Winning The Math Wars No Teacher Left Behind:

Winning the Math Wars Martin L. Abbott, Brian Ferriso, Karen Smith, 2011-07-01 Washington State is about to enter a new phase of the math wars Since the late 1980s the debate over how best to teach mathematics to schoolchildren has raged worldwide among educators politicians and parents The stakes are high To operate effectively in a global twenty first century economy and polity the United states must provide an education in mathematics that is both excellent and equitable In this volume four scholars at the Washington School Research Center WSRC at Seattle Pacific University present original research drawn from statistical studies of state educational data and from thousands of classroom observations carried out by The BERC Group They assess the current state of math education and review its history and development The authors also provide a dispassionate review of the extensive international national and state literature The in depth observational research in Winning the Math Wars confirms that the real issue is neither the approach to teaching traditional or reform nor the type of curriculum If America's goal of educational equity and excellence is to be achieved then math teachers everywhere must be fully supported in developing the specific skills that are ideal for educating all students The authors discussion focus on four principles for improving math teaching and learning fidelity to reform efforts by all involved an emphasis on instruction and instructional tools the critical nature of mathematical knowledge and the need for transformational change Winning the Math Wars is an important book for policy makers school leaders practitioners of mathematics education parents and anyone who wants to make sense of the math wars

Arguing with Numbers James Wynn, G. Mitchell Reyes, 2021-04-15 As discrete fields of inquiry rhetoric and mathematics have long been considered antithetical to each other That is if mathematics explains or describes the phenomena it studies with certainty persuasion is not needed This volume calls into question the view that mathematics is free of rhetoric Through nine studies of the intersections between these two disciplines Arguing with Numbers shows that mathematics is in fact deeply rhetorical Using rhetoric as a lens to analyze mathematically based arguments in public policy political and economic theory and even literature the essays in this volume reveal how mathematics influences the values and beliefs with which we assess the world and make decisions and how our worldviews influence the kinds of mathematical instruments we construct and accept In addition contributors examine how concepts of rhetoric such as analogy and viscosity have been employed in mathematical and scientific reasoning including in the theorems of mathematical physicists and the geometrical diagramming of natural scientists Challenging academic orthodoxy these scholars reject a math equals truth reduction in favor of a more constructivist theory of mathematics as dynamic evolving and powerfully persuasive By bringing these disparate lines of inquiry into conversation with one another Arguing with Numbers provides inspiration to students established scholars and anyone inside or outside rhetorical studies who might be interested in exploring the intersections between the two disciplines In addition to the editors the contributors to this volume are Catherine Chaput Crystal Broch Colombini Nathan Crick Michael Dreher Jeanne Fahnestock Andrew C Jones Joseph Little and Edward Schiappa
