Activation or Workfare? Governance and the Neo-Liberal Convergence Ivar Lodemel, Amilcar Moreira, 2014-09-29 The last decade of the 20th century was marked by a shift in how welfare states deal with those at the bottom of the income ladder This shift involved the introduction strengthening of work obligations as a condition for receiving minimum income benefits which in some countries was complemented by efforts to help recipients return to the labour market namely through the investment in active labour market policies ALMP Based on case studies of developments in the US and eight European nations UK Norway Denmark Netherlands Germany France Portugal and the Czech Republic this book argues that this first set of reforms was followed by a second wave of reforms that whilst deepening the path towards the focus on work brings important innovations be it the tools used to help recipients back to the labour markets ex financial incentives and in how activation policies are delivered ex integration of benefit and employment services Looking at the array of developments introduced during this period we discern two key trends The first concerns the strengthening of the role of the market in the governance of activation which is visible in the strengthening of the focus on work or the marketisation of employment services The second concerns a move towards the individualisation of service delivery visible in the expansion of the use of personal action plans or in efforts to streamline service delivery Finally we show that the onset of the sovereign debt crisis in Europe has triggered a new wave of reforms Whilst tentative only our analysis points to a worrying trend of the curtailment or benefits Portugal and activation services Netherlands Czech Republic to minimum income recipients and in parallel a further deepening of the focus on work conditionality UK and Norway

Caring for a Living Francesca Degiuli, 2016-05-06 Today s world is aging at a great speed and although increased longevity represents one of the greatest achievements of the last century the extension of life expectancy does not necessarily correspond to an extension of healthy lives Aging populations particularly those with a high percentage of the oldest old are often burdened with chronic conditions that require extended long term care Deciding who provides said care and in what forms are key problems that will soon affect a growing number of post industrial high and mid income countries Caring for a Living contributes to this debate by exploring the organization of long term care in Italy a country already in the midst of an eldercare crisis There the answer to this problem has taken the shape of home eldercare assistance an arrangement whereby long term care services are bought in the market in the form of private and individualized assistance by families sometimes with economic support provided by the State The providers of these services commonly known as badanti minders are for the most part im migrant women coming from different areas of the world Caring for a Living analyzes the emergence and development of this arrangement and the role that the state Italian families and workers themselves play in shaping and in defining it The author provides timely insights on the nature of long term care and its requirements the specific needs of families facing this issue the changing role of the neoliberal State and the ways in which global political and economic processes influence and shape an apparently individually based solution to long term care This book is ideal for graduate courses in sociology and anthropology specifically in courses related to gender and migration work and women social inequality and immigration studies

Decent Incomes for All Bea Cantillon,Tim Goedemé,John Hills,2019 For more than a decade organizations such as the IMF OECD and the ILO have issued concerns about the trend of increased inequality in rich welfare states while influential thinkers and think tanks have come to agree on at least one central point globalization and technological progress have exacerbated the existing inequities in social market economies Across Europe despite high social spending and work related welfare reforms poverty remains a largely intractable problem for policymakers and the persistent reality for citizens In Decent Incomes for All the authors shed new light on recent poverty trends in the European Union and the corresponding responses by European welfare states They analyze the effect of social and fiscal policies before during and after the recent economic crisis and study the impact of alternative policy packages on poverty and inequality The book also explores how social investment and local initiatives of social innovation can contribute to tackling poverty while recognizing that there are indeed structural constraints on the increase of the social floor and difficult trade offs involved in reconciling work and poverty reduction Differences across countries are however stark which suggests that there are lessons to be learned and policy changes to be applied if the political will exists

Child Welfare Systems and Migrant Children Marit Skivenes,2015 The book examines where why and to what extent immigrant children are represented in the child welfare system in 11 high income countries By comparing policies and practices in child welfare systems and welfare states especially in terms of how they conceptualize and deal with immigrant children and their families we address an immensely important and pressing issue in modern societies

The "Population Problem" in Pacific Asia Stuart Gietel-Basten,2019-06-07 Despite the twenty first century s often being referred to as the Asian Century indicating hope for economic growth and the rebalancing of the global order population aging and stagnation present an existential threat to the success of China and other territories of Pacific Asia namely Japan Taiwan Hong Kong Singapore and South Korea This book argues that the population problem rooted in low fertility has thus far been largely considered in a linear way low fertility leads to population stagnation and rapid aging so fixing low fertility should correct the problem However a multi dimensional lens is essential to appreciating the scale and nature of the issue and indeed to determining whether it is an issue at all Stuart Gietel Basten examines how the issue of low fertility has been constructed how blame has been apportioned and why policies designed to tackle it have yielded few results Drawing on an array of primary and secondary sources as well as examples from scholarly and popular literature The Population Problem in Pacific Asia takes a comparative approach to fertility in the region and locates mainland China in its regional context It serves as a useful resource for government workers stakeholders and students and scholars in sociology demography geography economics and area studies
