Wolf Really Autobiography Exploring Dominance:

The Wolf The Wolf,2015-08-13 Sexual dominance is not a work of fiction a paperback novel or 50 shades of anything for me it s my life From a very young age I felt an overwhelming sometimes crippling urge to dominate girls and women To take to own to push them until they show me who they really are But that urge was countered by an equally powerful desire to protect and cherish them This book is a collection of true life short stories from my early years grappling with the duality of what I often regarded as my twisted being into adulthood when I finally learnt to embrace and revel in it It details some of the amazing sexual encounters I ve enjoyed with the spectacular women I ve known and my often conflicted thought processes throughout them

Animal Traditions Eytan Avital,Eva Jablonka,2000-11-23 Animal Traditions maintains that the assumption that the selection of genes supplies both a sufficient explanation of the evolution and a true description of its course is despite its almost universal acclaim wrong Eytan Avital and Eva Jablonka contend that evolutionary explanations must take into account the well established fact that in mammals and birds the transfer of learnt information is both ubiquitous and indispensable The introduction of the behavioural inheritance system into the Darwinian explanatory scheme enables the authors to offer new interpretations for common behaviours such as maternal behaviours behavioural conflicts within families adoption and helping This approach offers a richer view of heredity and evolution integrates developmental and evolutionary processes suggests new lines for research and provides a constructive alternative to both the selfish gene and meme views of the world It will make stimulating reading for all those interested in evolutionary biology sociobiology behavioural ecology and psychology

Mapping the Contours of Oppression Owen Evans, 2006-01-01 Despite all the assertions towards the end of the twentieth century that the literary subject had expired along with the author the wave of autobiographies published in German after the Wende was a clear indication that on the contrary life stories were very much alive In this study Owen Evans examines the work of eight authors Ludwig Harig Uwe Saeger Ruth Kluger Gnter de Bruyn Gnter Kunert Christoph Hein Grete Weil and Monika Maron who all published personal texts after 1989 dealing either with life in Nazi Germany or the GDR and in some cases both By means of close textual analysis Evans explores the impact these regimes had on the individuals concerned and the contrasting ways in which the authors handle the autobiographical project They adopt varying textual strategies to render the self on the page with some employing overt fiction and yet in each case the project was clearly motivated by the need to treat psychological wounds inflicted on the self by totalitarianism In their mapping of the contours of oppression the texts at the heart of this study combine to offer a powerful defence of literary autobiography in Germany at least as a valuable means of tackling the legacy of totalitarianism
