Dwell, 2010-04 At Dwell we're staging a minor revolution We think that it's possible to live in a house or apartment by a bold modern architect to own furniture and products that are exceptionally well designed and still be a regular human being We think that good design is an integral part of real life And that real life has been conspicuous by its absence in most design and architecture magazines

And the Garden Is You Michael Taussig, 2024-08-26 A new collection of essays reflecting on the centrality of writing anthropological practice from one of the discipline's most influential thinkers Michael Taussig's work is known for its critical insights and bold experimental style In the eleven essays in this new collection Taussig reflects on the act of writing itself demonstrating its importance for anthropological practice and calling for the discipline to keep experiential knowledge from being extinguished as fieldnotes become scholarship Setting out to show how this can be done And the Garden Is You exemplifies a form of exploratory writing that preserves the spontaneity of notes scribbled down in haste In these essays the author's reflections take us from his childhood in Sydney to trips to Afghanistan Colombia Finland Italy Turkey and Syria Along the way Taussig explores themes of fabulation and provocation that are central to his life's work in addition to the thinkers dearest to him Bataille Benjamin Burroughs and Nietzsche among others This collection is vintage Taussig bound to interest longtime readers and newcomers alike

Architecture of Memory Natalia Romik ,2025-10-27 Architecture of Memory explores architectural disappearance urban remembrance and functional change amid social upheaval Using archival architectural and artistic methods Natalia Romik investigates the spectral architecture of former shtetls predominantly Jewish towns in Central and Eastern Europe before the Second World War After the war these towns were repopulated by people of other nationalities who reused former Jewish properties Today traces of the Jewish populations have nearly vanished from urban reality and public discourse Romik's work seeks to discover new ways to develop abandoned shtetl architecture focusing on Jewish heritage sites like synagogue ruins and ritual baths Through an interdisciplinary approach that merges architectural design contemporary art and Jewish studies Romik's experimental research addresses the complex social issues of former shtetls by combining theoretical discussions with artistic performances and architectural interventions The book documents projects ranging from subtle mirror clad interventions such as the Nomadic Shtetl Archive JAD and Hurdy Gurdy to practical renovations that transform derelict synagogues and Jewish pre burial houses into historical museums and cultural centres These efforts confront the present absence of these towns by merging theoretical discourse with archival research artistic performances and architectural interventions aimed at investigating the lost Jewish communities spectral architecture

Building/Object Charlotte Ashby,Mark Crinson,2022-06-16 Building Object addresses the space in between the conventional objects of design and the conventional objects of architecture probing and reassessing the differences between the disciplines of design history and architectural history Each of the 13 chapters in this book examine things which are neither object like nor building like but somewhere in between air conditioning bookshelves partition walls table monuments TVs convenience stores cars exposing particular political configurations and resonances that otherwise might be occluded In doing so they reveal that the definitions we make of objects in opposition to buildings and of architecture in opposition to design are not as fundamental as they seem This book brings new aspects of the creative and experiential into our understanding of the human environment

Modernism and the Professional Architecture Journal Torsten Schmiedeknecht,Andrew Peckham,2018-06-27 The production of this book stems from two of the editors longstanding research interests the representation of architecture in print media and the complex identity of the second phase of modernism in architecture given the role it played in postwar reconstruction in Europe While the history of postwar reconstruction has been increasingly well covered for most European countries research investigating postwar architectural magazines and journals across Europe their role in the discourse and production of the built environment and particularly their inter relationship and differing conceptions of postwar architecture is relatively undeveloped Modernism and the Professional Architecture Journal sounds out this territory in a new collection of essays concerning the second phase of the reception and assimilation of modernism in architecture as it was represented in professional architecture journals during the period of postwar reconstruction 1945 1968 Professional architecture journals are often seen as conduits of established facts and knowledge The role mainstream publications play however in establishing movements trends or debates tends to be undervalued In the context of the complex undertaking of postwar reconstruction the shortage of resources political uncertainty and the biographical complexities of individual architects the chapters on key European architecture journals collected here reveal how modernist architecture and its discourse was perceived and disseminated in different European countries

Non-discursive Rhetoric Joddy Murray, 2009-01-14 Technological advances have the potential to create new languages unlike printed or spoken words The increased textual complexity generated by sophisticated graphics photos hypermedia film typography and other modes of expression requires a theory of language and symbolization that accommodates emotion ambiguity simultaneity and layers of dynamic meaning In Non discursive Rhetoric Joddy Murray uses concepts from philosophy rhetorical theory and recent advances in neuroscience to develop a model of composing that connects contemporary writing practices technology and image functions within the mind The theory and classroom practices presented here provide tools for writing teachers to help students compose various hybridized multimodal texts Murray highlights the significance for student composition of the relationships among emotions images and argumentation and demonstrates the importance of considering the rhetorical dimensions of design choices in multimodal composition

Walter Benjamin and the Architecture of Modernity Andrew Benjamin, Charles Rice, 2009 Walter Benjamin is universally recognised as one of the key thinkers of modernity his writings on politics language literature media theology and law have had an incalculable influence on contemporary thought Yet the problem of architecture in and for Benjamin's work remains relatively underexamined Does Benjamin's project have an architecture and if so how does this architecture affect the explicit propositions that he offers us In what ways are Benjamin's writings centrally caught up with architectural concerns from the redevelopment of major urban centres to the movements that individuals can make within the new spaces of modern cities How can Benjamin's theses help us to understand the secret architectures of the present This volume takes up the architectural challenge in a number of innovative ways collecting essays by both well known and emerging scholars on time in cinema the problem of kitsch the design of graves and tombs the orders of road signs childhood experience in modern cities and much more Engaged interdisciplinary bristling with insights the essays in this collection will constitute an indispensable supplement to the work of Walter Benjamin as well as providing a guide to some of the obscurities of our own present Unpacking My Library Walter Benjamin, 2022-08 I fully realize that my discussion of the mental climate of collecting will confirm many of you in your conviction that this passion is behind the times in your distrust of the collector type Nothing is further from my mind than to shake either your conviction or your distrust Walter Benjamin was one of the great cultural critics of the twentieth century In Unpacking My Library he offers a strikingly personal meditation on his career as a book collector and on the strange relations that spring up between objects and their owners Witty erudite and often moving this book will resonate with bibliophiles of all kinds Eris Gems make available in the form of beautifully produced saddle stitched booklets a series of outstanding short works of fiction and non fiction The Routledge

Designing the Centennial Bruno Giberti, 2021-03-17 The 1876 United States Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia was not only the United States first important world s fair it signaled significant changes in the very shape of knowledge Quarrels between participants in the exhibition represented a greater conflict as the world transitioned between two different kinds of modernity the Enlightenment of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the High Modern period of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries At the center of this movement was a shift in the perceived relationship between seeing and knowing and in the perception of what makes an object valuable its usefulness as a subject of study and learning versus its ability to be bought and sold on the market Arguments over design of the Centennial reflected these opposing viewpoints Initial plans were rigidly structured dividing the exhibits by country and type But as some exhibitors became more interested in the preferences of their audience they adopted a more modern stance Objects traditionally displayed in isolated glass boxes were placed in fictive context the necklace draped over a mannequin the vase set on a table in a model room As a result the audience could more easily perceive these items as commodities suitable for their own environments and the fair as a place to find ideas for a material lifestyle Designing the Centennial is a vital first look at the design process and the nature of the display Bruno Giberti uses official reports of the U S Centennial Commission and photographs of the Centennial Photographic

Company as well as the ephemera of the exhibition and literary accounts in books magazines and newspapers to illuminate how the 1876 fair revealed changes to come in future world s fairs museums department stores and in the nature of display itself Setting the Record Straight Colin Symes,2004-11-29 The words surrounding music influence how we listen to it

Echoes: Writers in Kyoto Anthology 2017 John Dougill,Amy Chavez,Mark Richardson,2018-01-07 This anthology collects writings by established and new writers associated with Kyoto The contents range widely from fiction to non fiction an extract from a novel a short story and a fantasy articles on child rearing ceramics the tokonoma and the spirit of rocks contemporary free verse poetry with a Taoist flavor and new translations of Basho Also included are three winning entries from the Writers in Kyoto Competition and two longer pieces about that giant of Japanology Lafcadio Hearn who continues to cast a shadow more than a hundred years after his death Rounding out the anthology is an essay by Alex Kerr leading commentator on present day Japan together with illustrations by award winning designer John Einarsen Losing Site Dr Shelley Hornstein,2013-06-28 As Ruskin suggests in his Seven Lamps of Architecture We may live without architecture and worship without her but we cannot remember without her We remember best when we experience an event in a place But what happens when we leave that place or that place no longer exists This book addresses the relationship between memory and place and asks how architecture captures and triggers memory It explores how architecture exists as a material object and how it registers as a place that we come to remember beyond the physical site itself It questions what architecture is in the broadest sense assuming that it is not simply buildings Rather architecture is considered to be the mapping of physical mental or emotional space The idea that we are all architects in some measure as we actively organize and select pathways and markers within space is central to this book s premise Each chapter provides a different example of the manifold ways in which the physical place of architecture is curated by the architecture in our mental space our imaginary toolbox when we think of a place and look at a photograph or visit a site and describe it later or send a postcard By connecting architecture with other disciplines such as geography visual culture sociology and urban studies as well as the fine and performing arts this book puts forward the idea that a conversation about architecture is not exclusively about formal isolated buildings but instead must be deepened and broadened as spatialized visualizations and experiences of place The Aura of the Word in the Early Age of Print (1450-1600) Jessica Buskirk,Samuel Mareel,2017-07-05 Did the invention of movable type change the way that the word was perceived in the early modern period In his groundbreaking essay The Work of Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction the cultural critic Walter Benjamin argued that reproduction drains the image of its aura by which he means the authority that a work of art obtains from its singularity and its embeddedness in a particular context The central question in The Aura of the Word in the Early Age of Print 1450 1600 is whether the dissemination of text through print had a similar effect on the status of the word in the early modern period In this volume contributors from a variety of fields look at manifestations of the early modern word in English French Latin Dutch German and Yiddish as entities whose significance derived not simply from their semantic meaning but also from their relationship to their material support to the physical context in which they are located and to the act of writing itself Rather than viewing printed text as functional and lacking in materiality contributors focus on how the placement of a text could affect its meaning and significance The essays also consider the continued vitality of pre printing press kinds of text such as the illuminated manuscript and how new practices such as the veneration of handwriting sprung up in the wake of the invention of movable type

The Aura of the Word in the Early Age of Print (1450?600) Samuel Mareel, 2017-07-05 Did the invention of movable type change the way that the word was perceived in the early modern period In his groundbreaking essay The Work of Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction the cultural critic Walter Benjamin argued that reproduction drains the image of its aura by which he means the authority that a work of art obtains from its singularity and its embeddedness in a particular context The central question in The Aura of the Word in the Early Age of Print 1450 1600 is whether the dissemination of text through print had a similar effect on the status of the word in the early modern period In this volume contributors from a variety of fields look at manifestations of the early modern word in English French Latin Dutch German and Yiddish as entities whose significance derived not simply from their semantic meaning but also from their relationship to their material support to the physical context in which they are located and to the act of writing itself Rather than viewing printed text as functional and lacking in materiality contributors focus on how the placement of a text could affect its meaning and significance The essays also consider the continued vitality of pre printing press kinds of text such as the illuminated manuscript and how new practices such as the veneration of handwriting sprung up in the wake of the invention of movable type

Shakespeare, Performance and the Archive Barbara Hodgdon, 2015-10-23 Shakespeare Performance and the Archive is a groundbreaking and movingly written exploration of what remains when actors evacuate the space and time of performance An analysis of leftovers it moves between tracking the politics of what is consciously archived and the politics of visible and invisible theatrical labour to trace the persistence of performance In this fascinating volume Hodgdon considers how documents material objects sketches drawings and photographs explore scenarios of action and behaviour and embodied practices Rather than viewing these leftovers as indexical signs of a theatrical past Hodgdon argues that the work they do is neither strictly archival nor documentary but performative that is they serve as sites of re performance Shakespeare Performance and the Archive creates a deeply materialized historiography of performance and attempts to make that history do something entirely new Barbara Hodgdon is Professor of English at the University of Michigan now retired Her major interest is in theatrical performances especially performed Shakespeare She is the author of The End Crowns All The Shakespeare Trade and most recently the Arden edition of The Taming of the Shrew
