Theorising Posthuman Childhood Studies Karen Malone, Marek Tesar, Sonja Arndt, 2020-11-05 This book is a genealogical foregrounding and performance of conceptions of children and their childhoods over time We acknowledge that children's lives are embedded in worlds both inside and outside of structured schooling or institutional settings and that this relationality informs how we think about what it means to be a child living and experiencing childhood The book maps the field by taking up a cross disciplinary genealogical niche to offer both an introduction to theoretical underpinnings of emerging theories and concepts and to provide hands on examples of how they might play out This book positions children and their everyday lived childhoods in the Anthropocene and focuses on the interface of children's being in the everyday spaces and places of contemporary communities and societies In particular this book examines how the shift towards posthuman and new materialist perspectives continues to challenge dominant developmental social constructivist and structuralist theoretical approaches in diverse ways to help us to understand contemporary constructions of childhoods It recognises that while such dominant approaches have long been shown to limit the complexity of what it means to be a child living in the contemporary world the traditions of many Eurocentric theories have not addressed the diversity of children's lives in the majority of countries or in the Global South

Translation and Translanguaging Mike Baynham, Tong King Lee, 2019-06-11 Translation and Translanguaging brings into dialogue translanguaging as a theoretical lens and translation as an applied practice This book is the first to ask what can translanguaging tell us about translation and what can translation tell us about translanguaging Translanguaging originated as a term to characterize bilingual and multilingual repertoires This book extends the linguistic focus to consider translanguaging and translation in tandem across languages language varieties registers and discourses and in a diverse range of contexts everyday multilingual settings involving community interpreting and cultural brokering embodied interaction in sports text based commodities and multimodal experimental poetics Characterizing translanguaging as the deployment of a spectrum of semiotic resources the book illustrates how perspectives from translation can enrich our understanding of translanguaging and how translanguaging with its notions of repertoire and the moment can contribute to a practice based account of translation Illustrated with examples from a range of languages including Spanish Chinese Japanese Czech Lingala and varieties of English this timely book will be essential reading for researchers and graduate students in sociolinguistics translation studies multimodal studies applied linguistics and related areas
