Twa Women, Twa Rights in the Great Lakes Region of Africa Dorothy Jackson, 2003-11-10 The Twa as an indigenous people in the Great Lakes region of Africa are shunned by many other ethnic groups If Twa communities as a whole suffer from discrimination marginalization and extreme poverty then Twa women suffer this and more This situation has been exacerbated by violent conflict in the region Dorothy Jackson has many years experience of working with the region's Twa communities and Twa women Twa women's voices can be heard clearly in this report calling for change and for recognition of their rights as indigenous people and as women Despite the day to day discrimination and poverty Twa women are resourceful and resilient as this report shows Central to the issues facing Twa women and their communities is land Twa have traditionally been dependent on their forests and land but today most Twa are landless Their culture and even their existence is under threat Added to this the changes that are happening within Twa societies are overturning the relatively equal relationship between women and men This report considers government policies and international human rights law that could be used by Twa organizations and support agencies in Burundi Democratic Republic of Congo Rwanda and Uganda The report concludes with a set of recommendations aimed at these states governments and at development organizations

The Labor of Lunch Jennifer E. Gaddis, 2019-11-12 There's a problem with school lunch in America Big Food companies have largely replaced the nation's school cooks by supplying cafeterias with cheap precooked hamburger patties and chicken nuggets chock full of industrial fillers Yet it's no secret that meals cooked from scratch with nutritious locally sourced ingredients are better for children workers and the environment So why not empower lunch ladies to do more than just unbox and reheat factory made food And why not organize together to make healthy ethically sourced free school lunches a reality for all children The Labor of Lunch aims to spark a progressive movement that will transform food in American schools and with it the lives of thousands of low paid cafeteria workers and the millions of children they feed By providing a feminist history of the US National School Lunch Program Jennifer E Gaddis recasts the humble school lunch as an important and often overlooked form of public care Through vivid narration and moral heft The Labor of Lunch offers a stirring call to action and a blueprint for school lunch reforms capable of delivering a healthier more equitable caring and sustainable future
