Human Rights and the Care of Older People Maeve O'Rourke, 2024-04-24 Set against the rapid aging of the world's population Human Rights and the Care of Older People explores the potential for the rule against torture and ill treatment in international human rights law to better protect older people from care related mistreatment The book's analysis is broadly relevant but is prompted by the widespread reports of older people's suffering due to lack of access to care and coercion in respect of care needs This includes the deprivation of liberty for care While recognizing that a new United Nations Convention on the rights of older people is on the horizon the book argues that there is a pressing need for older people and all human rights actors to use and progressively interpret the established right to freedom from torture and ill treatment As an interpretive lens the book offers a conception of a dignity violation that may amount to prohibited ill treatment and thus trigger states positive obligations to protect including through systemic prevention measures This book is intended as a tool for advocacy and a call for critical awareness highlighting the anti torture norm's potential for more effective application and challenging current legal barriers to such effectiveness Meant for readers worldwide the book addresses the rule against torture and ill treatment from international law regional European Inter American and African perspectives This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read on Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations

Care of Older Persons Mala Kapur Shankardass, 2024-10-23 This book explores the implications and significant ethical social economic and health challenges that an ageing world population presents It provides valuable insights on concerns related to providing organizing planning and managing care for older persons in both formal and informal settings As the number of older persons increases rapidly around the globe caring for them is a very important aspect of all ageing and aged societies While in most countries the care of older persons is provided informally by family members the changing social scene family structures and work and employment patterns are leading many nations to create provisions for formal care through institutions or paid services of caregivers This book offers perspectives on formal and informal care from countries such as Japan the Netherlands the USA India South Africa and Poland among others The essays in this book underline a rights based approach and focus on ethical social economic health and legal aspects of care as they pertain to the universal phenomena of ageing as well as the specific demographic and epidemiological realities of the selected countries They discuss concerns such as long term care provisions catering to the needs of people affected by dementia providing residential care taking the needs of family care providers into account the growing requirement for paid care workers and channelizing training of both skilled and semi skilled care providers to suit the needs of older people This volume would be of interest to scholars and those working in the fields of sociology health studies age and ageing psychology social work medical sciences nursing and public policy It will also be useful to NGO sector workers administrators as well as grassroots workers involved with the care of older persons

Dementia and Human Rights Suzanne

Cahill, 2018-03-28 The time has come to further challenge biomedical and clinical thinking about dementia which has for so long underpinned policy and practice Framing dementia as a disability this book takes a rights based approach to expand the debate Applying a social constructionist lens it builds on earlier critical perspectives by bringing together concepts including disability social inclusion personhood equality participation dignity empowerment autonomy and solidarity Launching the debate into new and exciting territory the book argues that people living with dementia come within the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and therefore have full entitlement to all the rights the Convention enshrines A human rights based approach has not to date been fully applied to interrogate the lived experience and policy response to dementia With the fresh analytical tools provided in this book policy makers and practitioners will gain new insights into how this broader perspective can be used to further promote the quality of life and quality of care for all those affected by dementia

Critical Multicultural Practice in Social Work Charlotte Williams, 2020-07-16 Critical multicultural practice rather than being a specialism is integral to Australian social work Drawing on critical race theory critical multiculturalism intersectionality and critical reflection as practice theory this major new edited collection challenges many of the dominant assumptions of cross cultural social work and provides instead a new model of transformative engagement Key concepts are considered including identity culture diversity and superdiversity how power and privilege shape everyday interactions and what is meant by citizenship in the contemporary context Part One explores the changing nature of multicultural practice in Australia including our society s changing demographic profile the impact of asylum and refugee migrations race and racism and cultural identity Indigenous perspectives and the relationship with multicultural practice are examined together with the ethical and legal basis for multicultural practice This part concludes with an outline of the editors framework for critical multicultural practice Part Two draws on contributions from a range of practitioners and offers new perspectives on diverse fields including child protection mental health disability ageing homelessness and rural and regional practice Featuring case Global Perspectives on Legal Capacity Reform Eilíonóir Flynn, Anna Arstein-Kerslake, Clíona de Bhailís, Maria Laura Serra, 2018-07-20 This edited collection is the result of the Voices of Individuals Collectively Exploring Self-determination (VOICES) based at the Centre for Disability Law and Policy, National University of Ireland Galway. Focusing on the exercise of legal capacity under Article 12 of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, the stories of people with disabilities are combined with responses from scholars, activists, and practitioners addressing four key areas: criminal responsibility, contracts, consent to sex, and consent to medical treatment. Sustainable law and policy reforms are set out based on the storytellers' experiences, promoting a recognition of legal capacity and supported decision-making. The perspectives are from across a wide range of disciplines, including law, sociology, nursing, and history, and 13 countries. The volume is a valuable resource for researchers, academics, and legislators, judges, or policy makers in the area of legal capacity and disability. It is envisaged that the book will be particularly useful for those engaged in legal capacity law reform processes worldwide and that this grounded work will be of great interest to legislators.

and policy makers who must frame new laws on supported decision making in compliance with the UNCRPD Crime, Abuse and the Elderly Mike Brogden, Preeti Nijhar, 2013-01-11 This book examines and analyses the experiences of older people as both victims and perpetrators of crime Drawing upon a wealth of research from British and North American sources the authors detail the historical experience of the elderly as victims the extent of present day criminal victimisation in the home and institutions the social theories which attempt to explain that experience and the types of resolution available The book also addresses the experiences of elderly people in the criminal justice process the offences to which they are prone and the implications for penal policy of an increase in the elderly penal population Crime Abuse and the Elderly breaks new ground in its focus on the experiences of elderly people as criminal victims in private space its insistence on a proper engagement of criminology with crimes involving older people and in its argument that much so called abuse can be explained criminologically and should be dealt with by the criminal justice system rather than by treatment and welfare agencies It will be essential reading for students academics and professionals concerned with the experiences of the elderly
