The Underachieving Society Development Strategy And Policy In Trinidad And Tobago 1958 2008:

The Underachieving Society Terrence W. Farrell, 2012 This work discusses the effectiveness of the sets of policies employed by the government over a fifty year period spanning 1958 to 2008 in the effort to foster the growth and development of the economy. It concludes that Trinidad and Tobago is underperformed in respect of its growth and development. Compared with other countries more or less similarly placed around 1960, Trinidad and Tobago has not achieved in key areas of health care delivery, education access, and income and wealth, notwithstanding its substantial resources of oil and gas. Historically, Trinidad and Tobago's economy cycles from boom to bust depending on what happens to the price of oil. The carefree undisciplined lifestyle of most of the population is occasionally hand wringing and angst about the sustainability of government fiscal operations. Seemingly bold new initiatives and projects are announced and all the while people wait and secretly hope for a quick turnaround in the price of oil, ammonia, methanol, and natural gas so that rents will again begin to accrue. Government spending programmes can restart and the fate can resume. Trinidad and Tobago will not achieve its potential for development unless and until this cycle is broken. Book jacket Oil and Gas in Trinidad and Tobago Roger Hosein, 2021-07-25 Oil and Gas in Trinidad and Tobago presents a historical economic review of the energy sector of Trinidad and Tobago followed by a detailed evaluation of policies associated with resource abundance and the effects on the economy from various perspectives including industrialization, labor productivity, education, export diversification, and competitiveness. This book utilizes a wide range of statistical data and methodologies to both economically and statistically analyze these issues at hand. The content of this book will be useful not only for policymakers but also for researchers and students interested in the field. Unraveling Race, Politics, and Gender in Trinidad and Tobago's Economic Development Jeetendra Khadan, Inderjit Ruprah, 2024-04-27 This book delves into Trinidad and Tobago's development with a fresh lens. It stands as the inaugural empirical exploration of the country's unique attributes including its diversity, ex-British colony status, small state categorization by population size, and its dependence on hydrocarbons. Through meticulous empirical analysis, this book scrutinizes the nation's economic, social, and political outcomes within the context of these four distinctive parameters, offering fresh insights into the country's development trajectory. What sets this book apart is its unwavering commitment to a data-driven approach. Drawing upon a vast array of databases from both international and national sources, it provides a thorough examination of development indicators, household welfare metrics, firm-level performance, and individual perspectives on a wide range of political, economic, and social issues. For scholars, policymakers, and anyone with an interest in understanding how unique contextual factors shape a Trinidad and Tobago's development, this book offers an enlightening and data-rich perspective on the nation's journey towards progress and prosperity. Managing FDI for Development in Resource-Rich States L. Barclay, 2015-04-28 This book is a timely study in light of the resurgence of resource nationalism that is currently occurring in several resource-rich developing countries. It moves away from the traditional explanations for the disappointing economic performance of resource rich developing countries notably those advanced by key researchers

Xenophobia and Nativism in Africa, Latin America, and the Caribbean Sabella O. Abidde, Michael R. Hall, José de Arimatéia da Cruz, 2023-07-31 This book historicises and analyses the increasing incidence of xenophobia and nativism in Africa Latin America and the Caribbean It examines how xenophobia and nativism impact the political cohesion and social fabric of states and societies in the regions and offers solutions to aid policy formation and implementation Rather than utilising an overarching framework individual theory is applied to chapters to analyse the diverse connections between xenophobia and nativism in the regions The book explores the economic nationalistic political social cultural and psychological triggers for xenophobia and nativism and their impact on an increasingly interconnected and interrelated world In addition to the individual and comparative examination of these triggers the book outlines how they can be decreased or altered and argues that Pan Africanism and the unity of purpose among diverse groups in the western hemisphere is still an ideal to which Africa Latin America and the Caribbean can aspire This book will be of interest to academics in the field of African history African Studies Caribbean and Latin American studies cultural anthropology and comparative sociology

Black Resistance in the Americas D.A. Dunkley, Stephanie Shonekan, 2018-11-02 All across the US in the last few years there has been a resurgence of Black protest against structural racism and other forms of racial injustice Black Resistance in the Americas draws attention to this renewed energy and how this theme of resistance intersects with other communities of Black people around the world This edited collection examines in depth stories of resistance against slavery narratives of resistance in African American Afro Caribbean and Afro Latin American Literature resistance in politics education religion music dance and film exploring a range of new perspectives from established and emerging researchers on Black communities The essays in this pivotal book discuss some of the mechanisms that Black communities have used to resist bondage domination disempowerment inequality and injustices resulting from their encounters with the West from colonization to forced migration
