Energy Transitions in Central and Eastern Europe Tomas Maltby, Matúš Mišík, 2024-04-04 This book examines the mutual interplay of climate and energy policies in eleven Central and Eastern European countries in the context of the EU s energy transition Energy security has long been prioritised in the region and has shaped not only national climate and energy policy but also EU level policy making and implementation Whilst the region shares economic institutional and historical energy supplier commonalities it is not homogenous and the book considers the significant differences between the preferences and policies of these member states Chapters also explore the effect of the EU on member states that have joined since 2004 and their influence on the EU's energy and climate policies and their role in highlighting the importance of the concepts of security and solidarity The book highlights the challenges to and drivers of energy transitions in the region and compares these with those in global energy transitions

Fuels Paradise John S. Duffield, 2015-06-15 Is the quest for true energy security a fool's errand In recent years the efforts of nations to promote energy security have been hotly debated Fuels Paradise examines how five major developed democracies Britain France Germany Japan and the United States have sought to enhance their energy security since the oil shocks of the 1970s and in response to the more diverse set of challenges of the early twenty first century Drawing on a vast range of primary and secondary sources John S Duffield explains the actions taken and not taken by these countries to address their energy security concerns Throughout the book Duffield argues that state strength and policy legacies are essential for understanding national responses to energy insecurity In addition to identifying feasible energy policies and the constraints faced by policy makers he evaluates the prospects for international cooperation to promote energy security and considers the implications of recent advances in the production and distribution of energy particularly the fracking revolution An ambitious cross national and longitudinal study grounded in promising theories of national behavior Fuels Paradise will contribute substantially to broader debates about the determinants of state action and public policy

Deni, Karen Smith Stegen, 2016-04-08 Recent upheaval in the global energy system dramatic increases in demand led largely by developing countries significant decreases in supply as a result of local or regional conflicts and the growing nexus between the burning of hydrocarbons and climate change has unsettled long held notions of energy security For many years transatlantic cooperation helped undergird the system s stability but Europe and North America have drifted apart in several key ways potentially undermining the search for energy sufficiency surety and sustainability Will the transatlantic partners continue on separate paths in the face of dramatic change in the global energy system or does the breadth and depth of the challenges they confront compel them to work more closely together In this edited volume experts from across Europe and North America including advisors to the executive and legislative branches of both the EU and the United States to senior military commanders and to major international organizations and companies examine the most salient facets of the transatlantic energy relationship and discern whether that relationship is characterized by growing convergence or divergence This book was based on a special issue of the Journal of Transatlantic Studies

Conceptualizing Germany's Energy Transition Ludger Gailing, Timothy Moss, 2016-05-06 This is the first book to explore ways of conceptualizing Germany's ongoing energy transition Although widely acclaimed in policy and research circles worldwide the Energiewende is poorly understood in terms of social science scholarship There is an urgent need to delve beyond descriptive accounts of policy implementation and contestation in order to unpack the deeper issues at play in what has been termed a grand societal transformation The authors approach this in three ways First they select and characterize conceptual approaches suited to interpreting the reordering of institutional arrangements socio-material configurations power relations and spatial structures of energy systems in Germany and beyond Second they assess the value of these concepts in describing and explaining energy transitions pinpointing their relative strengths and weaknesses and exploring areas of complementarity and incompatibility Third they illustrate how these concepts can be applied individually and in combination to enrich empirical research of Germany's energy transition politics By focussing on the specific design features of the instruments used this volume makes important contributions to diffusion theory highlighting how ETS diffusion processes more often have resulted in design divergence than convergence and discussing the implications of this finding for the vision of linked systems in the post Paris era It will be of significant interest to a broad audience interested in the emergence evolution functioning and interaction of carbon markets

Corporate Responses to EU Emissions Trading Jon Birger Skjærseth, Per Ove Eikeland, 2016-05-13 The European Union EU aims to put Europe on track toward a low carbon economy In this striking challenge the EU Emissions Trading System EU ETS has been singled out as the Union s key climate policy instrument ultimately aimed as a model for a global carbon market The learning effect of the EU ETS could thus be tremendous This study explores how the EU ETS actually works on the ground affecting corporate climate strategies It covers general sector responses as well as systematic comparative studies of companies across the sectors The latter enables improved understanding of causal effects and the role of interaction between different policy instruments and other factors that impact corporate climate strategies The study explores a broad set of mechanisms at play potentially linking the EU ETS to company climate strategies These include how corporate norms of responsibility are affected by the EU ETS and how economic incentives provide opportunities for innovation The book s main contribution lies in its systematic examination of corporate responses to the EU ETS from a broad empirical and analytical social science perspective covering companies in all main EU ETS sectors electric power oil cement steel and pulp and paper

Export Pipelines from the CIS Region Andreas, 2014-04-15 This timely collection offers fresh perspectives to the analysis of the New Great Game the fight for access to the Caspian Sea region s energy resources To date the export of the Caspian crude oil and natural gas has only been assessed geopolitically which oversimplifies the political dynamics of the region and neglects to acknowledge the Caspian countries as actors in their own right
