Barnett, 2015-08-04 Sociologist lawyer Larry D Barnett advances the macrosociological thesis that in nations that are structurally complex and democratically governed concepts and doctrines of law on society central social activities are fashioned by society level conditions not by particular or even prominent individuals Because a substantial body of social science research has found that law in a modern nation does not have a large permanent effect on the frequency of such activities the book contends that the content of law on the activities is a product not a determinant of the society in which the law exists Explaining Law bolsters this contention with several original studies and illustrates types of quantitative evidence that can be used to build a macrosociological theory of law
