When Ways Of Life Collide Multiculturalism And Its Discontents In The Netherlands:

When Ways of Life Collide Paul M. Sniderman, A. Hagendoorn, 2007 This book examines the policies of multiculturalism and the conflicts of values they generate between native Dutch and Muslim immigrant communities in the Netherlands The authors adopt an empirical analytical approach in their treatment of the apparently vexing issue of multiculturalism in Dutch society using the case of the Dutch filmmaker Theo van Gogh brutally murdered on a busy Amsterdam street in 2004 by a Dutch Moroccan offended by van Gogh's controversial film about Muslim suppression of women The central thrust of their argument is that policies that were designed to protect the distinct way of life of the Muslims and promote tolerance are paradoxically breeding intolerance on both sides

Muslim Societies and the Challenge of Secularization: An Interdisciplinary Approach Gabriele Marranci, 2010-09-08 Scholars from various disciplines worked together to present the first interdisciplinary book to address the issue of Islam secularism and globalization The book has a clear structure which represents its interdisciplinary approach the first section addresses the philosophical and historical discussion about Islam and secularism the second section discusses the topic from an ethnographical and social anthropological viewpoint and the final section addresses Islam secularism and globalization from a political viewpoint This unique collection not only offers innovative research and new material it also provides empirical examples and theoretical debates and could therefore also be used as a textbook for courses on Islam globalization anthropology politics sociology and law

Taking Pluralism Seriously Félix Mathieu, 2022-06-15 In so called post factual societies where public debates are undermined by their false or misleading premises philosophers who have reflected on diversity and pluralism can offer a critical and clarifying perspective through which to evaluate the statements of politicians and the media Félix Mathieu offers a theoretical empirical and normative analysis of the debates surrounding the accommodation of ethnocultural and societal diversity in contemporary liberal democracies With a close lens on Canada he looks at case studies

Interculturalism and multiculturalism: similarities and differences Martyn Barrett, 2013-12-11 This book examines the relationship between two policy approaches for managing the cultural diversity of contemporary societies interculturalism and multiculturalism The relationship between these two approaches has been a matter of intense debate in recent years Some commentators argue that they represent two very different approaches while others argue that interculturalism merely re emphasises some of the core elements of present day multiculturalism The debate arises in part because multiculturalism can take a variety of different forms which makes it difficult to identify its key features in order to compare it with interculturalism The debate has gained added momentum from the backlash against multiculturalism in recent years and from the Council of Europe's prominent championing of interculturalism as an alternative approach This book aims to clarify the concepts of interculturalism and multiculturalism and to bring the various arguments together in a way that will assist politicians policy makers practitioners and interested lay people to understand the concerns that are driving the different orientations The book is also intended to facilitate a comparison of the policy implications of interculturalism and multiculturalism To this end each chapter concludes with a concise statement of the implications for policy that follow from the viewpoint that has been expressed The Oxford Handbook of European Islam Jocelyne Cesari, 2015 For centuries Muslim countries and Europe have engaged one another through theological dialogues diplomatic missions political rivalries and power struggles In the last thirty years due in large part to globalization and migration from Islamic countries to the West what was previously an engagement across national and cultural boundaries has increasingly become an internalized encounter within Europe itself Questions of the Hijab in schools freedom of expression in the wake of the Danish Cartoon crisis and the role of Shari'a have come to the forefront of contemporary European discourse The Oxford Handbook of European Islam is the first collection to present a comprehensive approach to the multiple and changing ways Islam has been studied across European countries Parts one to three address the state of knowledge of Islam and Muslims within a selection of European countries while presenting a critical view of the most up to date data specific to each country These chapters analyze the immigration cycles and policies related to the presence of Muslims tackling issues such as discrimination post colonial identity adaptation and assimilation The thematic chapters in parts four and five examine secularism radicalization Shari'a Hijab and Islamophobia with the goal of synthesizing different national discussion into a more comparative theoretical framework The Handbook attempts to balance cutting edge assessment with the knowledge that the content itself will eventually be superseded by events Featuring eighteen newly commissioned essays by noted scholars in the field this volume will provide an excellent resource for students and scholars interested in European Studies immigration Islamic studies and the sociology of religion Bridging the Gaps Martin Ruhs, Kristof Tamas, Joakim Palme, 2019-03-28 What is the use of research in public debates and policy making on immigration and integration Why are there such large gaps between migration debates and migration realities and how can they be reduced Bridging the Gaps Linking Research to Public Debates and Policy Making on Migration and Integration provides a unique set of testimonies and analyses of these questions by researchers and policy experts who have been deeply involved in attempts to link social science research to public policies Bridging the Gaps argues that we must go beyond the prevailing focus on the research policy nexus by considering how the media public opinion and other dimensions of public debates can interact with research and policy processes The chapters provide theoretical analyses and personal assessments of the successes and failures of past efforts to link research to public debates and policy making on migration and integration in six different countries Germany the Netherlands Norway Sweden the United Kingdom and the United States as well as in European and global governance debates Contrary to common public perceptions and political demands Bridging the Gaps argues that all actors contributing to research public debates and policy making should recognize that migration integration and related decision making are highly complex issues and that there are no quick fixes to what are often enduring policy dilemmas When the different actors understand and appreciate each other's primary aims and constraints such common understandings can pave the way for improved policy making processes and better public policies that deal more effectively with the real challenges of migration and integration Living with Hard Times Marco Giugni, Maria Grasso, 2021-07-13 Living with Hard Times Europeans in the Great Recession provides a new comprehensive comparative study of the socio political effects of the Great Recession amongst European citizens. It presents a detailed investigation of heterogeneity in the population within countries with respect to how citizens made sense of the crisis and how this situation impacted their livelihoods, outlooks, and political engagement. Marco Giugni and Maria Grasso analyse citizens' experiences during the economic crisis, the decline of living standards, and deprivation by structural location, as well as differences in economic outlooks. They also examine the ways in which citizens from different social groups were resilient to the effects of the economic crisis. Moreover, they show how social support and social capital emerging from social relations contributed to resilience in the face of the crisis. This book explores citizen attitudes towards various welfare policies and towards immigration, and it shows how support for populist parties is differentiated within the population. Finally, Living with Hard Times looks at the impact of the crisis on different types of political action, challenging incumbent governments and protesting against austerity policies.

Against Orthodoxy Trevor W. Harrison, Slobodan Drakulic, 2011-08-31 During the Cold War, nationalism fell from favour among theorists as an explanatory factor in history, as Marxists and liberals looked to class and individualism as the driving forces of change. The resurgence of nationalism after the collapse of the Soviet Union, however, called for a reconsideration of nationalism. Against Orthodoxy uses case studies from around the world to critically evaluate more than a quarter century of scholarship. The authors argue that theories of nationalism have benefitted from fresh insights but have also ossified into a new set of orthodoxies. Some scholars characterize nationalism as an outgrowth of modernity; others view it as a European export; and still others see it as the brainchild of intellectuals. The theoretically informed and empirically grounded studies in this volume challenge these orthodoxies and offer new ways to think about nationalism. Collectively, these essays show that nationalism is not a singular phenomenon but rather a generative force reflecting complex historical, political, and cultural arrangements that defy simplistic explanations.
