the kind of experiential knowledge that won't be found in typical research reports and district documents about inclusive education. What happens to real people, students and their families, doesn't always resemble policies that can look so good on paper. This book makes a wonderful contribution to better understandings of the challenges of inclusion as well as the commitments positioned alongside values in order to meet those challenges. There are brave and spirited people in these pages, not the least of whom are the children themselves. Professor Luanna H. Meyer, PhD, Director, Jessie Hetherington Centre for Educational Research, Victoria University, New Zealand. This is a book on inclusive education that leaves you with hope and ideas for action. It takes a very difficult and highly charged topic and demonstrates that it is possible to see both the trees and the forest. Michael Fullan, Professor Emeritus, OISE, University of Toronto. We are reminded in the commentaries parents share in this book of how their passionate commitment to good education and their ideas make inclusion work. The case study approach reveals the critical importance of their and many other perspectives in finding solutions to what are so often dismissed as irresolvable dilemmas. They aren't, and this book models exactly the kinds of conversations we need in schools across the country to challenge all of us to stay the course. It's a must read for anyone who wants to make diversity and inclusion a reality in public education today. Michael Bach, Executive Vice President, Canadian Association for Community Living.

The Dark Side of our Society Bryce Anderson, 2025-10-24. It focuses on the young adult population of South Korea and examines how experiences of stress, alienation, and institutional pressure relate to Durkheimian themes such as anomie, normlessness, and fatalism, oppressive regulation. The author situates this analysis in the context of the post-COVID era, offering insights into youth suicide, educational inequality, mental health stigma, and generational conflict in contemporary South Korea. Drawing on rich ethnographic data, this book sheds light on social dynamics that are locally rooted yet globally resonant. Part of the Academics, Politics, and Society in the Post-COVID World series, this book will be of interest to students and researchers of Asian studies, mental health studies, education, sociology, sociological theory, cultural studies, anthropology, and general readers of Korean culture.
