Toward A Good Christian Death Crucial Treatment Choices:

Toward a Good Christian Death Cynthia B. Cohen, Episcopal Church. Diocese of Washington. Committee on Medical Ethics, 1999 Ethical legal psychological and spiritual guidance for those facing the challenging issues surrounding the end of life

Faithful Living, Faithful Dying End of Life Task Force of the Standing Commission on National Concerns, 2000-02 An important examination of the theological spiritual and ethical issues surrounding death At the end of a life of faithfulness comes our dying To approach it as faithfully as we have our living calls for some serious forethought Because one of the simplest facts of life that we all die seems like the most complicated thing we do Not only have advances in medical technology saved lives but they also have prolonged death and raise a number ethical moral social and theological issues How far should we go to sustain life Is it right to withdraw artificial feeding from the dying Is it wrong to end the lives of those in pain No matter who we are dealing with these sorts of choices near the end of life is difficult to do on our own Faithful Living Faithful Dying Anglican Reflections on End of Life Care brings together the wisdom of a task force created by the 72nd General Convention of the Episcopal Church to study what faithful living and faithful dying mean today The task force's reflections published for the first time in this book assist individuals congregations and the Church as a whole to disentangle the thicket of ethical theological pastoral and policy concerns

Sin, Cured by Christ Jesse Couenhoven, 2013-08-01 This book is a discussion of responsibility and blame focused and shaped by St Augustine's theology of sin and grace and the controversies that surround those topics. It critically appropriates ideas central to an influential and controversial figure and doctrine in conversation with expert readers of Augustine's recent philosophical treatments of free will and responsibility and a broad array of theological voices. International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences, 2001

Critical Care Ethics David F. Kelly, 2002-06-11 In Critical Care Ethics David F. Kelly describes and analyzes some of the major ethical issues facing American hospitals today and proposes practical approaches by which hospitals may ethically and legally resolve them. The author includes both theory and application in a way which insures accessibility to those without a background in moral philosophy or moral theology. The book's major emphasis is on the resolution within the American hospital of the practical question of forgoing treatment. Its central thesis is that a consensus has arisen in American medical ethics concerning the ethical and legal rightness of forgoing medical treatment in some circumstances. The present consensus is based on three pillars. The first two of these are ethical principles and distinctions arising from Catholic medical ethics which have been generally accepted in American hospital ethics and American law. The third is the development of American law itself. Together these three bases have resulted in general agreement that Americans have the right to refuse treatment for themselves and that with some reservations they have the right to forgo treatment for others as well. These issues are developed in detail including application to the question of medical nutrition and analysis of the decision. In addition there are chapters on pain management ethics committees and the problems of resource allocation. The final chapter attempts to point out some of the difficulties inherent in allocation arguments and criticizes the way in which they are so often made by many ethicists and religious leaders. Moral Choice Dolores L. Christie, 2013 This survey text for Christian ethics through a Catholic lens traces the sources and traditions of contemporary ethical principles, rules, and norms. It uses narrative in reaching out to students who seek to understand themselves as they face ethical decisions. Stories are employed to reflect one's own life and its meaning as well as to prompt moral decision making. The book gives full treatment to criteria needed for ethical decision making that students use in evaluating a series of contemporary issues including abortion, end of life, torture, and others. The book includes numerous pedagogic features including boxes, questions, key terms, suggested readings, and a glossary. Allocating Scarce Medical Resources H. Tristram Engelhardt Jr., Mark J. Cherry, 2002-05-20 Roman Catholic moral theology is the point of departure for this multifaceted exploration of the challenge of allocating scarce medical resources The volume begins its exploration of discerning moral limits to modern high technology medicine with a consensus statement born of the conversations among its contributors The seventeen essays use the example of critical care because it offers one of the few areas in medicine where there are good clinical predictive measures regarding the likelihood of survival As a result the health care industry can with increasing accuracy predict the probability of saving lives and at what cost Because critical care involves hard choices in the face of finitude it invites profound questions about the meaning of life the nature of a good death and distributive justice For those who identify the prize of human life as immortality the question arises as to how much effort should be invested in marginally postponing death In a secular culture that presumes that individuals live only once and briefly there is an often unacknowledged moral imperative to employ any means necessary to postpone death The conflict between the free choice of individuals and various aspirations to equality compounds the challenge of controlling medical costs while also offering high tech care to those who want its possible benefits It forces society to confront anew notions of ordinary versus extraordinary and proportionate versus disproportionate treatment in a highly technologically structured social context This cluster of discussions is enriched by five essays from Jewish Orthodox Christian and Protestant perspectives Written by premier scholars from the United States and abroad these essays will be valuable reading for students and scholars of bioethics and Christian moral theology
