Cooley, 2022-05-16 Conflict is endemic to congregational life Because congregations exist to help us find meaning and purpose we find it difficult to realize that not everyone shares our understanding or approach Many of us have cultural backgrounds that teach us that conflict is bad or to be avoided Conflict Transformation on the other hand treats conflict as an opportunity to learn and grow both individually and institutionally Exploring new understandings of how our bodies and minds respond to conflict Cooley offers concrete strategies for personal growth and healthy congregational functioning Anticipating new conflicts that may arise from recent traumas of pandemic response and political division Cooley offers a way to make painful conversations sources of healing Drawing on over 30 years of experience as a parish minister and denominational official Cooley weaves personal reflections with intellectual theory Each chapter includes discussion questions that make it a valuable resource for group conversation and learning

Music Transforming Conflict Ariana Phillips-Hutton, 2020-11-12 Teach the world to sing and all will be in perfect harmony or so the songs tell us Music is widely believed to unify and bring peace but the focus on music as a vehicle for fostering empathy and reconciliation between opposing groups threatens to overly simplify our narratives of how interpersonal conflict might be transformed This Element offers a critique of empathy's ethical imperative of radical openness and positions the acknowledgement of moral responsibility as a fundamental component of music's capacity to transform conflict Through case studies of music and conflict transformation in Australia and Canada Music Transforming Conflict assesses the complementary roles of musically mediated empathy and guilt in post conflict societies and argues that a consideration of musical and moral implication as part of studies on music and conflict offers a powerful tool for understanding music's potential to contribute to societal change

Transforming Conflict Donald G. Ellis, 2006-04-27 This student oriented book introduces and explains the dynamics of conflict and resolution particularly in ethnic ethno-political and intercultural or intergroup conflicts Providing a basic overview of the elements of group conflict ethnicity identity and diasporas the book also explores the role of the mass media and key ways of using communication principles to understand and resolve conflict It focuses on how to resolve problems by changing relationships and building new patterns of communication not just managing or settling problems through acceptable political agreements Transforming Conflict is a valuable text or supplement for courses in conflict resolution as well as international group or intercultural communication

Transforming Conflict through Insight Kenneth R Melchin, Cheryl A. Picard, 2009-06-05 Examining the difficulties of conflict resolution Transforming Conflict through Insight demonstrates how applying Bernard Lonergan's philosophy of insight to mediation can lead to more productive and constructive negotiations Kenneth R Melchin and Cheryl A Picard provide both an overview of conflict research and an introduction to Lonergan's insight theory offering an outstanding piece of ethical philosophy and a useful method of mediation Introducing readers to a method of self discovery the different kinds of operations involved in learning and the role of feelings and values in shaping interactions with others in conflict this volume also includes the practical experience of mediators who detail strategies of insight mediation for working creatively through conflict Attending to the important role played by transformative learning in navigating conflicts the authors show how insights and learning can move people past obstacles caused by feelings of threat Informative compassionate and convincing Transforming Conflict through Insight is a welcome resource for working to resolve difficulties in an ethical and educational manner Transforming conflict through social and economic development Sandra

Buchanan,2016-05-16 Transforming conflict through social and economic development examines lessons learned from the Northern Ireland and Border Counties conflict transformation process through social and economic development and their consequent impacts and implications for practice and policymaking with a range of functional recommendations produced for other regions emerging from and seeking to transform violent conflict It provides for the first time a comprehensive assessment of the region s transformation activity largely amongst grassroots actors enabled by a number of specific funding programmes namely the International Fund for Ireland Peace I II and III and INTERREG I II and IIIA These programmes have been responsible for a huge increase in grassroots practice which to date has attracted virtually no academic analysis this book seeks to fill this gap In focusing on the politics of the socioeconomic activities that underpinned the elite negotiations of the peace process key theoretical transformation concepts are firstly explored followed by an examination of the social and economic context of Northern Ireland and the border counties The three programmes and their impacts are then assessed before considering what policy lessons can be learned and what recommendations can be made for practice This is underpinned by a range of semi structured interviews and the author s own experience as a project promoter through these programmes in the border counties for more than a decade The book will be essential reading for students practitioners and policymakers in the fields of peace and conflict studies conflict transformation peacebuilding post agreement reconstruction and the political economy of conflict and those interested in contemporary developments in the Northern Ireland peace process From Conflict to Peace. Rehabilitation Process in the Phase of Transforming Conflict - The Case of Northern Ireland

Yusuf Cinar,2018-07-09 The problem of Northern Ireland is a struggle for sharing power between the Catholics and the Protestants The structural and basic reasons of the problem have played a very important role in the evolution of it towards civil war The most important basic reason underlying it is mutual distrust between parties in Northern Ireland On this regard some necessary steps are to be taken for the stability of the peaceful environment established after the conflict The normalization of the society and the making of the relations between groups transparent constitute the rehabilitation process itself Rehabilitation process ensures the continuation of confidence building in schools helps with the matter of winning future generations and also plays an important role in ensuring confidence building in institutions In sum the subject of this study is addressing the contributions of the rehabilitation as the protection of peace to the social reconciliation process as formed by the societies living in Northern Ireland and its continuation by discussing the rehabilitation process with reference to the example of Northern Ireland in the phase of transforming conflict One of the main research questions of this study is to present the contribution of the rehabilitation process on peace within the context of conflict administration. In the first part of this book the stage of rehabilitation in the development process of conflict administration is discussed. In the second part of this book the structural reasons of conflict will be approached and the Belfast Agreement which can be described as a reconciliation document of parties will be analysed. The third part is focused on how the results of the application of rehabilitation activities that are foreseen in the process of transforming the problem of Northern Ireland are obtained.

Communication and Conflict Transformation through Local, Regional, and Global Engagement

Peter M. Kellett, Thomas G. Matyók, 2016-12-13

Central to a transformational approach to conflict is the idea that conflicts must be viewed as embedded within broader relational patterns and social and discursive structures and must be addressed as such. This implies the need for systemic change at generative levels in order to create genuine transformation at the level of particular conflicts. Central also to this book is the idea that the origins of transformation can be momentary or situational, small scale or micro level as well as bigger and more systemic or macro level. Micro level changes involve shifts and meaningful changes in communication and related patterns that are created in communication between people. Such transformative changes can radiate out into more systemic levels and systemic transformative changes can radiate inwards to more micro levels. This book engages this transformative framework. Within this framework this book pulls together current work that epitomizes and highlights the contribution of communication scholarship and communication centered approaches to conflict transformation in local, community, regional, environmental and global conflicts in various parts of the world. The resulting volume presents an engaging mix of scholarly chapters, think pieces and experiences from the field of practice. The book embraces a wide variety of theoretical and methodological approaches as well as transformative techniques and processes including narrative, dialogic, critical, cultural, linguistic, conversation analytic, discourse analytic and rhetorical. This book makes a valuable contribution to the ongoing dialogue across and between disciplines and people on how to transform conflicts creatively, sustainably and ethically.
