Global Pentecostalism: An Inquiry into the Cultural Dimensions of Globalization Matthias Deininger, 2014-02-01

The rapid global expansion of Pentecostal Christianity is one of the most striking religious phenomena in our contemporary world. Today Pentecostalism is by no means some marginal or peculiar denomination within world Christianity. It is not simply a niche product in the global religious market but the most dynamic and fastest growing religious movement within the contemporary Christian world. From Singapore over Brazil to Ghana Pentecostal Christians are historically and presently rooted in many cultural contexts throughout the world. As such Pentecostalism is a religious movement that is both shaped by globalization processes but also a major contributor to the globalization of religion. Until recently social scientific approaches to Christianity have often been informed by a rather selective understanding of Christianity stressing its ascetic components premised on a body spirit dualism and seeing its importance mainly as a harbinger of secular modernity. Hence where Christianity was studied outside the West it has usually been peripheral and viewed as an alien intrusion undermining local cosmologies. However rather than a religious rejection of the world Pentecostalism accommodates to the world and modernity. It transcends locality by promulgating a universal imaginary of the world while at the same time incorporating itself successfully into the socio cultural contexts of any new cultures it encounters. The fundamental fluidity of the transnational Pentecostal network is conducive for its flexibility to react on the enormous upheavals and changes in a globalized world and to accommodate to them in constructive ways. Thus Pentecostalism can be regarded as a paradigmatic case of a glocalized religion: it has the ability to adapt itself to local conditions while maintaining and preserving its distinct religious features at the same time. This study focuses on the different theoretical attempts made to explain the massive global expansion of Pentecostalism and its relation to broader processes of globalization. It discusses to what extent and in what complex ways the Pentecostal movement is interrelated to processes of cultural globalization. By looking at the internal religious characteristics of Pentecostal discourse and discursive practices and their articulations within the external circumstances of globalization it tries to untangle some of the complexities that emerge when theorizing the globalization of Pentecostalism.

Religion, Postcolonialism, and Globalization Jennifer Reid, 2014-12-18 Religion Postcolonialism and Globalization A Sourcebook shows how the roots of our globalized world run deeper than the 1980s or even the end of WWII tracing back to 15th century European colonial expansion through which the modern world system came into existence. The Sourcebook is divided into four sections each with a critical introduction by the editor, a series of readings and discussion questions based on the readings. Canonical readings in religion globalization and postcolonialism are paired with lesser known texts in order to invite critical analysis. Extracts explored include work by Max Weber, Edward Said, David Chidester and Kant as well as political documents such as the British Parliament's 1813 Act regarding the East India Company. Sources range from the origins of the common phrase jihad vs McWorld in the work of Benjamin Barber to personal essays reflecting

Home Across Borders Jagath Bandara Pathirage, 2024-10-08 This book studies how transnational migrants create a sense of home in their host countries It draws on case studies of Sri Lankan migrants living in Australia to argue that home is an existential experience rather than a fixed entity The author looks at how the sense of home arises as a fresh category which is critical in defining one's existentiality in the host society Going beyond the conventional methodological approach of an ethnographer objectivizing other's sense of home into fixed categories the book attempts to foreground the immigrant's articulation of home which evolves parallel to their being It reveals how three important aspects of our lives time space and memory intersect with the trajectories of migration The author also delves into the ways in which migrants engage in building a home as a way of creating materiality in their dwelling practice Unique and compelling the book will be highly useful in studies of diaspora globalisation and transnational migration It will be of interest to students researchers and scholars of anthropology migration and transnational studies as well as sociology and other related disciplines
