Women at Work, 1860-1939 Valerie G. Hall, 2013 A major contribution to women's history labour history and economic and social history This book examines three different groups of women in coal mining communities in inshore fishing communities and in agricultural labour It demonstrates how the work these groups undertook was fundamental in shaping their experiences as women in different ways and shows that women's experiences varied within class as well as between classes The book illustrates how mining women despite being restricted to domestic roles created through meticulous housekeeping a power base in their homes and rendered their husbands dependent on them while a minority took so active a role in politics that they were said to be the backbone of the Labour Party how fisher women engaging in a household economy reminiscent of pre modern times exercised great influence on financial decision making through their roles in baiting lines and selling fish and how some single female agricultural labourers exercised considerable autonomy whereas those who were tied in a family economy had little independence Overall the book makes a very significant contribution to women's history to labour history and to economic and social history This is a tremendously useful and relevant book for historians of women as well as social and labor historians Professor Joan Scott Institute of Advanced Studies Princeton University VALERIE HALL is Professor Emerita of History at William Peace University North Carolina

Issues of Regional Identity Edward Royle, 1998 As regionalism assumes new importance in Britain and throughout the EU this work brings together historians and geographers to offer regional perspectives on Britain that avoid both the traditional parochialism of local history and the generalizations of a national approach Atlas of British Social and Economic History Since c.1700 Mr Rex Pope, 2002-03-11 All students of history use maps This atlas is designed specifically to enhance the understanding of British history since 1700 as well as emphasizing social as well as economic change The contributors are all subject specialists who have taught in higher education institutions and a large proportion of both maps and text is based on their own original research The combination of maps and text is intended to illustrate not only historical developments such as the spread of agriculture or the growth of an integrated transport system but also regional contrasts at points in time The end product offers support for those historians who question the usefulness of thinking in terms of national economic histories
