Transforming Government And Public Services:

Transforming Government and Public Services Stephen Jenner, 2010 Stephen Jenner explores a number of key themes that are fundamental to an approach to project portfolio management built on value. He explains how to develop a business case to achieve a desired intent rather than justify a particular solution, create project documentation that is both technically rigorous and gives users a clear understanding of where you are going, treat projects as investments rather than costs, include stage gates with teeth that are closely linked to real performance, plan for success rather than holding people to account for failure, use a single version of the truth principle so there are no arguments about different data. Public Sector

Transformation Through E-government Vishanth Weerakkody, Christopher G. Reddick, 2013 Over the last decade governments in Europe and North America have attempted to improve efficiency of public services through Information and Communication Technology commonly branded as electronic government or e government. Public Sector Transformation through E Government explores the influence that e government has on public sector organizations, the organizational complexities that result and its impact on citizens and democratic society. This book examines e government's potential to transform public services from a theoretical perspective and provides practical examples from leading public sector institutions that have utilized e government as a basis to bring about change. It further investigates the relationship between citizens and government and how they are affected by e government policies and programs. Aimed at students and researchers of public administration, management and information systems, this book serves as a welcome tool for examining and understanding e government and transformational change. Transforming Government and Building the Information Society Nagy K. Hanna, 2010-03-20 Information and communication technology (ICT) is central to reforming governance, innovating public services and building inclusive information societies. Countries are learning to weave ICT into their strategies for transforming government as enterprises have learned to use ICT to innovate and transform their processes and competitive strategies. ICT-enabled transformation offers a new path to digital era government that is responsive to the challenges of our time. It facilitates innovation, partnering, knowledge sharing, community organizing, local monitoring, accelerated learning and participatory development. In Transforming Government and Building the Information Society, Nagy Hanna draws on multi-disciplinary research on ICT in the public sector and on his rich experience of over 35 years at the World Bank and other aid agencies to identify the key ingredients for the strategic integration of ICT into governance and poverty reduction strategies. The author showcases promising practices from around the world to outline the strategic options involved in using ICT to maximize developmental impact, transforming government institutions and public services and empowering communities for inclusion and grassroots innovation. Despite the ICT promise, Hanna acknowledges that reforming governance and empowering poor communities are difficult long-term undertakings. Hanna moves beyond the imperatives and visions of e transformation to strategic design and implementation options and draws practical lessons for policymakers reformers innovators community leaders ICT specialists and development experts Transforming Government and Empowering Communities Nagy Hanna, 2008 A case study of why and how national e leadership institutions e government and e society programs were designed and implemented The book examines the process of building national ICT institutions showing how to design and implement an integrated e government program The book describes how a fund was developed to promote grassroots innovations that leverage ICT to solve problems of rural development and poverty The book proposes national e strategies be grounded in an integrated framework and institutional mechanisms that would exploit synergies and interdependencies among the different e Transforming Government Organizations Ronald R.
