Becoming Other Alex Gillespie,2006-12-01 The research reported in this book is unapologetically Meadian While the work of George Herbert Mead has been of widespread significance and his name is often cited there are in fact few empirical studies that have sought to rigorously instantiate his ideas This is in part because his theory is abstruse and in part because there have been so many divergent interpretations of his theory The point of departure for the present research is a novel interpretation of Mead Mead s core problematic I argue is how to explain self reflection and his answer to this is the theory of the social act The present research is an attempt to instantiate this reading This book puts to rest any glorification of postmodernist belief in the local nature of knowledge and context specificity of human cultural acts as a part of the image of fragmented human lives Human beings are differentiated and hierarchically integrated wholes who regulate their own organization by cultural means This conceptual deathblow to postmodernist ideologies is done here without denying the reality of context specificity In fact all the evidence in this book shows that each and every moment in the touring act is context bound and hence unique Yet there is generality operating upon and creating that uniqueness The author s careful development of theoretical insights George Herbert Mead reached in his self dialogues almost a century ago is a new step in the development of cultural psychology as a Wissenschaft aiming at making sense of the human conditions in its generic ways This itself is an exploring act one that the social sciences need very much at our present time of abundance of fragmented bits and pieces of information about the others that lead us to search for our own unified selves through invention of new ways for touring

Religious Voices in Self-Narratives Marjo Buitelaar,Hetty Zock,2013-07-31 In present day pluralistic and individualized societies the question of how individuals appropriate religious traditions has become particularly relevant In this volume psychologists anthropologists and historians examine the presence of religious voices in narrative constructions of the self The focus is on the multiple ways religious stories and practices feature in self narratives about major life transitions The contributions explore the ways in which such voices inform the accommodation and interpretation of these transitions In addition to being inspired by Dan McAdams approach to life stories as personal myths that inform us about the quests of individuals for a satisfactory balance between agency and communion most of the contributors have found the theory of the dialogical self developed by Hubert Hermans particularly useful Thus the contributions explore the ways in which identity formation is shaped by internal dialogues between personal and collective voices in the context of the specific constellations of power in which these voices are embedded The volume is divided into three parts addressing theoretical and methodological considerations religious resources in narratives on life transitions and religious positioning in diaspora perspective to explore the constructive and interconnected nature of remembering and imagining. Conceived as cognitive affective processes both emerge at the border of the person and his or her socio cultural world. Memory is approached as a functional adaption to the environment using the resources of the past in preparation for action in the present. Imagination is tightly related to memory in that both aim to escape the confines of the concrete here and now situation however while memory is primarily oriented to the past imagination looks to the future. Both are embedded in the exchanges with the social and cultural milieu and thus theorizing them has relied on key ideas from Lev Vygotsky, Frederic Bartlett and Mikhail Bakhtin. Thus this book aims to integrate theories of remembering and imagining through rich empirical studies in diverse cultural settings and concerning the development of self and identity. These two groups of studies compose the subparts that organize the book.

Imagining the Past, Constructing the Future Maria C.D.P. Lyra, Brady Wagoner, Alicia Barreiro, 2021-02-17 This book takes a sociocultural developmental and dialogical

After Piaget Eduardo Marti, 2017-07-28. After Piaget proves that Jean Piaget's work is critical for understanding some of the most current proposals in the study of psychological development. It analyzes Piaget's legacy moving beyond the harsh critiques that have circulated since he lost prominence. It also brings together new developments and research practices that have grown out of Jean Piaget's tradition while providing a retrospective glance into the intellectual atmospheres of different periods at which the contributors encountered Piaget. This book reveals the richness and coherence of the School of Geneva's research during the last decades before Piaget's death. Contributions from scholars who formed part of the School of Geneva during the 1970s and 80s demonstrate Piaget's influence on such diverse fields as infant development, ethnology, neuropsychology, semiotic development and epistemology. After Piaget is part of Transaction's History and Theory of Psychology series.

Striving for the Whole Jaan Valsiner, 2017-09-08. This unusual collection explores the development of ideas in psychology's past and shapes them into a valuable resource for ideas in the discipline's future with particular emphasis on holistic traditions in psychology. Diriwochter and Valsiner focus on developmental holistic psychology as advocated by the second school of Leipzig in Germany. Although largely neglected, this school of thought has provided some of the fundamental ideas necessary for a truly holistic approach in psychology. This volume includes Leibniz's dynamic holism and Ehrenfels' discussion about Gestalt qualities which has generally been acknowledged as a major milestone in the formation of Gestalt psychology. Each chapter looks at the possible future of holistic psychology. Striving for the Whole contains several well thought out discussions on possible elaborations of holistic psychology by contrasting it with Ernst Boesch's cultural psychology, Pierre Janet's theory on emotions and Jan Smuts' holistic approach to personality theory. Discussions of holistic approaches in biology and evolutionary psychology as well as a renewed look at Lloyd Morgan's comparative methodology complete the volume. Striving for the Whole has been written by an international group of authors and will be of interest to students of the social sciences and intellectual history and anyone who wants to dive deeper into holistic approaches that maintain their ties with empirical methodology. It is ideal for graduate and upper level undergraduate courses in psychology.
