Transnational Nomads Transnational Nomads:

Transnational Nomads Cindy Horst, 2007-12 There is a tendency to consider all refugees as vulnerable victims an attitude reinforced by the stream of images depicting refugees living in abject conditions This groundbreaking study of Somalis in a Kenyan refugee camp reveals the inadequacy of such assumptions by describing the rich personal and social histories that refugees bring with them to the camps The author focuses on the ways in which Somalis are able to adapt their nomadic heritage in order to cope with camp life a heritage that includes a high degree of mobility and strong social networks that reach beyond the confines of the camp as far as the U S and Europe

Nomad-State Relationships in International Relations Jamie Levin, 2020-04-06 This book explores non state actors that are or have been migratory crossing borders as a matter of practice and identity Where non state actors have received considerable attention amongst political scientists in recent years those that predate the state nomads have not States however tend to take nomads quite seriously both as a material and ideational threat Through this volume the authors rectify this by introducing nomads as a distinct topic of study It examines why states treat nomads as a threat and it looks particularly at how nomads push back against state intrusions Ultimately this exciting volume introduces a new topic of study to IR theory and politics presenting a detailed study of nomads as non state actors

We Thought It Would Be Heaven Blair Sackett, Annette Lareau, 2023-08-22 Resettled refugees in America face a land of daunting obstacles where small things one person one encounter can make all the difference in getting ahead or falling behind Fleeing war and violence many refugees dream that moving to the United States will be like going to Heaven Instead they enter a deeply unequal American society often at the bottom Through the lived experiences of families resettled from the Democratic Republic of the Congo Blair Sackett and Annette Lareau reveal how a daunting obstacle course of agencies and services can drastically alter refugees experiences building a new life in America In these stories of struggle and hope as one volunteer said you see the American story For some families minor mistakes create catastrophes food stamps cut off educational opportunities missed benefits lost Other families with the help of volunteers and social supports escape these traps and take steps toward reaching their dreams Engaging and eye opening We Thought It Would Be Heaven brings readers into the daily lives of Congolese refugees and offers guidance for how activists workers and policymakers can help refugee families thrive

Return Migration and Nation Building in Africa Adele Galipo, 2018-11-08 Return migration has received growing levels of attention in both academic and policy circles in recent years as the African diaspora's role in contributing to the development of their country of origin has become apparent However little is known about the lived experiences of those who come back and even less about the ways in which their return shapes socio political dynamics on the ground This book aims to unpack the complexities of migrant transnational experiences as situated in global political and economic processes In particular the book takes the case of the return of skilled and educated Somalis from Western Europe and North America in an attempt to recast the idea of diaspora return and transnational ethnography in a more political light and to show how these returnees are both subject to and generative of important political conditions that are transforming Somaliland society Overall the book captures the complexities of the migrant's position showing that return is rarely permanent and that success comes from perpetuating the transnational stance This book will appeal to scholars of migration diaspora development and African studies as well as to those interested in the Somali case specifically the third biggest community of refugees in the world

Mobility and Migration Choices Martin van der Velde, Ton van Naerssen, 2016-03-03 The crossing of national state borders is one of the most discussed issues of contemporary times and it poses many challenges for individual and collective identities This concerns both short distance mobility as well as long distance migration Choosing to move or not across international borders is a complex decision involving both cognitive and emotional processes This book tests the approach that three crucial thresholds need to be crossed before mobility occurs the individual's mindset about migrating the choice of destination and perception of crossing borders to that location and the specific routes and spatial trajectories available to get there Thus both borders and trajectories can act as thresholds to spatial moves The threshold approach with its focus on processes affecting whether when and where to move aims to understand the decision making process in all its dimensions in the hope that this will lead to a better understanding of the ways migrants conceive perceive and undertake their transnational journeys This book examines the three constitutive parts discerned in the cross border mobility decision making process people borders and trajectories and their interrelationships Illustrated by a global range of case studies it demonstrates that the relation between the three is not fixed but flexible and that decision making contains aspects of belonging instability security and volatility affecting their mobility or immobility Multi-Sited Ethnography

Mark-Anthony Falzon, 2016-04-15 Multi Sited Ethnography has established itself as a fully fledged research method among anthropologists and sociologists in recent years It responds to the challenge of combining multi sited work with the need for in depth analysis allowing for a more considered study of social worlds This volume utilizes cutting edge research from a number of renowned scholars and empirical experiences to present theoretical and practical facets charting the development and direction of new research into social phenomena Owing to its clear contribution to a rapidly emerging field Multi Sited Ethnography will appeal to anyone studying social actors including scholars within human geography anthropology sociology and development and migration studies Transnationalism And CivicEngagement Abdulkadir Osman Farah, 2012-10-25

The question of population migration and Diaspora transnationalism in the age of globalization is an area of social sciences deserving much more attention than it has received This book deals with the advent of new ideological currents based on an assumed Clash of Civilizations increasingly popular in social economic and political discourses In this regard applicable oriental literature on migration and Diaspora formation is comparatively older than what has been produced in the west in recent years thus deserving careful consideration For instance when dealing with transnational communities the concept of qabiil kinship allegiance as a central organizational factor dominates western scholarship Instead this book favors taking both western and non western approaches into consideration in order to achieve deeper and richer understanding of the transnational global Diaspora condition In order to surmount the dichotomy of essentialist versus non essentialist frames the epistemological approach instrumentalized in this work follows an emancipatory method critically engaging both approaches Furthermore the book proposes a theoretical framework analytically connecting western and non western social inquiry Hence we should note Emile Durkheim s scheme of modern society transformation from mechanical to organic solidarity was preceded by Ibn Khaldun s binary scheme distinguishing badawa primitive or pre modern i e symbolizing nomadism loyalty and tribalism from hadara civilization or modern i e symbolizing modernity urbanization and individualism Finally this book empirically examines how a host country s mobilizing political and structural opportunities or lack of them influence transnational Diasporas civic engagement that often include the application of combined formal and informal social economic and political capital in addressing multifaceted challenges emanating from host and homeland environments Global

Migration and Development Ton van Naerssen, Ernst Spaan, Annelies Zoomers, 2008-02-13 The debate on international migration and development currently focuses on South North migration transnationalism remittances and knowledge transfer The potential positive role of migration for countries and regions the emigrants originate from has recently been acknowledged by among others the World Bank United Nations Commissions and the International Organisation for Migration IOM This volume addresses the question to what extent and under what conditions does international migration contribute to local and national development By presenting novel insights and themes on the basis of new empirical evidence from various countries this volume is an indispensable addition to the international discussion on migration Africa's Return Migrants Lisa Åkesson, Maria Eriksson Baaz, 2015-07-15 Many African migrants residing abroad nurture a hope to one day return at least temporarily to their home country In the wake of economic crises in the developed world alongside rapid economic growth in parts of Africa the impetus to return is likely to increase Such returnees are often portrayed as agents of development bringing with them capital knowledge and skills as well as connections and experience gained abroad Yet the reality is altogether more complex In this much needed volume based on extensive original fieldwork the authors reveal that there is all too often a gaping divide between abstract policy assumptions and migrants actual practices In contrast to the prevailing optimism of policies on migration and development Africa's Return Migrants demonstrates that the capital obtained abroad is not always advantageous and that it can even hamper successful entrepreneurship and other forms of economic political and social engagement International Migration and National Development in Sub-Saharan Africa Aderanti Adepoju, 2008 This book focuses on achieving a better understanding of the implications of international migration for national development from the perspective of the sending countries with an emphasis on sub Saharan Africa More specifically the purpose of this volume is to explore 1 current perceptions as seen from the perspective of the countries of origin of the links between international migration and national development and 2 current trends in policy making aimed at minimising the negative effects while optimising the development impact What are the dominant views and policy initiatives in the different countries of sub Saharan Africa It is concerned with the question of how a coherent international migration policy can contribute to the fight against poverty In the book update information is given of migration development nexus in various countries including Senegal and Burkina Faso Botswana and Mozambique Nigeria and Kenya Attention is additionally paid to Mexico the Philippines and the People's Republic of China African Migrations Abdoulaye Kane, Todd Holzgrefe Leedy, 2013 Spurred by major changes in the world economy and in local ecology the contemporary migration of Africans both within the continent and to various destinations in Europe and North America has seriously affected thousands of lives and livelihoods The contributors to this volume reflecting a variety of disciplinary perspectives examine the causes and consequences of this new migration The essays cover topics such as rural urban migration into African cities transnational migration and the experience of immigrants abroad as well as the issues surrounding migrant identity and how Africans re create community and strive to maintain ethnic gender national and religious ties to their former homes

Exiled in East Germany Sebastian Pampuch, 2024-04-22 The presence of Africans in the German Democratic Republic is very rarely thought of in connection with the experience of exile Instead Africans in the GDR are predominantly viewed through the prism of educational and labor migration While such research has undoubtedly produced valuable insights it often fails to adequately account for the implicit Eurocentrism methodological nationalism and anti communist bias inherent in Western knowledge production This study offers a different approach Through biographical portrayal it unfolds the life stories of African freedom fighters who lived in exile in the GDR and ultimately remained in reunified Germany with the main case study being a Malawian activist who was expelled from East to West Berlin Recounting his experiences along with those of some South African exiles chief among them a former medical worker for the ANC's armed wing the study ethnographically reconstructs the multiple entanglements between the Second and Third worlds from the vantage point of the politically displaced within the concrete historical contexts of African decolonization the struggle against the Malawian Banda dictatorship and the struggle against South African apartheid
