Urban Health Combating Disparities With Local Data:

Urban Health Steven Whitman, Ami Shah, Maureen Benjamins, 2011 The 1980s opened a discussion of the varying nature of health in different segments of the United States Falling under the rubric of health disparities a great deal of research has been published demonstrating the substantial differences in health status within a population The causes of health disparities are varied and not always clear but most researchers agree that disparities are a reflection of social and economic inequities and political injustice One of the obstacles to addressing disparities is the lack of meaningful health data especially for vulnerable populations which is often nonexistent despite being a critical factor for informing health programs and policies at the local level This book provides a model for combating health disparities by describing how the authors gathered local health information engaged the community at every step of the process and created movement toward evidence based sustainable change This book describes how a landmark health survey in Chicago generated dramatic data that are allowing investigators throughout the city to move from data to action and from observation to intervention In providing a detailed description of how the community focused collection and analysis of health data can serve as an impetus for improved well being Urban Health is an invaluable resource for researchers community groups students and professionals Handbook of Health Survey Methods Timothy P. Johnson, 2014-10-13 A comprehensive guidebook to the current methodologies and practices used in health surveys A unique and self contained resource Handbook of Health Survey Methods presents techniques necessary for confronting challenges that are specific to health survey research The handbook guides readers through the development of sample designs data collection procedures and analytic methods for studies aimed at gathering health information on general and targeted populations The book is organized into five well defined sections Design and Sampling Issues Measurement Issues Field Issues Health Surveys of Special Populations and Data Management and Analysis Maintaining an easy to follow format each chapter begins with an introduction followed by an overview of the main concepts theories and applications associated with each topic Finally each chapter provides connections to relevant online resources for additional study and reference The Handbook of Health Survey Methods features 29 methodological chapters written by highly qualified experts in academia research and industry A treatment of the best statistical practices and specific methodologies for collecting data from special populations such as sexual minorities persons with disabilities patients and practitioners Discussions on issues specific to health research including developing physical health and mental health measures collecting information on sensitive topics sampling for clinical trials collecting biospecimens working with proxy respondents and linking health data to administrative and other external data sources Numerous real world examples from the latest research in the fields of public health biomedicine and health psychology Handbook of Health Survey Methods is an ideal reference for academics researchers and practitioners who apply survey methods and analyze data in the fields of biomedicine public health epidemiology and biostatistics The handbook is also a useful supplement for upper undergraduate and graduate level courses on survey methodology

Unequal Cities Maureen R. Benjamins, Fernando G. De Maio, 2021-09-07 Across the United States Black people have shorter life expectancies than white people reflecting structural racism and deep rooted drivers of population health But are some cities more equal than others The elimination of racial and ethnic inequities differences that are avoidable unnecessary and unfair has been one of the overarching health related goals of the United States for decades Yet dramatic differences in health outcomes between Black people and white people persist rooted in structural and social determinants of health Nationally a Black baby can expect to live four years less than a white baby But mortality outcomes and inequities vary widely across cities In Washington DC for example the average life expectancy for Blacks is twelve years less than that of whites But in other cities mortality differences between races are less striking or nonexistent If health equity can be achieved in some cities why not all This is arguably the most important health equity issue of our time In Unequal Cities Maureen R Benjamins and Fernando G De Maio gather a team of experts to explore these racial inequities as well as the ten year gap in life expectancy between our healthiest and unhealthiest big cities Rigorous analyses give readers access to previously unavailable data on life expectancy mortality from leading causes of death and related Black white inequities for the country's 30 biggest cities The theoretically grounded essays also explore how characteristics of cities including their levels of income inequality and racial segregation impact overall health and Black white inequities The first book to specifically examine racial health inequities within and across US cities Unequal Cities offers a social justice framework for addressing the newly identified inequities as well as specific case studies to help public health advocates civic leaders and other stakeholders envision the steps needed to improve their cities current health outcomes and achieve racial equity A powerful call to action for health equity advocates and city leaders alike this book is essential reading Contributors David Ansell Darlene Oliver Hightower Jana Hirschtick Sharon Homan Ayesha Jaco Emily LaFlamme Brittney S Lange Maia Kristin Monnard Nikhil G Prachand Pamela T Roesch Michael Rozier Nazia Saiyed Eve Shapiro Abigail Silva Venu Verma the West Side United Metrics Working Group Ruqaiijah Yearby

Sustainable Development Goals and Urban Health Abraham R. Matamanda, Verna Nel, 2024-09-28 The main aim of this book is to understand the interplay between the SDGs and urban health This is a critical issue in cities considering the complexity of health issues and how they transcend most SDGs However the SDGs are premised on a broad set of generalised indicators and targets Simultaneously local contexts differ thus a one size fits all understanding of urban health problems is not helpful Therefore the SDGs require Health in All Policies HiAP an approach to public policy across sectors that systematically takes into account the health implications of decisions seeks synergies and avoids harmful health impacts to improve population health and health equity Ramirez Rubio et al 2019 In applying the HiAP concept this book adopts a case study approach and considers the poor neighborhoods of a South African city specifically Bloemfontein part of the Mangaung Metropolitan Municipality Each chapter presented in the book considers a particular SDG and how that goal relates to urban health

Urban Ills Carol Camp Yeakey, Vetta L. Sanders Thompson, Anjanette Wells, 2013-12-13 Urban Ills Twenty First Century Complexities of Urban Living in Global Contexts is a collection of original research focused on critical challenges and dilemmas to living in cities Volume 2 is devoted to the myriad issues involving urban health and the dynamics of urban communities and their neighborhoods The editors define the ecology of urban living as the relationship and adjustment of humans to a highly dense diverse and complex environment This approach examines the nexus between the distribution of human groups with reference to material resources and the consequential social political economic and cultural patterns which evolve as a result of the sufficiency or insufficiency of those material resources They emphasize the most vulnerable populations suffering during and after the recession in the United States and around the world and the chapters examine traditional issues of housing and employment with respect to these communities

The Death Gap David A. Ansell, MD, David A. Ansell, 2021-06-16 We hear plenty about the widening income gap between the rich and the poor in America and about the expanding distance separating the haves and the have nots But when detailing the many things that the poor have not we often overlook the most critical their health The poor die sooner Blacks die sooner And poor urban blacks die sooner than almost all other Americans In nearly four decades as a doctor at hospitals serving some of the poorest communities in Chicago David A Ansell MD has witnessed firsthand the lives behind these devastating statistics In The Death Gap he gives a grim survey of these realities drawn from observations and stories of his patients While the contrasts and disparities among Chicago's communities are particularly stark the death gap is truly a nationwide epidemic as Ansell shows there is a thirty five year difference in life expectancy between the healthiest and wealthiest and the poorest and sickest American neighborhoods If you are poor where you live in America can dictate when you die It doesn't need to be this way such divisions are not inevitable Ansell calls out the social and cultural arguments that have been raised as ways of explaining or excusing these gaps and he lays bare the structural violence the racism economic exploitation and discrimination that is really to blame Inequality is a disease Ansell argues and we need to treat and eradicate it as we would any major illness To do so he outlines a vision that will provide the foundation for a healthier nation for all As the COVID 19 mortality rates in underserved communities proved inequality is all around us and often the distance between high and low life expectancy can be a matter of just a few blocks Updated with a new foreword by Chicago mayor Lori Lightfoot and an afterword by Ansell The Death Gap speaks to the urgency to face this national health crisis head on Evidence-Based Programming for Older Adults Marcia G. Ory, Matthew Lee Smith, 2015-06-17 There is increased world wide concern about the impact of multiple chronic conditions especially among the rapidly aging population Simultaneously over the past decade there has been an emergence of state wide and national initiatives to reduce the burden of chronic conditions that draw upon the translation of evidence based programs EPB into community practice Yet little has been written about the national and international implementation dissemination and sustainability of such programs This Research Topic features articles about EBPs for older adults including a range of articles that focus on the infrastructure needed to widely disseminate EBP as well as individual participant impacts on physical mental and social aspects of health and well being Using a pragmatic research perspective this Research Topic will advance knowledge that aims to enhance practice inform policy and build systems of support and delivery in regard to the reach effectiveness adoption implementation and maintenance of evidence based interventions for older adults The focus is on knowledge transfer rather than knowledge generation but with a dual emphasis on the dissemination and sustainability of EBP that have been tested and shown effective as well as the adaptation of practice based interventions into evidence based programs This Research Topic draws upon grand scale efforts to deliver these programs and include both U S as well as international examples Commentaries discuss processes in the development and measurement of EBP and reflect perspectives from program developers and major national and regional funders of EBP as well as professionals and practitioners in the field The full length articles focus on four major programmatic areas 1 chronic disease self management programs 2 fall prevention programs 3 general wellness and physical activity programs and 4 mental health programs Additionally articles are included to discuss cross cutting issues related to building partnerships and the research infrastructure for the implementation evaluation and dissemination of evidence based programming The intent of this Research Topic is to enhance practice inform policy and build systems of support and delivery for EBP It is written for a diverse audience and contains practical implications and recommendations for introducing delivering and sustaining EBP in a multitude of settings

The State of Health and Health Care in Mississippi Mario J. Azevedo,2015-01-30 In this multidisciplinary book the editor and contributors provide the most accurate and most recent information on health and health care in the State of Mississippi They explain why the state finds itself in precarious health conditions and reveal the prevailing circumstances as the state debates a path toward a comprehensive health care system for its citizens They show who has had access to good health care in the state and celebrate the heroes who struggled to provide health care to all Mississippians and contribute to the debate on how the health care system might be restructured reconstructed or adjusted to meet the needs of all people in the state regardless of race ethnicity socioeconomic status and national origin The issue of health disparities and socio economic status leads to a relevant discussion of whether health and access to quality care are a right of all people as the United Nations has proclaimed or the privilege of a few who have the economic resources and the political clout to purchase first rate care The volume offers a clear understanding of health care trends in the state since the inception of its health system during the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries up to the present and the prospects of transcending the obstacles of its own creation over the past two centuries It likewise highlights the economic challenges that Mississippi like other states confronts and how wise and realistic its priorities are in meeting the needs of its diverse populations particularly racial and ethnic minorities

Community Health Equity Fernando De Maio, Raj C. Shah, MD, John Mazzeo, David A. Ansell, MD, 2019-03-29 Perhaps more than any other American city Chicago has been a center for the study of both urban history and economic inequity Community Health Equity assembles a century of research to show the range of effects that Chicago's structural socioeconomic inequalities have had on patients and medical facilities alike The work collected here makes clear that when a city is sharply divided by power wealth and race the citizens who most need high quality health care and social services have the greatest difficulty accessing them Achieving good health is not simply a matter of making the right choices as an individual the research demonstrates it is the product of large scale political and economic forces Understanding these forces and what we can do to correct them should be critical not only to doctors but to sociologists and students of the urban environment and no city offers more inspiring examples for action to overcome social injustice in health than Chicago

Population Health MD, MBA, George Mayzell, 2015-11-18 As healthcare moves from volume to value payment models and delivery systems will need to change their focus from the individual patient to a population orientation This will move our economic model from that of a sick system to a system of care focused on prevention boosting patient engagement and reducing medical expenditures This new focus
