

Funny Poem

about Turning 80

By Maya Anthony

At eighty, they should slow down,
But this one wears a different crown,
Adventures wild, with zest untamed,
In their ageless spirit, they're acclaimed.

With each journey, a tale to tell,
Their adventures, a fascinating swell,
At eighty, they're the bravest soul,
In their ageless quest, they're on a roll.

So here's to them, in their daring stride,
Age is just a number, they've defied,
The ageless adventurer, bold and bright,
In their eighties, a shining light.

Anderson,2013-12-06 When I see and hear the ubiquitous hype and media coverage for celebrities receiving acclaim after facing their ordeals with breast cancer I hear words like bravery stamina devastating disease how well they are handling the diagnosis and how heroically they are getting on with their lives Most of these same celebrities are alive and well after their diagnosis because of the work done by women like my late wife Lois A Anderson Yet most people have never heard of her If you want to read a book about real bravery real stamina and the power to make real changes that matter to the breast cancer story you need to take the time to read this book Lois came from a poor family coming from conditions most of us would never ascend from and made her mark upon the world I do not want to be forgotten she told me after being diagnosed with stage III breast cancer at the age of thirty nine She lived eighteen years after that diagnosis and in many ways changed the world with her knowledge support and political advocacy Many throw money at research in an effort to move breast cancer out of the ranks of an incurable cancer into one where most will survive it Lois didnt have money She didnt have the media to tell of her many battles What she did have was a spirit of hope which she used to battle breast cancer on all fronts This is the story of a remarkable woman who in spite of the odds not only survived but also turned an ordeal that would have devastated most of us into a shining example of what one person can do even when they are facing death Sometimes you get the chance to change things she often told me In her short lifetime even with cancer raging through her body she took the chance and did that very thing She not only fought her own personal battle with breast cancer but also fought the war against it Lois pursued such an astonishing life from the moment she came into the world overcoming many obstacles in her quest to rise above the ordinary many conquered before breast cancer entered her life I felt her story had to be told She lived her short life coming from very humble beginnings rising from all of it making changes she hoped would better everyone when it ended on January 17 2011 At the time of her death she was considered a great breast cancer advocate known at the national level She was diagnosed with stage III breast cancer at the age of thirty nine six days before her fortieth birthday in 1992 Signs that could have cautioned her remained muted by an unsuspecting bruise she sustained from an injury several months before her fortieth birthday In time she was treated for the initial breast cancer and remained cancer free for almost ten years until cancer returned in 2001 Then when the odds seemed stacked against her she fought the disease as a stage IV breast cancer survivor metastatic breast cancer from the time of that dire discovery until she died in January 2011. She lived eighteen years from the time she was diagnosed against all prognostications allowing her only five years of survival. Over the last six months of her life I began writing a story where I escaped the realities of losing my wife to something I had no control over. In a way it transitioned into a metaphoric fable, a parallel story of her life. Between the lines I allowed myself the chance to create an alternate world where the real trials Lois and I experienced on our last road together eventually made some sense to me in our unpredictable world. After she died I began the long process of chronicling her amazing biography and believed I could finish the fictional one. Both stories represent a process of coming to terms with her death and a promise I made to not let her be forgotten. I began writing her real life story in late February 2011. After I started I found stories and journals Lois had written about herself tucked away in boxes and old folders throughout the house.

My Head Is A Map, Scenes of Projection Jill H. Casid, 2015-01-01. Theorizing vision and power at the intersections of the histories of psychoanalysis, media, scientific method, and colonization. Scenes of Projection poaches the prized instruments at the heart of the so-called scientific revolution: the projecting telescope, camera obscura, magic lantern, solar microscope, and prism. From the beginnings of what is retrospectively enshrined as the origins of the Enlightenment and in the wake of colonization, the scene of projection has functioned as a contraption for creating a fantasy subject of discarnate vision for the exercise of reason. Jill H. Casid demonstrates across a range of sites that the scene of projection is neither a static diagram of power nor a fixed architecture but rather a pedagogical setup that operates as an influencing machine of persistent training. Thinking with queer and feminist art projects that take up old devices for casting an image to reorient this apparatus of power that produces its subject, Scenes of Projection offers a set of theses on the possibilities for felt embodiment out of the damaged and difficult pasts that haunt our present.

Early Modern English Literature and the Poetics of Cartographic Anxiety Chris Barrett, 2018-03-23. The Cartographic Revolution in the Renaissance made maps newly precise, newly affordable, and newly ubiquitous. In sixteenth-century Britain, cartographic materials went from rarity to household décor within a single lifetime, and they delighted, inspired, and fascinated people across the socioeconomic spectrum. At the same time, they also unsettled, upset, disturbed, and sometimes angered their early modern readers. Early Modern English Literature and the Poetics of Cartographic Anxiety is the first monograph dedicated to recovering the shadow history of the many anxieties provoked by early modern maps and mapping in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. A product of a military arms race often deployed for security and surveillance purposes and fundamentally distortive of their subjects, maps provoked suspicion, unease, and even hostility in early modern Britain in ways not dissimilar from the anxieties provoked by global positioning enabled digital mapping in the twenty-first century. At the same time, writers saw in the resistance to cartographic logics and strategies the opportunity to rethink the way literature represents space and everything else. This volume explores three major poems of the period: Edmund Spenser's The Faerie Queene (1590–1596), Michael Drayton's Poly Olbion (1612–1622), and John Milton's

Paradise Lost 1667 1674 in terms of their vexed and vexing relationships with cartographic materials and shows how the productive protest staged by these texts redefined concepts of allegory description personification bibliographic materiality narrative temporality analogy and other elemental components of literary representations Topologies of the Classical World in Children's Fiction Claudia Nelson, Anne Morey, 2019-10-24 Beginning with Rudyard Kipling and Edith Nesbit and concluding with best selling series still ongoing at the time of writing this volume examines works of twentieth and twenty first century children's literature that incorporate character types settings and narratives derived from the Greco Roman past Drawing on a cognitive poetics approach to reception studies it argues that authors typically employ a limited and powerful set of spatial metaphors palimpsest map and fractal to organize the classical past for preteen and adolescent readers Palimpsest texts see the past as a collection of strata in which each new era forms a layer superimposed upon a foundation laid earlier map texts use the metaphor of the mappable journey to represent a protagonist's process of maturing while gaining knowledge of the self and or the world fractal texts in which small parts of the narrative are thematically identical to the whole present the past in a way that implies that history is infinitely repeatable While a given text may embrace multiple metaphors in presenting the past associations between dominant metaphors genre and outlook emerge from the case studies examined in each chapter revealing remarkable thematic continuities in how the past is represented and how agency is attributed to protagonists each model it is suggested uses the classical past to urge and thus perhaps to develop a particular approach to life In the Belly of a Laughing God Jennifer Andrews, 2011-12-15 How can humour and irony in writing both create and destroy boundaries In the Belly of a Laughing God examines how eight contemporary Native women poets in Canada and the United States Joy Harjo Louise Halfe Kimberly Blaese Marilyn Dumont Diane Glancy Jeannette Armstrong Wendy Rose and Marie Annharte Baker employ humour and irony to address the intricacies of race gender and nationality While recognizing that humour and irony are often employed as methods of resistance this careful analysis also acknowledges the ways that they can be used to assert or restore order Using the framework of humour and irony five themes emerge from the words of these poets religious transformations generic transformations history memory and the nation photography and representational visibility and land and the significance of home Through the double voice discourse of irony and the textual surprises of humour these poets challenge hegemonic renderings of themselves and their cultures even as they enforce their own cultural norms Cartographic Poetry Ted Binnema, François Lanoë, Heinz W. Pyszczyk, 2025-10-06 Poetry is language condensed Blackfoot cartography is landscape distilled Cartographic Poetry is the first book length multidisciplinary study of five maps drawn in 1801 and 1802 by several Blackfoot and Gros Ventre people for the Hudson's Bay Company Representing some of the oldest documents created by Indigenous people on the North American prairies and foothills these maps preserve invaluable evidence about places on the landscape and about historic Blackfoot views of their territories The maps were intended as navigational tools but the landforms and locations on the maps hold significance for the Blackfoot well beyond wayfinding and have for many centuries Exploring their content and utility from historical linguistic and archaeological perspectives Ted Binnema Francois Lano and Heinz W Pyszczyk analyze the maps their place names and features and the tours and trips they may have supported along with providing present day photographs of many of the maps landforms A final section of the book outlines how Indigenous maps contributed significantly to Western geographical knowledge and maps of North America from the 1500s onward Cartographic Poetry will appeal to anthropologists archaeologists geographers historians cartographers and to all readers interested in how Indigenous peoples perceived and navigated their territories in this early period of colonial encounter With a Foreword by Jerry Potts Jr and an Afterword by Dr Eldon Yellowhorn The Self-Made Map Tom Conley,1997 Streets of Asia James Kirkup,1969 Places that the map can't contain: Poetics in the Anthropocene Julia Fiedorczuk,Paweł Piszczatowski,2023-07-10 Inspired by Lynn Keller's notion of the self-conscious Anthropocene the book sets out to consider poetry as a privileged space for rethinking our basic epistemological assumptions Poetry does not have the kind of agency a direct political intervention has in fact as W H Auden famously put it poetry makes nothing happen On the other hand poetry is crucial when it comes to awakening our individual and collective imagination Considering the statement by Lawrence Buell that the current ecological crisis is in the first place a crisis of the imagination this function of poetry comes through as particularly important
