

THE PERFORMANCE OF AGING WORKFORCE SHOULD BE MEASURED??

As we know that every management expects from the workforce the two most value added dimensions i.e. increase productivity & increased creativity. Productivity is basically the efficiency mechanism and is concerned with either greater output for same input, or same output for less input.

Existing management already understands that the aging workforce is necessary; it causes the declining productivity because an aging workforce possesses lack of creativity and innovations.

Therefore today's management is being very much careful in managing the aging workforce as means to at least the actual productivity.

5V- SCORECARD for measuring the performance of an AGING WORKFORCE

The various attempts are made to measure the performance of an aging workforce; the 5V- scorecard is one of them.

It is basically the concept of an integrated aging workforce scorecard tool consisting of five critical aging workforce areas to manage, guide and measure both creativity & productivity of an enterprise aging workforce. These are five basically organizational fields...

- i) enabling new managerial mindsets
- ii) Facilitating new knowledge management process.
- iii) Implementing appropriate health (physical, mental & emotional) process.
- iv) Adopting relevant human resource management (HRM) programs & practices & Facilitating appropriate work environment

Age and Work Hannes Zacher, Cort W. Rudolph, 2022-01-16 The edited volume Age and Work: Advances in Theory, Methods, and Practice presents a systematic collection of key advances in theory, methods, and practice regarding aging and work. This cutting edge collection breaks new ground by developing novel and useful theory explaining underutilized but important methodological approaches and suggesting original practical applications of emerging research topics. The book begins with a prologue by the World Health Organization's unit head for aging and health, an introduction on the topic by the editors, and an overview of past, current, and future workforce age trends. Subsequently, the first main section outlines theoretical advances regarding alternative age constructs (e.g., subjective age, intersectionality of age with gender and social class, paradoxical age-related actions, generational identity) and integration of lifespan theories. The second section presents methodological advances regarding behavioral assessment (age at the team and organizational levels), longitudinal and diary methods, experiments and interventions, qualitative methods, and the use of archival data. The third section covers practical advances regarding age and job crafting, knowledge exchange, the work-nonwork interface, healthy aging, and absenteeism and presenteeism, and organizational meta-strategies for younger and older workers. The book concludes with an epilogue by an eminent scholar in age and work. Written in a scientific yet accessible manner, the book offers a valuable resource for undergraduate and graduate students, academics in the fields of psychology and business, as well as practitioners working in the areas of human resource management and organizational development.
