Cycling Activism Peter Cox, 2023-07-28 The first full length study of cycling activism through the lens of social movement theory this book demonstrates that despite tremendous differences bike activism can be understood as a continuous and connected activity spanning a century and a half and across continents With examples from street protest to institutional lobbying it emphasises cycling s current central importance to zero carbon transport futures while showing that cycling activism is also not always about the bike or the cyclist as successive generations of activists have used cycling to articulate different visions of freedom and autonomy Moving from a consideration of social movement theory as a means to understand cycling activism the author presents a series of case studies of collective action organisations networks and campaigns in order to illustrate and elaborate a theoretical model through which diverse campaigns and approaches to change can be understood As such Cycling Activism will appeal to those with interests in mobilisation for social change mobility and transport studies and social movement theory as well as cycling studies

The Transatlantic Collapse of Urban Renewal Christopher Klemek, 2011-07 The Transatlantic Collapse of Urban Renewal examines how postwar thinkers from both sides of the Atlantic considered urban landscapes radically changed by the political and physical realities of sprawl urban decay and urban renewal With a sweep that encompasses New York London Berlin Philadelphia and Toronto among others Christopher Klemek traces changing responses to the challenging issues that most affected the lives of the world's cities In the postwar decades the principles of modernist planning came to be challenged in the grassroots revolts against the building of freeways through urban neighborhoods for instance or by academic critiques of slum clearance policy agendas and then began to collapse entirely Over the 1960s several alternative views of city life emerged among neighborhood activists New Left social scientists and neoconservative critics Ultimately while a pessimistic view of urban crisis may have won out in the United States and Great Britain Klemek demonstrates that other countries more successfully harmonized urban renewal and its alternatives This much anticipated book provides one of the first truly international perspectives on issues central to historians and planners alike making it essential reading for anyone engaged with either field

Cycling and Society Dave Horton, Paul Rosen, Peter Cox, 2016-05-13 How can the social sciences help us to understand the past present and potential futures of cycling This timely international and interdisciplinary collection addresses this question discussing shifts in cycling practices and attitudes and opening up important critical spaces for thinking about the prospects for cycling The book brings together for the first time analyses of cycling from a wide range of disciplinary backgrounds including history sociology geography planning engineering and technology The book redresses the past neglect of cycling as a topic for sustained analysis by treating it as a varied and complex practice which matters greatly to contemporary social cultural and political theory and action Cycling and Society demonstrates the incredible diversity of contemporary cycling both within and across cultures With cycling increasingly promoted as a solution to numerous social problems across a wide range of policy areas in car dominated societies this book helps to open up a new field of cycling studies

The Transportation Experience William L. Garrison, David M. Levinson, 2014-01-09 The Transportation Experience explores the historical evolution of transportation modes and technologies The book traces how systems are innovated planned and adapted deployed and expanded and reach maturity where they may either be maintained in a polished obsolesce often propped up by subsidies be displaced by competitors or be reorganized and renewed An array of examples supports the idea that modern policies are built from past experiences William Garrison and David Levinson assert that the planning and control of nonlinear unstable processes is today's central transportation problem and that this is universal and true of all modes Modes are similar in that they all have a triad structure of network vehicles and operations but this framework counters conventional wisdom Most think of each mode as having a unique history and status and each is regarded as the private playground of experts and agencies holding unique knowledge operating in isolated silos However this book argues that while modes have an appearance of uniqueness the same patterns repeat systems policies structures and behaviors are a generic design on varying modal cloth In the end the illusion of uniqueness proves to be myopic While it is true that knowledge has accumulated from past experiences the heavy hand of these experiences places boundaries on current knowledge especially on the ways professionals define problems and think about processes The Transportation Experience provides perspective for the collections of models and techniques that are the essence of transportation science and also expands the boundaries of current knowledge of the field

The Environmental Case for Brexit Ben Pontin, 2019-05-30 The recent Brexit debates present leaving the European Union largely as a threat to environmental protection and to environmental law This exciting and important new work argues that Brexit represents a real opportunity for environmental protection in the United Kingdom freeing it from a pan European framework not necessarily fit for UK domestic purposes Central to the argument is the belief that environmental protection in the United Kingdom can most effectively be pursued through established domestic institutions looking inwards at local challenges and outwards at more global ones all the while drawing on considerable historical experience The book is designed to address rather than dismiss those concerns raised by environmental lawyers after the outcome of the referendum Provocative and compelling it offers an alternative vision of the UK environmental law framework outside of the European Union

Integrated Transport Moshe Givoni, David Banister, 2010-07-02 Travel is an essential part of everyday life and today most journeys are multimodal It is the total travel experience that counts and integrated transport must reduce the inconvenience of transfers between modes Most research and many publications on transport policy advocate sustainable transport but the priority given to integration has been negligible Yet integration is one of the most important means to advance sustainable transport and sustainability more generally While integrated transport systems are seen to be an ideal there is a failure to make the transition from policy to practice The authors argue that the achievement of sustainable transport is still a dream as an integrated transport policy is a prerequisite for a sustainable transport system It is only when the two concepts of sustainability and integration operate in the same direction and in a positive way that real progress can be made In this book transportation experts from across the world have addressed the questions about what is integration why is it so important and why is it so hard to achieve The book provides an in depth analysis of these issues and it aims to provide a better understanding of the subject about what should be strived for about what is realistic to expect and about how to move forward towards a more integrated provision of transport infrastructure services and management

Mobility, Space and Culture Peter Merriman, 2012-07-26 Over the past ten to fifteen years there has emerged an increasing concern with mobility in the social sciences and humanities In Mobility Space and Culture Peter Merriman provides an important and timely contribution to the mobilities turn in the social sciences encouraging academics to rethink the relationship between movement embodied practices space and place The book takes an interdisciplinary approach drawing upon theoretical and empirical work from across the social sciences and humanities to provide a critical evaluation of the relationship between mobility and place site reformulating places as in process open and dynamic spatial formations Merriman draws upon post structuralist writings on space practice and society to demonstrate how movement is not simply practised or experienced in relation to space and time but gives rise to rhythms forces atmospheres affects and materialities which are often more crucial to embodied apprehensions of events than sensibilities of spatiality and temporality He draws upon detailed empirical research on experiences of and social reactions to driving in late Victorian and Edwardian Britain to trace how the motor car became associated with sensations of movement space and enmeshed with debates about embodiment health visibility gender and politics The book will be essential reading for undergraduates and postgraduates studying mobility in sociology geography cultural studies politics transport studies and history
