American Writers Elizabeth H. Oakes,2004 American Writers focuses on the rich diversity of American novelists Reading the Two Books of God Thomas W. Mann,2022-09-29 Thomas W Mann is a biblical scholar and retired parish minister and the author of numerous books and articles He is particularly interested in how experiences in nature prompt theological reflection based in the Bible shaping our sense of sacred time and place and how the lectionary readings of the church year also provide a spiritual calendar for the seasons of our lives The result is a conversation inspired by poets and writers like Mary Oliver Wendell Berry and John Muir but also by philosophers and theologians ranging from Abraham Joshua Heschel to David Kelsey Along the way we enter beach time and take backpacking trips in the Sierras but also join the triumphal entry parade on Palm Sunday and listen to the stable animals on Christmas Eve We perceive the beauty of creation through the eyes of science as well as religion sensually as well as intellectually We celebrate our communion with all creatures from fungus to forests inspired with awe and reverence and with a responsibility to care for the earth so threatened by climate change

Postmodern Humanism in Contemporary Literature and Culture T. Davis,K. Womack,2016-01-23 Davis and Womack investigate the emerging gaps between literary scholarship and the reading experience The idea of reconciling the void the locus of our sociocultural disillusionment and despair in an uncertain world concerns explicit artistic attempts to represent the ways in which human beings seek out meaning hope and community

Making Nature Sacred John Gatta,2004-10-14 Since colonial times the sense of encountering an unseen transcendental Presence within the natural world has been a characteristic motif in American literature and culture American writers have repeatedly perceived in nature something beyond itself and beyond themselves In this book John Gatta argues that the religious import of American environmental literature has yet to be fully recognized or understood Whatever their theology American writers have perennially construed the nonhuman world to be a source in Rachel Carson s words of something that takes us out of ourselves Making Nature Sacred explores how the quest for natural revelation has been pursued through successive phases of American literary and intellectual history And it shows how the imaginative challenge of reading landscapes has been influenced by biblical hermeneutics Though focused on adaptations of Judeo Christian religious traditions it also samples Native American African American and Buddhist forms of ecospirituality It begins with Colonial New England writers such Anne Bradstreet and Jonathan Edwards re examines pivotal figures such as Henry Thoreau and

John Muir and takes account of writings by Mary Austin Rachel Carson and many others along the way The book concludes with an assessment of the spiritual renaissance underway in current environmental writing as represented by five noteworthy poets and by authors such as Wendell Berry Annie Dillard Marilynne Robinson Peter Matthiessen and Barry Lopez This engaging study should appeal not only to students of literature but also to those interested in ethics and environmental studies religious studies and American cultural history
