Engendering Transnational Voices Guida Man, Rina Cohen, 2015-05-04 Engendering Transnational Voices examines the transnational practices and identities of immigrant women, youth and children in an era of global migration and neoliberalism, addressing such topics as family relations, gender and work, schooling, remittances, cultural identities, caring for children and the elderly, inter- and multi-generational relationships, activism and refugee determination. Expressions of power, resistance, agency and accommodation in relation to the changing concepts of home, family and citizenship are explored in both theoretical and empirical essays that critically analyze transnational experiences. Discourses, cultural identities and social spaces of women, youth and children who come from diverse racial, ethnic and cultural backgrounds are explored. First- or second-generation transmigrants are considered legal or undocumented and who enter their adopted country as trafficked workers, domestic workers, skilled professionals or students. The volume gives voice to individual experiences and focuses on human agency as well as the social, economic, political and cultural processes inherent in society that enable or disable immigrants to mobilize linkages across national boundaries.

Transnational Families, Migration and the Circulation of Care Loretta Baldassar, Laura Merla, 2013-09-11

Without denying the difficulties that confront migrants and their distant kin this volume highlights the agency of family members in transnational processes of care in an effort to acknowledge the transnational family as an increasingly common family form and to question the predominantly negative conceptualisations of this type of family. It re-conceptualises transnational care as a set of activities that circulates between home and host countries across generations and fluctuates over the life course going beyond a focus on mother-child relationships to include multidirectional exchanges across generations and between genders. It highlights in particular how the sense of belonging in transnational families is sustained by the reciprocal though uneven exchange of caregiving which binds members together in intergenerational networks of reciprocity and obligation, love and trust that are simultaneously fraught with tension, contest and relations of unequal power. The chapters that make up this volume cover a rich array of ethnographic case studies including analyses of transnational families who circulate care between developing nations in Africa, Latin America and Asia to wealthier nations in North America, Europe and Australia. There are also examples of intra and extra-European, Australian and North American migration which involve the mobility of both the unskilled and working class as well as the skilled middle and aspirational classes.

Transnational Family Communication Sondra Cuban, 2017-09-06. This book explores the struggles that immigrant women experience when communicating with their transnational families through information and communication technologies (ICTs). Sondra Cuban recounts the fascinating stories of sixty female immigrants living in Washington state and explores how gender, social class, nationality and language influence their ICT usage. She addresses the emotional labor involved in interacting with the families they left behind as well as their ingenious communication systems which challenge the existing research surrounding this unique phenomenon. Early chapters of this book detail the current arguments and theories of transnational family communication in order to propose a new model thereof. Throughout, larger questions of global equality are addressed.

Based on in-depth qualitative fieldwork and large surveys, the contributors analyse gender and intergenerational relations from a variety of standpoints and migratory flows. In their examination of family life in a migratory context, the authors develop theoretical approaches from the social sciences that go beyond migration studies, such as intersectionality, the solidarity paradigm, care circulation, reflexive modernization and gender convergence theory. Making Multicultural Families in Europe will be of interest to students and scholars across a range of disciplines including migration and transnationalism studies, family studies, intergenerational studies, gender studies, cultural studies, development studies, globalization studies, ethnic studies, gerontology studies, social network analysis and
