Müller, 2023-08-28 This publication is the first in a series on HIV AIDS and agriculture in sub Saharan Africa with the overall objective of providing a resource base on issues of rural development in a broad sense in the times of HIV AIDS This first book discusses the impact of the epidemic as it has emerged over the last decades at different levels of the agricultural sector namely the farming system level the livelihood level and the household level In a further step impact on the agricultural estate sector as well as pastoralism is discussed One overarching issue that emerges is the importance of gender attributes to adequately understand and address HIV AIDS impact the topic at the centre of the second part of the series The text ends with a discussion of HIV AIDS in relation to other shocks that befall rural livelihoods It is followed by an annotated bibliography African Youth and the Persistence of Marginalization Danielle Resnick, James Thurlow, 2015-04-10 The much heralded growth and transformation of many economies in sub Saharan Africa over the last decade continues to receive prominent attention in academic scholarship and among policy practitioners An apparent feature about this transformation however is that Africa s youth appear to have been left out This book critically examines the extent and consequences of the marginalization of African youth It questions conventional wisdoms about data trends aspirational goals and common policy interventions surrounding Africa s youth that have been variously propagated in both the development studies literature and in mainstream donor policy reports The book explores macro trends from both a temporal and cross regional perspective in order to highlight what is distinct about contemporary African youth and whether their prospects and behaviours do actually vary from their counterparts in other regions of the world or from previous generations of African youth Such studies include cross country analyses of youth employment patterns and modes of political participation in depth examination of the behaviours and aspirations of the urban youth and critical reflections on the impact of rural employment initiatives vocational education and learnership programmes The incorporation of multiple methods and disciplines as well as its attention to policy issues ensures that the book will be of great interest to graduate students researchers and professional researchers whose work lies at the intersection of African area studies and development studies as well as those focused on development economics political science and public policy and administration Sizonqoba! Uganda Monica Karnhanga Beraho, 2023-08-28 This book was originally written as a doctoral dissertation The research in this book was carried out among banana farming households in the districts of Masaka and Kabarole in Uganda A gendered livelihood approach was used The research focused on the identification of critical factors that need to be taken into consideration in the development of relevant policies for HIV AIDS affected agriculture based households or those that are at risk The book shows that HIV AIDS causes significant negative effects on the lives of those affected Their resources are affected due to HIV AIDS related labour loss and asset eroding effects and disinvestment in production and child education While in the overwhelming majority of the affected cases the effects of AIDS are negative and lead to increased impoverishment and vulnerability for some households HIV AIDS related effects are manageable It is concluded that a household s socio economic status and demographic characteristics influence the magnitude of HIV AIDS related impacts experienced and capacity to cope The book also highlights some historically specific social practices policies and ideologies that continue to maintain or reproduce distinct forms of inequality with certain social groups being marginalized and others being privileged Unless these are redressed they will continue to aggravate people s vulnerability regardless of the type of shock that they are exposed to or experience
