State-Building and Multilingual Education in Africa Ericka A. Albaugh, 2014-04-24. This book explains why many governments in Africa are including African languages alongside European languages as media of instruction in elementary schools. It argues that a number of factors have combined to make multilingual education attractive. France has changed its foreign policy toward its former colonies; language NGOs are transcribing more languages and pressure toward democracy makes African leaders look for ways to divide the opposition.

Entertaining Lisbon João Silva, 2016. Entertaining Lisbon explores Portuguese entertainment as a form of negotiation between local, national, and transnational influences on identity. Connecting gender, class, ethnicity, and technology with theatrical repertoires, street sounds, and domestic music-making, author João Silva investigates popular entertainment in Portugal and its connections with modern life and the rise of nationalism. An essential contribution to the literature on Portuguese music, written in the English language, Entertaining Lisbon is a critical study for scholars and students of musicology interested in Portugal and popular and theatrical musics, as well as historical ethnomusicologists, cultural historians, and urban planning researchers interested in the development of material culture. Federal Register, 2000-11

Information Communication Technology and Economic Development Tojo Joseph Thatchenkery, Roger Stough, 2006-01-01. Information Communication Technology and Economic Development provides a quick and broad overview of the Indian ICT sector. With its exhaustive examination of the business management and industrial organisation of the ICT sector, it is a particularly useful tool for any researcher or policy analyst interested in a thorough analysis of the mechanics of the sector and the Indian context within which it operates. Syud Amer Ahmed. Papers in Regional Science. India has become a highly visible participant in the information communication technology (ICT) industry. Since the 1990s it has been one of the fastest growing economies in the world, emerging as the most watched test of global capitalism. The contributors to this volume examine how the ICT-driven development of India appears to have skipped the middle stages of the traditional economic development models and leapfrogged directly to the final stage, whereby growth is mostly technologically driven. Information Communication Technology and Economic Development reveals new insights regarding the complex process of globalization.

It shows how the generation and circulation of intellectual capital in the US and India in ICT have led to greater productivity in the US while facilitating the economic development of India. Most industrialized nations now see the vast intellectual capital based services that India provides at extremely competitive rates as key to their own national competitiveness in the global arena. The contributors' findings suggest that India's ICT led growth will accelerate in the next ten years, launching India as a major global economic power next to the US and China. This provocative and timely volume will be a necessary read for students and scholars of international business, public policy, economic development, management and strategy as well as all those interested in the impact of globalization on national and regional economies.

Philosophy of Meaning I

Geoffroy de Clisson, 2025-04-05. The philosophy of meaning is structured around four main axes: knowledge, aesthetics, ethics, and identity. By engaging with the question of the emergence of consciousness, it examines the logical limits of materialism and reductionism and offers a critique of physicalist monism in favor of a reimagined dualism, one grounded in the discontinuity between matter and meaning, a discontinuity that alone makes possible the emergence of objective discourse. At the heart of this approach lies the idea of an original openness of being to the world, a silent exposure to what is external to it, preceding language, logic, and any form of representation. Three central dimensions of experience can thus be explored on the basis of this primordial structure: aesthetics through music as an immediate access to the articulation between the sensible and the significant; ethics as a fundamental questioning of the relationship to otherness that precedes the normative concerns of morality; and identity conceived as a dynamic dialectic between openness and the gathering of being. These domains are not separate fields but each in its own mode expresses the structure of a radical dualism, the condition for any formal production, any act of thought, and any possibility of understanding the world. Underlying it all is an attempt to reconcile science and humanism through a philosophy of form, freedom, and spirit.
