Human Rights David L. Brunsma, Keri Iyall Smith, Brian Gran, 2016-09-07 How do people work together to advance human rights Do people form groups to prevent human rights from being enforced Why In what ways do circumstances matter to the work of individuals collectively working to shape human rights practices Human society is made of individuals within contexts tectonic plates not of the earth's crust but of groups and individuals who scrape and shift as we bump along competing for scarce resources and getting along These movements large and small are the products of actions individuals take in communities within families and legal structures These individuals are able to live longer yet continue to remain vulnerable to dangers arising from the environment substances struggles for power and a failure to understand that in most ways we are the same as our neighbors Yet it is because we live together in layers of diverse communities that we want our ability to speak to be unhindered by others use spirituality to help us understand ourselves and others possess a space and objects that are ours alone and join with groups that share our values and interests including circumstances where we do not know who our fellow neighbor is For this reason sociologists have identified the importance of movements and change in human societies When we collaborate in groups individuals can change the contours of their daily lives Within this book you will find the building blocks for human rights in our communities To understand why sometimes we enjoy human rights and other times we experience vulnerability and risk sociologists seek to understand the individual within her context Bringing together prominent sociologists to grapple with these questions Movements for Human Rights Locally and Globally offers insights into the ways that people move for and against human rights

Oxman and Shabtai Rosenne Combating Proliferation Jason D. Ellis, Geoffrey D. Kiefer, 2007-02-23 Selected by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title The intelligence community's flawed assessment of Iraq's weapons systems and the Bush administration's decision to go to war in part based on those assessments illustrates the political and policy challenges of combating the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction In this comprehensive assessment defense policy specialists Jason Ellis and Geoffrey Kiefer find disturbing trends in both the collection and analysis of intelligence and in its use in the development and implementation of security policy Analyzing a broad range of recent case studies Pakistan's development of nuclear weapons North Korea's defiance of U N watchdogs Russia's transfer of nuclear and missile technology to Iran and China's to Pakistan the Soviet biological warfare program weapons inspections in Iraq and others the authors find that intelligence collection and analysis relating to WMD proliferation are becoming more difficult that policy toward rogue states and regional allies requires difficult tradeoffs and that using military action to fight nuclear proliferation presents intractable operational challenges Ellis and Kiefer reveal that decisions to use or overlook intelligence are often made for starkly political reasons They document the Bush administration's policy shift from nonproliferation which emphasizes diplomatic tools such as sanctions and demarches to counterproliferation which at times employs interventionist and preemptive actions They conclude with cogent recommendations for intelligence services and policy makers The Right to Food Guidelines, Democracy and Citizen Participation Katharine S. E. Cresswell Riol, 2016-11-10 It is now more than a decade since the Right to Food Guidelines were negotiated agreed and adopted internationally by states This book provides a review of its objectives and the extent of success of its implementation The focus is on the first key guideline Democracy good governance human rights and the rule of law with an emphasis on civil society participation in global food governance The five BRICS countries Brazil Russia India China and South Africa are presented as case studies representing major emerging economies they blur the line between the Global North and South and exhibit different levels of human rights realisation The book first provides an overview of the right to adequate food accountability and democracy and an introduction to the history of the development of the right to adequate food and the Right to Food Guidelines It presents a historical synopsis of each of the BRICS states experiences with the right to adequate food and an analysis of their related periodic reporting to the Committee on Economic Social and Cultural Rights as well as a specific assessment of their progress in regard to the first guideline The discussion then focuses on the effectiveness of the Right to Food Guidelines as both a policy making and monitoring tool based on the analysis of the guidelines and the BRICS states Peace without Politics? Ten Years of State-Building in Bosnia David Chandler, 2013-09-13 Ten years on from the signing of the Dayton Peace Agreement in November 1995 the legacy of the Bosnian war still shapes every aspect of the political social and economic environment of the tiny state This state of affairs is highlighted by the fact that Bosnia is still under international control with the Office of the International High Representative regularly using its powers to dismiss elected presidents prime ministers and MPs and to impose legislation over the resistance of elected legislatures at national regional and local level What has changed in the ten years since Dayton Is international regulation helping to establish a sustainable peace in Bosnia What lessons can be learned for nation building in Bosnia This volume was previously published as a special issue of the leading journal International Peacekeeping
