

The background of the cover is a painting of a young woman with long, wavy brown hair, wearing a green headscarf and a dark brown coat. She is looking upwards and to the right with a hopeful expression. She is holding onto a wooden railing, likely part of a ship. In the background, the Statue of Liberty is visible on the right side, and the sky is a mix of light blue and white clouds.

Around the World with Historical Fiction and Folktales Beth Bartleson Zarian, 2004-06-28 As more school districts undergo the painstaking task of curriculum integration, resources that offer children an opportunity to live vicariously in times and places they cannot experience any other way become increasingly necessary. Whether two teachers are covering the same topic in separate classes (e.g., English and history) or designing a thematic unit with the school librarian, this book will assist all parties in the selection of high-quality literature. In this handy guide to nearly 800 award-winning historical fiction for Kindergarten through 8th grade, Beth Zarian literally spans the globe. Entries are first divided into three sections: American history, world history, and myths and folklore; then chronologically from prehistoric times to present day; and finally by grade level. Each entry is accompanied by a short annotation. For anyone wishing to teach historical facts in an entertaining way, Around the World with Historical Fiction and Folktales is the only way to travel.

Irish Children's Literature and Culture Keith O'Sullivan, Valerie Coghlan, 2011-03-17 What constitutes a national literature is rarely straightforward, and it is especially complex when discussing writing for young people in an Irish context. Until recently, there was only a slight body of work that could be classified as Irish children's literature, whatever the parameters in comparison with Ireland's contribution to adult literature in the twentieth century. This volume looks critically at Irish writing for children from the 1980s to the present, examining the work of many writers and illustrators and engaging with all the major forms and genres. Topics include the gothic, the speculative, picturebooks, poetry, post-colonial discourse, identity, and ethnicity, and globalization. Modern Irish children's literature is also contextualized in relation to Irish mythology and earlier writings, thereby demonstrating the complexity of this fascinating area. The contributors, who are leading experts in their fields, examine a range of texts in relation to contemporary literary and cultural theory and also in relation to writing for adults, thereby inviting a consideration of how well writing for a young audience can compare with writing for an adult one. This groundbreaking work is essential reading for all interested in Irish literature, childhood, and children's literature.

Looking Forward, Looking Back Jana Pohl, 2011 How is the life-altering event of migration narrated for children, especially if it was caused by anti-Semitism and poverty? What of the country of origin is remembered, and what is forgotten, and what of the target country when the migration is imagined there a century later? Looking Forward, Looking Back examines today's representation of Jewish mass migration from Eastern Europe to America around the turn of the last century. It explores the collective story that emerges when American authors look back at this exodus from an Eastern European home to a new one.

to be established in America Focusing on children s literature it investigates a wide range of texts including young adult literature as well as picture books and hence sheds light on the dynamics of the verbal and the visual in generating images of the self and other the familiar and the strange This book is of interest to scholars in the field of imagology children s literature cultural studies American studies Slavic studies and Jewish studies Promoting a Global Community
