Sorting Africa's Developmental Puzzle Almaz Zewde,2010-06-02 Sorting Africa s Development Puzzle The Participatory Social Learning Theory as an Alternative Approach is a comprehensive exploration of why Africa has not managed to achieve a sustainable and self regenerating development over the past half century of effort The work situates the problems of Africa s persistent underdevelopment in the practices employed by national political elites donors and lenders to African development that played roles in determinant policy and planning Unlike many newly developed countries and regions and contrary to the historical experiences of developed countries where ordinary people were full stakeholders and drivers of development Africa s development has been top down expert and capital driven mechanical and typically externally designed Ordinary Africans were made marginal to development This approach to Africa s development was devoid of building the people and their institutions as the legitimate means of development The entrusting of Africa s development to local and international elites to the exclusion of the people from decision making and full participation has led to grievous deficits in the formation of human and social capital and legitimate economic social and political institutions for development The book offers a studied alternative that can positively change Africa s development direction The Participatory Social Learning Approach The philosophical theoretical historical and heuristic origins of this alternative are offered in detail within this book Constructing the International Economy

Rawi Abdelal, Mark Blyth, Craig Parsons, 2015-10-27 Focusing empirically on how political and economic forces are always mediated and interpreted by agents both in individual countries and in the international sphere Constructing the International Economy sets out what such constructions and what various forms of constructivism mean both as ways of understanding the world and as sets of varying methods for achieving that understanding It rejects the assumption that material interests either linearly or simply determine economic outcomes and demands that analysts consider as a plausible hypothesis that economies might vary substantially for nonmaterial reasons that affect both institutions and agents interests Constructing the International Economy portrays the diversity of models and approaches that exist among constructivists writing on the international political economy The authors outline and relate several different arguments for why scholars might attend to social construction inviting the widest possible array of scholars to engage with such approaches They examine points of terminological or theoretical confusion that create unnecessary barriers to engagement between constructivists and nonconstructivist work and among different types of constructivism This book provides a tool kit that both constructivists and their critics can use to debate how much and when social construction matters in this deeply important realm Contributors Rawi Abdelal Harvard Business School Jacqueline Best University of Ottawa Mark Blyth Brown University Mlada Bukovansky Smith College Jeffrey M Chwieroth London School of Economics Francesco Duina Bates College Charlotte Epstein University of Sydney Yoshiko M Herrera University of Wisconsin Madison Paul Langley Northumbria University Craig Parsons University of Oregon Catherine Weaver University of Texas at Austin Wesley W Widmaier Saint Joseph s University Cornelia Woll CERI Sciences Po Paris Emerging Markets and the State

Christopher Wylde, 2017-07-27 This book through an analysis of case studies in Latin America and Southeast Asia sets out to understand the form and function of contemporary states seeking to guide and cajole markets hoping to stimulate economic growth and generate robust development outcomes In the context of contemporary globalization and the hegemony of a neoliberal mode of capital accumulation independent state directed development has moved away from the reach of many emerging markets Wylde s analysis reveals that contrary to much of the literature espousing the end of the state the role of the state in the 21st century development process continues to be of pivotal importance Entrepreneurship, Training, Education and Job Creation

Magda Hewitt, 2010-08-01 The papers included in this book were taken from the proceedings of the University of Johannesburg Faculty of Management Department of Entrepreneurship 2010 Entrepreneurship Training Education and Job Creation Conference These papers address some of the issues in terms of entrepreneurship training education and job creation Routledge Handbook of Public Policy Eduardo Araral, 2013 This Handbook provides a comprehensive global survey of the policy process Written by an outstanding line up of distinguished scholars and practitioners the Handbook covers all aspects of the policy process including Theory from rational choice to the new institutionalism Frameworks network theory advocacy coalition and development models Key stages in the process formulation implementation and evaluation Agenda setting and decision making The roles of key actors and institutions This is an invaluable resource for all scholars graduate students and practitioners in public policy and policy analysis Publisher description Policing: Toward an Unknown Future John Crank, Colleen Kadleck, 2013-12-16 The enclosed papers are the culmination of a project Dr John Crank and Dr Colleen Kadleck carried out assessing issues facing the police into the early 21st century The papers are future oriented in the sense that they anticipate trends visible today Everywhere the contributing scholars found that the organizational concept practice and function of the police were undergoing transition Yet the seeming state level hardening of the police function was ubiquitous Two themes were noteworthy On the one hand in developing or second world countries police face endemic problems of corruption organized crime and drugs Police in response are undergoing centralization and intensification of law enforcement activities In countries with first world economies Canada the United States and Australia contributors discovered trends toward expansion of the police function a trend described by Brodeur as toward high policing It reflects the growing reliance on surveillance for crime control and for the tracking of minority indigenous and immigrant populations in crime prevention efforts The results suggest that governments sometimes encouraged by their citizenry seem increasingly to rely on the police to deal with a broad array of social as well as criminal problems This book was originally published as a special issue of Police Practice and Research
