

The background of the slide features four volumetric flasks of different sizes, each containing a liquid of a different color. From left to right, the flasks contain green, blue, brown, and yellow liquids. The flasks are arranged in a slightly overlapping manner, with the brown flask being the largest and most central. The background is a soft, out-of-focus blue and green gradient.

Marine biomolecules Antonio Trincone, Mikhail Kusaykin, Svetlana Ermakova, 2015-10-02 Oceans include the greatest extremes of pressure temperature and light and habitats can range from tropical waters to ocean trenches several kilometers below sea level at high pressure With its 70% of the surface of our planet marine ecosystem still remains largely unexplored understudied and underexploited in comparison with terrestrial ecosystems organisms and bioprocesses The biological adaptation of marine organisms to a wide range of environmental conditions in the specific environment temperature salinity tides pressure radiation light etc has made them an enormous reservoir of interesting biological material for both basic research and biotechnological improvements As a consequence marine ecosystem is valued as a source of enzymes and other biomolecules exhibiting new functions and activities to fulfill human needs Indeed in recent years it has been recognised as an untapped source of novel enzymes and metabolites even though with regard to the assignment of precise biological functions to genes proteins and enzymes it is still considered as the least developed Using metagenomics to recover genetic material directly from environmental samples this biogenetic diversification can be accessed but despite the contributions from metagenomic technologies the new field requires major improvements A few words on the complexity of marine environments should be added here This complexity ranges from symbiotic relationships to biology and chemistry of defence mechanisms and from chemoecology of marine invasions up to the strategies found in prokaryotes to adapt to extreme environments The interdisciplinary study of this complexity will enable researchers to find an arsenal of enzymes and pathways greatly demanded in biotechnological applications As far as marine enzymes are concerned they may carry novel chemical and stereochemical properties thus biocatalytically oriented studies testing of suitable substrates appropriate checking of reaction conditions study of stereochemical asset of catalysis should be performed to appropriately reveal this chemical biodiversity which increases interest for these enzymes Among other biomolecules polysaccharides are the most abundant renewable biomaterial found on land and in oceans Their molecular diversity is very interesting except polysaccharides used traditionally in food and non food industries the structure and the functionality of most of them are unknown and unexplored Brown seaweeds synthesize unique bioactive polysaccharides laminarans alginic acids and fucoidans A wide range of biological activities anticoagulant antitumor antiviral anti inflammation etc have been attributed to fucoidans and their role with respect to structure activity relationship is still under debate In this Research Topic we wish to centralize and review contributions idea and comments related to the issues above In particular results of enzymatic bioprospecting in gross marine environment will be acknowledged along with research for structural characterization and biological function of biomolecules such as marine polysaccharides and all kind of research related to the complexity of bioprocesses in marine environments Inter and multi disciplinary approach to this field is favoured in this Research Topic and could greatly be facilitated by the web and open access nature as well

Advances in Natural Gas: Formation, Processing, and Applications. Volume 8: Natural Gas Process Modelling and Simulation Mohammad Reza Rahimpour, Mohammad Amin Makarem, Maryam Meshksar, 2024-05-11 Advances in Natural Gas Formation Processing and Applications is a comprehensive eight volume set of books that discusses in detail the theoretical basics and practical methods of various aspects of natural gas from exploration and extraction to synthesizing processing and purifying producing valuable chemicals and energy The volumes introduce transportation and storage challenges as well as hydrates formation extraction and prevention Volume 8 titled Process Modelling and Simulation discusses various aspects of natural gas related processes from modelling and simulation point of view This includes modelling of natural gas sweetening dehydration and other impurities removal processes and apparatus as well as simulation of processes and apparatus dealt with producing chemicals and energy from natural gas The book introduces modelling and simulation of natural gas hydrate related processes and covers modelling basics numerical approaches and optimization techniques which provides a deeper understanding of the subject Introduces modelling and simulation methods for natural gas sweetening and purification Describes modelling and simulation procedures of producing chemicals and energy from natural gas Discusses theoretical basics and models of natural gas hydrates

Protein engineering and other bio-synthetic routes for bio-based materials:

Current uses and potential applications Carissa M Soto,2015-01-22 In the past 20 years protein engineering has been used for the production of proteins mostly for biological applications The incorporation of artificial amino acids and chemical handles into proteins had made possible the design and production of protein based materials like hybrid inorganic organic materials smart responsive materials monodisperse polymers and nanoscale assemblies In the current topic we cover current uses and envision future applications of materials generated using protein engineering and biosynthesis techniques I would like to acknowledge the U S Office of Naval Research for financial support and Dr Cherise Bernard for her contributions during the early stages of the Research Topic

The Cost of Corrosion in China Baorong Hou,2019-09-26 This book comprehensively covers corrosion and corrosion protection in China in the areas including infrastructure transportation energy water environment as well as manufacturing and public utilities Furthermore it presents a major consulting project of Chinese Academy of Engineering which was the largest corrosion investigation project in Chinese history including the corresponding methods processes and corrosion protection strategies and provides valuable information for numerous industries Sharing essential insights into corrosion prediction and decision making this book will help to decrease costs and extend the service life of equipment and facilities accordingly it will benefit scientists and engineers working on corrosion research and protection as well as economists and government employees
