Teaching/Writing in Thirdspaces Rhonda C. Grego, Nancy S. Thompson, 2008 Rhonda C Grego and Nancy S Thompson argue that because the studio is physically and institutionally outside but alongside both students other coursework and the hierarchy of the institution it represents a thirdspace a unique position in which to effect institutional change Teaching Writing in Thirdspaces provides an alternative approach to traditional basic writing courses that can be adopted in educational institutions of all types and at all levels

BOOK JACKET The Theory and Practice of Grading Writing Frances Zak, Christopher C. Weaver, 1998-01-01 Explores grading strategies for English composition teachers that are consistent with modern discourse and pedagogical theories

Rhetoric in an Antifoundational World Professor Michael F. Bernard-Donals, Michael F. Bernard-Donals, Richard R. Glejzer, 1998-01-01 In this brilliant collection literary scholars, philosophers, and teachers inquire into the connections between antifoundational philosophy and the rhetorical tradition. What happens to literary studies and theory when traditional philosophical foundations are disavowed? What happens to the study of teaching and writing when antifoundationalism is accepted? What strategies for human understanding are possible when the weaknesses of antifoundationalism are identified? This volume offers answers in classic essays by such thinkers as Richard Rorty, Terry Eagleton, and Stanley Fish, and in many new essays never published before. The contributors to this book explore the nexus of antifoundationalism and rhetoric, critique that nexus, and suggest a number of pedagogical and theoretical alternatives. The editors place these statements into a context that is both critical and evaluative, and they provide for voices that dissent from the antifoundational perspective and that connect specific practical pedagogies to the broader philosophical statements. For those with an interest in rhetoric, philosophy, comparative literature, or the teaching of composition, this book sets forth a wealth of thought-provoking ideas. I have nothing but praise for this work, a masterful treatment of the question: What positive intellectual projects are possible within a world that radically questions the existence of philosophical foundations? Steven Mailloux, University of California, Irvine

Revision Alice Horning, Anne Becker, 2006-05-22 Explores the wide range of scholarship on revision while bringing new light to bear on enduring questions in composition and rhetoric

Across Property Lines Candace Spigelman, 2000-02-16 Candace Spigelman investigates the dynamics of ownership in small group writing workshops, basing her findings on case studies involving two groups: a five-member creative writing group meeting monthly at a local Philadelphia coffee bar and a four-member college-level writing group meeting in their composition classroom. She explores the relationship between particular notions of intellectual property within each group as well as the effectiveness of writing groups that embrace these notions. Addressing the negotiations between the public and private domains of writing within these groups, she discovers that for both the committed writers and the novices, values associated with textual ownership play a crucial role in writing group performance. Spigelman discusses textual ownership, intellectual property, and writing group processes, and then reviews theories relating to authorship and knowledge making. After introducing the participants in each group, discussing their texts, and describing their workshop sessions, she examines the writers' avowed and implied beliefs about exchanging ideas and protecting individual property rights. Spigelman stresses the necessary tension between individual and social aspects of writing practices. She argues for the need to foster more collaborative activity among student writers by replicating the processes of writers working in nonacademic settings, but also contends that all writers must be allowed to imagine their individual

Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice a lack of emphasis on theory and an exclusive reliance on the writing process As its disciplinary status has grown the field has become far more theoretical Composition studies has expanded its focus reconceptualized the writing process and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism social construction gender and genre which were largely unknown in 1965 now dominate discussion This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies The volume consists of 66 entries each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories including key elements basic concepts and claims and information about seminal or particularly influential works It then reviews the theory's critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works

Acts of Teaching Joyce Armstrong Carroll, Edward E. Wilson, Nicole Klimow, Kristy Hill, 2018-11-09 Inclusive of the scope and authoritative references from earlier editions this edition additionally embraces the digital world and provides practical suggestions for performing the act of teaching Teachers of writing at all levels will applaud this edition for its new features designed to help teachers to understand and teach to today's new paradigms in writing New to this edition are two chapters on cognition and technology respectively a chapter on early literacy with student samples and for the first time an online connection that links readers to important articles visuals and resources Essay writing is explored through discussion of the thesis and its criteria five organizational patterns for the expository essay and distinctions among the opinion persuasive and argumentative essay Several new prewriting strategies are also provided A Sense Notebook Looking Contouring an expanded explanation of Blueprinting and a discussion of a hierarchical approach to organization

The Essays Only You Can Write Irene Papoulis, 2023-10-17 The Essays Only You Can Write offers a perspective on essay writing that spotlights a writer's uniqueness Resisting the perception that personal and academic writing are at odds with one another it treats the impulse to write personally as potential fuel for a variety of writing purposes The book encourages students to think like academics pursuing their enthusiasms trusting their ideas and questioning their conclusions by leading them through three main writing assignments a personal essay an essay based on texts and a research essay Each chapter offers exercises and strategies for various stages in the pre writing drafting and revision processes Freewriting extensive attention to planning devising a structure and order of ideas that both promote and reflect engagement with a topic developing rhetorical awareness and knowledge of conventions and an advocacy for expressive socially responsible writing all are central elements of the text s instruction By acknowledging the emotions inherent in the writing process many of which can muddle thinking I don t want anyone to see this what if I make mistakes what if the writing isn t good I don t want to be critiqued etc Papoulis helps beginning college writers to navigate the psychological as well as the technical roadblocks that can get in the way of their best personal and academic writing

Mainstreaming Basic Writers Gerri McNenny, Sallyanne H. Fitzgerald, 2001-06 Explores the many facets of the mainstreaming movement in college level basic writing that are currently being debated Examines the theoretical political pedagogical concerns that arise as pressures push colleges to eliminate basic writing programs Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30 Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field s development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person s contributions and a bibliography of representative works The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms provide examples of the terms in context and list scholars often associated with them An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field
