Unsettling Narratives Postcolonial Readings Of Childrens Literature:

Unsettling Narratives Clare Bradford, 2007-04-26 Children's books seek to assist children to understand themselves and their world. Unsettling Narratives: Postcolonial Readings of Children's Literature demonstrates how settler society texts position child readers as citizens of postcolonial nations, how they represent the colonial past to modern readers, what they propose about race relations, and how they conceptualize systems of power and government. Clare Bradford focuses on texts produced since 1980 in Canada, the United States, Australia, and New Zealand, and includes picture books, novels, and films by Indigenous and non-Indigenous publishers and producers. From extensive readings, the author focuses on key works to produce a thorough analysis rather than a survey. Unsettling Narratives opens up an area of scholarship and discussion, the use of postcolonial theories relatively new to the field of children's literature, and demonstrates that many texts recycle the colonial discourses naturalized within mainstream cultures. Kipling's Children's Literature Sue Walsh, 2010. Despite

Kipling's popularity as an author and his standing as a politically controversial figure, much of his work has remained relatively unexamined due to its categorization as children's literature. Sue Walsh challenges the apparently clear division between children's and adult literature, suggesting new directions for postcolonial and childhood studies and interrogating the way biographical criticism on children's literature in particular has tended to supersede and obstruct other kinds of readings. Space and Place in Children's Literature, 1789 to the Present Maria Sachiko Cecire, Hannah Field, Malini Roy, 2016-03-09. Focusing on questions of space and locale in children's literature, this collection explores how metaphorical and physical space can create landscapes of power, knowledge, and identity in texts from the early nineteenth century to the present. The collection is comprised of four sections that take up the space between children and adults: the representation of real world places, fantasy travel and locales, and the physical space of the children's book as object. In their essays, the contributors analyze works from a range of sources and traditions by authors such as Sylvia Plath, Maria Edgeworth, Gloria Anzaldúa, Jenny Robson, C. S. Lewis, Elizabeth Knox, and Claude Ponti. While maintaining a focus on how location and spatiality aid in defining the child's relationship to the world, the essays also address themes of borders, displacement, diaspora, exile, fantasy, gender, history, home, leaving, and homecoming, hybridity, mapping, and metatextuality. With an epilogue by Philip Pullman in which he discusses his own relationship to image and locale, this collection is also a valuable resource for understanding the work of this celebrated author of children's literature. Contemporary Children's Literature and Film

Kerry Mallan, 2011-07-13. Bringing together leading and emerging scholars, this book argues for the significance of theory for reading texts written and produced for young people. Integrating perspectives from across feminism, ecocriticism, postcolonialism, and poststructuralism, it demonstrates how these inform approaches to a range of contemporary literature and film. Discourses of Postcolonialism in Contemporary British Children's Literature Blanka Grzegorzczuk, 2014-10-03. This book considers how contemporary British children's books engage with some of the major cultural debates of recent years and how they resonate with the current preoccupations and tastes of the white mainstream British reading public A central assumption of this volume is that Britain's imperial past continues to play a key role in its representations of race identity and history The insistent inclusion of questions relating to colonialism and power structures in recent children's novels exposes the complexities and contradictions surrounding the fictional treatment of race relations and ethnicity Postcolonial children's literature in Britain has been inherently ambivalent since its cautious beginnings it is both transgressive and authorizing both undercutting and excluding Grzegorzczuk considers the ways in which children's fictions have worked with and against particular ideologies of race The texts analyzed in this collection portray ethnic minorities as complex hybrid products of colonialism global migrations and the ideology of multiculturalism By examining the ideological content of these novels Grzegorzczuk demonstrates the centrality of the colonial past to contemporary British writing for the young

Children's Literature and Culture Rebecca Rowe, 2025-08-08 Children's Literature and Culture An Introduction guides readers in the study of culture in and around children's literature Children's literature has long been used as a mechanism by which a culture passes its values from one generation to the next Because of this culturally didactic purpose children's literature can be viewed as one of the most fruitful areas of study of any given culture At the same time studying the cultures from which works of children's literature emerge and in which they circulate can also help better understand not only the ideas of childhood that underpin individual texts for children but the role they play in the construction and transmission of different cultural ideologies This book teaches readers this double work of using culture to understand children's literature and vice versa This volume traces the scholarly methodologies and histories that have attended the study of each of the 20 chapters given subject from the representation of race in and around children's literature to questions of censorship to how libraries can and do shape children's literature In the process it prepares readers to confidently enter and forward scholarly debates and to teach such debates to their own students

Handbook of Research on Children's and Young Adult Literature Shelby Wolf, Karen Coats, Patricia Enciso, Christine Jenkins, 2011-04-27 This multidisciplinary handbook pulls together in one volume the research on children's and young adult literature which is currently scattered across three intersecting disciplines education English and library and information science

(Re)imagining the World Yan Wu, Kerry Mallan, Roderick McGillis, 2013-06-18 Re Imagining the world Children's Literature's Response to Changing Times considers how writers of fiction for children imagine the world not one universal world but different worlds imaginary strange familiar even monstrous worlds The chapters in this collection discuss how fiction for children engages with some of the changes brought about by new technologies information literacy consumerism migration politics different family structures cosmopolitanism new and old monsters They also invite us to think about how memory shapes our understanding of the past and how fiction engages our emotions our capacity to empathise and our desire to discover and what the future may hold The contributors bring different perspectives from education postcolonial studies literary criticism cultural studies childhood studies postmodernism and the social sciences With a wide coverage of texts from different countries and scholarly and lively discussions this collection is itself a testament to the power of the human imagination and the significance of children's literature in the education of young people insight into the social economic and cultural conditions prevalent in colonial societies Island of the Blue Dolphins Scott O'Dell, Sara L. Schwebel, 2016-10-04 This is the first authoritative edition of one of the most significant children's books of the twentieth century Winner of the 1961 Newbery Medal Island of the Blue Dolphins tells the story of a girl left alone for eighteen years in the aftermath of violent encounters with Europeans on her home island off the coast of Southern California This special edition includes two excised chapters published here for the first time as well as a critical introduction and essays that offer new background on the archaeological legal and colonial histories of Native peoples in California Sara L. Schwebel explores the composition history and editorial decisions made by author Scott O'Dell that ensured the success of Island of the Blue Dolphins at a time when second wave feminism the civil rights movement and multicultural education increasingly influenced which books were taught This edition also considers how readers might approach the book today when new archaeological evidence is emerging about the Lone Woman of San Nicolas Island on whom O'Dell's story is based and Native peoples are engaged in the reclamation of indigenous histories and ongoing struggles for political sovereignty
