New Criticism and Pedagogical Directions for Contemporary Black Women Writers is a collection of critical and pedagogical essays that shed new light on the creative depths of Black women writers On the one hand some Black women writers have been heavily anthologized they have more often than not been restricted by critical metanarratives Some of their works have been lionized while others remain neglected On the other hand some Black women writers have been ignored and understudied This collection corrects the gaps in our critical thinking about Black women writers by introducing them to a new generation of undergraduate and graduate students and by presenting pedagogical essays to our colleagues currently working in the field Seed to

Our Mothers, Our Powers, Our Texts Teresa N. Washington, 2005-06-27 Washington writes supple and thoughtful prose and creatively integrates African and African derived terminology which never distract the reader I consider Our Mothers Our Powers Our Texts not only a brilliant study but also a model to be emulated Ouseynou B Traore William Patterson University of Iowa is a Yoruba word that signifies a spiritual power of vast potential as well as the human beings who exercise that power Although both men and women can have j its owners and controllers are women the literal and cosmic Mothers who are revered as the gods of society Because of its association with female power its invisibility and profundity j is often misconstrued as witchcraft However as Teresa N Washington points out in Our Mothers Our Powers Our Texts j is central to the Yoruba ethos and cosmology Not only does it underpin the concepts of creation and creativity but as a force of justice and retribution j is essential to social harmony and balance As Africans were forced into exile and enslavement they took j with them and continued its work of creating destroying harming and healing in the New World Washington seeks out j s subversive power of creation and re creation in a diverse range of Africana texts from both men and women from both oral and contemporary literature and across space and time She guides readers to an understanding of the symbolic methodological and spiritual issues that are central to important works by Africana writers but are rarely elucidated by Western criticism She begins with an examination of the ancient forms of j in Yoruba culture which creates a framework for innovative readings of important works by Africana writers including Zora Neale Hurston Toni Morrison Ben Okri Wole Soyinka Jamaica Kincaid and Ntozake Shange This rich analysis will appeal to readers of Africana literature African religion and philosophy feminist studies and comparative literature

American Science Fiction Jason Haslam,2015-05-08 This book focuses on the interplay of gender race and their representation in American science fiction from the nineteenth century through to the twenty first and across a number of forms including literature and film Haslam explores the reasons why SF provides such a rich medium for both the preservation of and challenges to dominant mythologies of gender and race Defining SF linguistically and culturally the study argues that this mode is not only able to illuminate the cultural and social histories of gender and race but so too can it intervene in those histories and highlight the ruptures present within them The volume moves between material history and the linguistic nature of SF fantasies from the specifics of race and gender at different points in American history to larger analyses of the socio cultural functions of such identity categories SF has already become central to discussions of humanity in the global capitalist age and is increasingly the focus of feminist and critical race studies in combining these earlier approaches this book goes further to demonstrate why SF must become central to our discussions of identity writ large of the possibilities and failings of the human past present and future Focusing on the interplay of whiteness and its various others in relation to competing gender constructs chapters analyze works by Nathaniel Hawthorne Mary E Bradley Lane Edgar Rice Burroughs Philip Francis Nowlan George S Schuyler and the Wachowskis Frank Herbert William Gibson and Octavia Butler Academics and students interested in the study of Science Fiction American literature and culture and Whiteness Studies as well as those engaged in critical gender and race studies will find this volume invaluable

The Elsewhere Is Black Marisa Solomon, 2025-08-22 Tracing the flow of trash and waste from Brooklyn's poor Black neighborhood of Bedford Stuyvesant to the post plantation towns of Virginia's Tidewater Marisa Solomon examines how waste is a mundane part of poor Black survival and a condition of racial capitalism

Science Fiction Damien Broderick, 2018-05-12 Science fiction has often been considered the literature of futuristic technology fantastic warfare among the stars or ruinous apocalypses on Earth The last century however saw through John W Campbell the introduction of science fiction which explores such themes of mental powers as telepathy precognition of the future teleportation etc and symbolic machines that react to such forces The author surveys this long ignored literary shift through a series of influential novels and short stories published between the 1930s and the present This discussion is framed by the sudden surge of interest in parapsychology and its absorption not only into the SF genre but also into the real world through military experiments such as the Star Gate Program

Contemporary African American Fiction Robert Butler, 1998 The book argues that from its very beginnings African American journey narratives are distinctively non teleological that is they typically resist being directed toward an end point in a particular place and instead exult in movement through indefinite space They view movement as intrinsically valuable a process of endless becoming rather than a carefully mapped journey resulting in a completed state of being rooted in a fixed place As such these journeys are a compelling metaphor of the American desire for the new life consisting of unlimited personal development The writers examined in this book offer a unique set of variations on this kind of open journey

Butler: 'Xenogenesis' / 'Lilith's Brood' John Lennard, Xenogenesis retitled Lilith's Brood in 2000 is one of Butler's most important works and comprises the novels Dawn 1987 Adulthood Rites 1988 and Imago 1989 The Notes cover Octavia Butler's life and work the background and structure of the trilogy Black SF in relation to race and gender the tradition of dystopias and the work in genetics that is central to the plot The Annotations pay special attention to the feminist and racial critique of human behaviour and to the scientific and religious themes that develop throughout the trilogy Each of the three novels is dealt with book by book and chapter by chapter An Essay called The Strange Determination of Octavia Butler considers the trilogy's two very different umbrella titles and Butler's unusual use of genetic science especially the discovery of mitochondrial DNA to critique racial essentialism It also argues for her use of cellular organelles as an metaphor for the African Diaspora driven by slavery The Bibliography provides a complete listing of works by Octavia Butler including short stories and work published on line It also has sections detailing works about Octavia Butler and SF and Useful Reference Works

Alien Constructions Patricia Melzer, 2010-01-01 An incisive critical work that looks at Octavia Butler's writing the movies of the Matrix and Alien series and more through a feminist lens Femspec Feminist thinkers and writers are increasingly recognizing science fiction's potential to shatter patriarchal and heterosexual norms while the creators of science fiction are bringing new depth and complexity to the genre by engaging with feminist theories and politics This book maps the intersection of feminism and science fiction through close readings of science fiction literature by Octavia E Butler Richard Calder and Melissa Scott and the movies The Matrix and the Alien series Patricia Melzer analyzes how these authors and films represent debates and concepts in three areas of feminist thought identity and difference feminist critiques of science and technology and the relationship among gender identity body and desire including the new gender politics of queer desires transgender and intersexed bodies and identities She demonstrates that key political elements shape these debates including global capitalism and exploitative class relations within a growing international system the impact of computer industrial and medical technologies on women's lives and reproductive rights and posthuman embodiment as expressed through biotechnologies the body machine interface and the commodification of desire Melzer's investigation makes it clear that feminist writings and readings of science fiction are part
