Yasuhiko Tohsaku,2006 Self-Concept in Foreign Language Learning Reiko Yoshida,2024-05-06 This book explores self concept in foreign language FL learning tracing the trajectories of a group of Japanese language learners at an Australian university to illuminate new insights about the factors impacting positive self concept and implications for language learning more broadly The volume calls attention to the ways in which learners perception of themselves as FL learners plays a fundamental role in FL learning Drawing on data from a longitudinal study including student diaries interviews and classroom observations Yoshida outlines shifts in self concept as learners progress from secondary school to university courses to study abroad and beyond The book demonstrates how the learner journey is marked by a growing recognition of the importance of practice for achievement but also a greater sense of self consciousness with learners agency in creating opportunities for themselves to practice their FL as a key factor in improving self concept over time This work offers unique observations about self concept for learners who already have global English as a first language inspiring ways forward for future research and language teaching in other under studied languages The book will appeal to students and researchers in applied linguistics SLA and foreign language learning as well as stakeholders in Japanese language programs Yookoso!
