Toward Spatial Humanities Historical Gis And Spatial History The Spatial Humanities:

Toward Spatial Humanities Ian N. Gregory, Alistair Geddes, 2024-06-06 The application of Geographic Information Systems GIS to issues in history is among the most exciting developments in both digital and spatial humanities Describing a wide variety of applications the essays in this volume highlight the methodological and substantive implications of a spatial approach to history They illustrate how the use of GIS is changing our understanding of the geographies of the past and has become the basis for new ways to study history Contributors focus on current developments in the use of historical sources and explore the insights gained by applying GIS to develop historiography Toward Spatial Humanities is a compelling demonstration of how GIS can contribute to our historical understanding

The Spatial Humanities David J. Bodenhamer, John Corrigan, Trevor M. Harris, 2010 Applying the analytical tools of GIS to new fields of research

The Routledge Companion to Spatial History Ian Gregory, Don DeBats, Don Lafreniere, 2018-01-19 The Routledge Companion to Spatial History explores the full range of ways in which GIS can be used to study the past considering key questions such as what types of new knowledge can be developed solely as a consequence of using GIS and how effective GIS can be for different types of research Global in scope and covering a broad range of subjects the chapters in this volume discuss ways of turning sources into a GIS database methods of analysing these databases methods of visualising the results of the analyses and approaches to interpreting analyses and visualisations Chapter authors draw from a diverse collection of case studies from around the world covering topics from state power in imperial China to the urban property market in nineteenth century Rio de Janeiro health and society in twentieth century Britain and the demographic impact of the Second Battle of Ypres in 1915 Critically evaluating both the strengths and limitations of GIS and illustrated with over two hundred maps and figures this volume is an essential resource for all students and scholars interested in the use of GIS and spatial analysis as a method of historical research

A Guide to Spatial History Konrad Lawson, Riccardo Bavaj, Bernhard Struck, 2022-01-07 This guide provides an overview of the thematic areas analytical aspects and avenues of research which together form a broader conversation around doing spatial history Spatial history is not a field with clearly delineated boundaries For the most part it lacks a distinct unambiguous scholarly identity It can only be thought of in relation to other typically more established fields Indeed one of the most valuable utilities of spatial history is its capacity to facilitate conversations across those fields Consequently it must be discussed in relation to a variety of historiographical contexts Each of these have their own intellectual genealogies institutional settings and conceptual path dependencies With this in mind this guide surveys the following areas territoriality infrastructure and borders nature environment and landscape city and home social space and political protest spaces of knowledge spatial imaginaries cartographic representations and historical GIS research

Doing Spatial History Riccardo Bavaj, Konrad Lawson, Bernhard Struck, 2021-12-30 This volume provides a practical introduction to spatial history through the lens of the different primary sources that historians use It is informed by a range of analytical perspectives and conveys a sense of the various facets of spatial history in a tangible case study based manner The chapter authors hail from a variety of fields including early modern and modern history architectural history historical anthropology economic and social history as well as historical and human geography highlighting the way in which spatial history provides a common forum that facilitates discussion across disciplines The geographical scope of the volume takes readers on a journey through central western and east central Europe to Russia the Mediterranean the Ottoman Empire and East Asia as well as North and South America and New Zealand Divided into three parts the book covers particular types of sources different kinds of space and specific concepts tools and approaches offering the reader a thorough understanding of how sources can be used within spatial history specifically but also the different ways of looking at history more broadly Very much focusing on doing spatial history this is an accessible guide for both undergraduate and postgraduate students within modern history and its related fields

Moravian Soundscapes Sarah Justina Eyerly, 2020-05-05 In Moravian Soundscapes Sarah Eyerly contends that the study of sound is integral to understanding the interactions between German Moravian missionaries and Native communities in early Pennsylvania In the mid 18th century when the frontier between settler and Native communities was a shifting spatial and cultural borderland sound mattered People listened carefully to each other and the world around them In Moravian communities cultures of hearing and listening encompassed and also superseded musical traditions such as song and hymnody Complex biophonic geophonic and anthrophonic acoustic environments or soundscapes characterized daily life in Moravian settlements such as Bethlehem Nain Gnadenh tten and Friedensh tten Through detailed analyses and historically informed recreations of Moravian communal environmental and religious soundscapes and their attendant hymn traditions Moravian Soundscapes explores how sounds musical and nonmusical human and nonhuman shaped the Moravians religious culture Combined with access to an interactive website that immerses the reader in mid 18th century Pennsylvania and framed with an autobiographical narrative Moravian Soundscapes recovers the roles of sound and music in Moravian communities and provides a road map for similar studies of other places and religious traditions in the future

Historical Geography, GIScience and Textual Analysis Charles Travis, Francis Ludlow, Ferenc Gyuris, 2020-02-29 This book illustrates how literature history and geographical analysis complement and enrich each other's disciplinary endeavors The Hun Lenox Globe constructed in 1510 contains the Latin phrase Hic sunt dracones Here be dragons warning sailors of the dangers of drifting into uncharted waters Nearly half a millennium earlier the practice of earth writing geographia emerged from the cloisters of the great library of Alexandria as a discipline blending the twin pursuits of Strabo's poetic impression of places and Herodotus' chronicles of events and cultures Eratosthenes a librarian at Alexandria and the mathematician Ptolemy employed geometry as another language with which to pursue earth writing From this ancient East Mediterranean fount the streams of literary perception historical record and geographical analysis phenomenological and Euclidean found confluence The aim of this collection is to recover such means and seek the fount of such rich waters by exploring relations between historical geography geographic information science GIS geoscience and textual analysis The book discusses and illustrates current case studies trends and discourses in European American and Asian spheres where historical geography is practiced in concert with human and physical applications of GIS and the broader geosciences and the analysis of text broadly conceived as archival literary historical cultural climatic scientific digital cinematic and media Time as a multi scaled concept again broadly conceived is the pivot around which the interdisciplinary contributions to this volume revolve In The Landscape of Time 2002 the historian John Lewis Gaddis posits What if we were to think of history as a kind of mapping He links the ancient practice of mapmaking with the three part conception of time past present and future Gaddis presents the practices of cartography and historical narrative as attempts to manage infinitely complex subjects by imposing abstract grids to frame the phenomena being examined longitude and latitude to frame landscapes and occidental and oriental temporal scales to frame timescapes Gaddis contends that if the past is a landscape and history is the way we represent it then it follows that pattern recognition constitutes a primary form of human perception one that can be parsed empirically statistically and phenomenologically In turn this volume reasons that literary historical cartographical scientific mathematical and counterfactual narratives create their own spatio temporal frames of reference Confluences between the poetic and the positivistic the empirical and the impressionistic the epic and the episodic and the chronologic and the chorologic can be identified and studied by integrating practices in historical geography GIScience geoscience and textual analysis As a result new perceptions and insights facilitating further avenues of scholarship into uncharted waters emerge The various ways in which geographical historical and textual perspectives are hermeneutically woven together in this volume illuminates the different methods with which to explore terrae incognitae of knowledge beyond the shores of their own separate disciplinary islands

A History of Place in the Digital Age Stuart Dunn, 2019-02-13 A History of Place in the Digital Age explores the history and impact of Geographic Information Systems GIS and related digital mapping technologies in humanities research Providing a historical and methodological discussion of place in the most important primary materials which make up the human record including text and artefacts the book explains how these materials frame form and communicate location in the age of the internet This leads in to a discussion of how the World Wide Web distorts and skews place amplifying some voices and reducing others Drawing on several connected case studies from the early modern period to the present day the spatial writings of early modern antiquarians are explored as are the roots of approaches to place in archaeology and philosophy This forms the basis for a review of place online through the complex history of the invention of the internet in to the age of the interactive web and social media By doing so the book explores the key themes of spatial power and representation which these technologies frame A History of Place in the Digital Age will be of interest to scholars students and practitioners in a variety of humanities disciplines with an interest in understanding how technology can help them undertake research on spatial themes It will be of interest as primary work to historians of technology media and communications

The Routledge Handbook of Geospatial Technologies and Society Alexander J. Kent,Doug Specht,2023-08-17 The Routledge Handbook of Geospatial Technologies and Society provides a relevant and comprehensive reference point for research and practice in this dynamic field It offers detailed explanations of geospatial technologies and provides critical reviews and appraisals of their application in society within international and multi disciplinary contexts as agents of change The ability of geospatial data to transform knowledge in contemporary and future societies forms an important theme running throughout the entire volume Contributors reflect on the changing role of geospatial technologies in society and highlight new applications that represent transformative directions in society and point towards new horizons Furthermore they encourage dialogue across disciplines to bring new theoretical perspectives on geospatial technologies from neurology to heritage studies The international contributions from leading scholars and influential practitioners that constitute the Handbook provide a wealth of critical examples of these technologies as agents of change in societies around the globe The book will appeal to advanced undergraduates and practitioners interested or engaged in their application worldwide

The Impact of History? Pedro Ramos Pinto,Bertrand Taithe,2015-03-24 Driven by the increasing importance of discussions around impact and its meaning and implications for history The Impact of History brings together established and new voices to raise relevant questions issues and controversies for debate The chapters are articulated around the themes of public history the politics of history the role of history in the shaping of learning and the situation of history in the changing world of education While this subject is driven differently by the research bodies and councils of different countries similar debates about the value and place of the academy in society are taking place in the UK the USA and Europe as well as in other parts of the world Chapters cover diverse areas of history from this perspective including public history national histories new technologies and the natural sciences campaigning histories the impact agenda This collection is a political and intellectual intervention at a time when scholars and readers of history are being asked to explain why history matters and it seeks to intervene in the debates on impact on education and on the role of the past in the shaping of our future Bringing together leading authors from a wide range of fields The Impact of History is an accessible and engaging yet polemical and thought provoking overview of the role
