

WHY DOES GOD ALLOW TRAGEDY AND SUFFERING?

Reflections on the shooting tragedy in Aurora, Colorado

By Lee Strobel

The following is adapted from a sermon preached by author and apologist Lee Strobel on Sunday, July 22, 2012 at Cherry Hills Community Church in Highlands Ranch, Colorado.

It's already being called the worst mass shooting in American history: 70 people shot by a gunman, 12 of them killed, while they were watching the midnight showing of a new movie. It all happened just 21 miles from where we're sitting. There are no words to describe the anguish being felt by those who are suffering today; our heart and prayers have, and will, go out to them. There are so many tragic stories, so much pain. And many people are asking the question, "Why? Why did God allow this?"

This has been a heart-rending summer for Colorado. First came the wildfires, which ravaged the houses of hundreds of our neighbors, prompting many of them to ask the same question, "Why?"

And those two tragic events are just added to the everyday pain and suffering being experienced in individual lives. There's illness, abuse, broken relationships, betrayal, sorrow, injuries, disappointment, heartache, crime, and death. And perhaps you've been asking the question too, "Why? Why me? Why now?"

That "why" question is not a new one; it goes back thousands of years.

It was asked in the Old Testament by Job and the writers of the Psalms, and it was especially relevant during the 20th Century, where we witnessed two World Wars, the Holocaust, genocides in the Soviet Union and China, devastating famines in Africa, the killing fields of Cambodia, the emergence of AIDS, the genocide in Rwanda and the ethnic cleansing of Kosovo. And the 21st Century didn't start any better. There was 9/11 and now the Syrian slaughters, and on and on. Why do all of these horrific things happen if there's a loving and powerful God? Why do bad things happen to good people?

Several years ago, I commissioned a national survey and asked people what question they'd ask if they could only ask God one thing. The number one response was: "Why is there suffering in the world?"

Maybe you've never asked why our world is infected with pain and suffering, but my guess is you will when they strike you or a loved one with full force. And Jesus said they are coming. Unlike some other religious leaders who wrote off pain and suffering as mere illusions, Jesus was honest about the inevitability of suffering. In John 16:33

Christ the Tragedy of God Kevin Taylor, 2018-09-21 Tragedy is a genre for exploring loss and suffering and this book traces the vital areas where tragedy has shaped and been a resource for Christian theology There is a history to the relationship of theology and tragedy tragic literature has explored areas of theological interest and is present in the Bible and ongoing theological concerns Christian theology has a long history of using what is at hand and the genre of tragedy is no different What are the merits and challenges of placing the central narrative of the passion death and resurrection of Christ in tragic terms This study examines important and shared concerns of theology and tragedy sacrifice and war rationality and order historical contingency blindness guilt and self awareness Theologians such as Reinhold Niebuhr Hans Urs von Balthasar Martin Luther King Jr Simone Weil and Boethius have explored tragedy as a theological resource The historical relationship of theology and tragedy reveals that neither is monolithic and both remain diverse and unstable areas of human thought This fascinating book will be of keen interest to theologians as well as scholars in the fields of literary studies and tragic theory
