Sakurajima or as wistful as the last fleeting days of February The sparsely written poems are so evocative it is though one can hear the poet speak Such purity of tone brevity of expression and clarity of view is refreshing and exhilarating We recall our reluctant admiration of the beauty of the elements while in awe and fear of the majestic and inescapable strength those same possess when even one's big coat is little protection Sindiwe Magona

Haywire Rachel Contreni Flynn, 2009 Poetry The winner of the Bright Hill Press 2007 Chapbook Competition selected by Martin Mitchell poetry editor of BigCityLit and Bertha Rogers Editor in Chief Bright Hill Press HAYWIRE is a book about history and hunger a startled kind of anger as its poems move from fear to contentment always vigilant of the possibility of loss There is delicacy here goldfinches crickets ink drawings but also the solid comforts of earthenware mugs scones and sacks of books and these poems examine with rich imagery and surprising associations what is fleeting and what is sturdy The landscape of Flynn s poems juxtapose the tough with the tender and the result is a collection in the voice of a daughter sister wife and mother that reveals the intense complicated intersection of all this rage and love Possum Shelby Stephenson, 2004 Poetry Winner of the 2002 Bright Hill Press Poetry Chapbook Competition Now from Johnston County North Carolina comes Possum incarnate as the fittest a perfect icon of human and godly imperfection Wanting celebrating and grieving from his forever returned to perch in the archetypal tree a persimmon of course he travels the destroying highway to the shopping mall and CNN From the ruined lost farms Possum sees all tells all survives all and all from his own small corner of the world As Poet Possum writes with a talented tail asks why a persimmon is asks all the right questions and answers them with Possum Clever sad lyrical harsh and sweet at once the way a persimmon is these poems make us glad that Possum is his own legend and walks with opposable thumbs on feet of open forms Betty Adcock Hairpin Loop Anne D. Blonstein, 2007 Poetry Botany and genetics donate many of the tropes for this sequence of poems which opens with a sudden meeting an encounter between two people For one of the protagonists the shock after the chronic but almost intangible contact finally precipitates the search for silenced memories because she believes only their expression can untangle a repetitious story provide the precursors to synthesize a more balanced but unpredictable future one that like DNA might be double or single stranded The author moves through a web of languages a weft of images She makes boxes boxes in which her passionate and her cool words come together to create vibrant lifeforms Boxes not cages in which losses are translated into gains Little boxes which protect their secrets while simultaneously setting them free Peter Gisi Instinct Joanna Straughn, 2006 Poetry Intimacy presupposes a certain innocence The intimacy in Joanna Straughn s poems sees the small vital world on the scale of its innocence with eyes that discipline not only the precision of the detail but the subtlety of its rendering Stanley Plumly Joanna Straughn s poems exist in the liminal a place of uncommon delicacy and quiet haunting Here is an imagination that describes a robin s egg as sky fallen to earth as a hailstone and conveys what a bird is to a flower Like watercolors these poems are filled with sure yet translucent strokes What good is love that isn t portable asks the speaker in one poem vowing in another poem to lie down In the heart s granary Joanna Straughn s gift is to awaken us to the danger of a raindance inviting a tornado rather than rain and console us by celebrating the difference Natasha Saje

Degrees of Freedom Nicholas Johnson, 2006 Nicholas Johnson is a poet of incandescent wit the kind of mordant intelligence whose first target is its own assumptions and a strange haunted tenderness I love his work for its dark sotto voce originality This is a collection that the writing community has been waiting for D Nurkse
