Man Proposes—Rose Disposes Rosemary Mason,2018-05-18 This is a highly entertaining memoir of a somewhat colourful character dispatching husbands lovers murderers and maniacs in various ways and shooting a rapist in the groin surviving to the age of ninety one to write the story of her family's arrival in Rhodesia and their survival through a terrorist war. In 1980 Rhodesia became Zimbabwe and the total collapse of the economy began. By the year 2000 most of the Europeans including all her family had died or left the country and Rose was alone in her house with a pistol for protection fighting off intruders. Best she could finally leaving Zimbabwe to live in Australia with her daughters. Taking what she could fit in her car and the maximum holiday allowance she skipped the country for good. Stripped of all her life's savings in Zimbabwe by the collapse of the economy she considers herself lucky to be alive to tell the tale. The details of some of those encounters are extremely funny.

Education and climate change Samantha Govender, Mncedisi C Maphalala, Dumisani W. Mncube, 2025-06-15. The book highlights the critical yet often overlooked role of education in combating climate change. It advocates for a transformative educational framework that integrates social emotional learning and interdisciplinary collaboration. Traditional education which focuses solely on factual knowledge is deemed insufficient. Instead education should foster empathy, provide hands on experiences and encourage active engagement in climate solutions. The book outlines various ways education can drive climate action such as raising awareness, preparing individuals for green jobs, empowering communities and fostering innovation in higher education. It highlights the interconnectedness of climate change and education particularly for marginalised populations showing how quality education can enhance both mitigation and adaptation strategies while supporting Sustainable Development Goal SDG 4 and SDG 13. Key chapters discuss successful initiatives such as the Keep it Cool Climate Change Education KIC CCE project in South Africa and offer strategies for integrating climate change education into subjects like Natural Sciences and Geography. Ultimately the book positions education as a strategic tool for promoting sustainable development and building climate resilience. New research findings presented in the book connect education to climate change highlighting education as both a tool to address climate issues and a domain affected by these issues. The book integrates empirical evidence, innovative theories and practical examples to ensure intellectual integrity and academic rigour. It introduces a unique framework that emphasises social emotional learning, action oriented teaching and interdisciplinary collaboration. Case studies such as the KIC CCE initiative in South Africa illustrate these concepts. The book critiques traditional models and advocates for transformative approaches to climate education aligning with SDG 4 Quality Education and SDG 13 Climate Action. It also highlights the significance of teacher preparedness, community empowerment, gender equality and innovation providing valuable insights for scholars, policymakers and practitioners addressing the climate crisis.

The Burden of Educational Exclusion, 2010-01-01. School was nothing but a taboo for me concludes Johannah, a young South African, after recounting her life story. Johannah is one of the early school leavers who features in this book. Figures on participation in education in Africa show that despite government agreements and policies developed under the banner of Education for All, this remains a remote goal. In several countries programmes on Universal Primary Education have improved access to education but do those who enter school remain there until they have reached a suitable level Do they acquire enough competences at primary and secondary school to survive the tough daily life in sub Saharan countries What happens to children and young adults who leave school early What measures can be taken to prevent them from doing so This book is based on research carried out in Eastern and Southern Africa by scholars from Africa and the Netherlands who cooperated within the framework of the ESLA project The contributions to this book reflect the exchanges and discussions which took place in this research group initiated by staff of Mzumbe University in Tanzania Uganda Martyrs University and the University of Groningen in the Netherlands The group aims to go beyond figures and uncover the causes effects and stories of the young people involved as well as explore promising new strategies with which to address their needs As early school leaving is not exclusively an African problem a contribution on the Dutch situation is also included The book concludes that exclusion from education has far reaching effects not only for the young people involved but also for the society in which they live The burden of educational exclusion should be the joint responsibility of developing and developed countries The authors hope the book will contribute not only to a greater understanding of the phenomenon of early school leaving but also challenge it in terms of developing policies and programmes that can prevent educational exclusion and support those who already find themselves in such a situation
