
1. The authors of the paper are not aware of any other studies that have examined the effects of the use of a single, non-validated, self-report measure of the frequency of sexual intercourse on the prevalence of new and recurrent genital ulcers. Furthermore, the questionnaire used in the present study was not validated for the purpose of measuring the frequency of sexual intercourse. The authors of the study are therefore unable to provide an estimate of the validity of the self-report measure of the frequency of sexual intercourse used in the present study. The authors of the study are therefore unable to provide an estimate of the validity of the self-report measure of the frequency of sexual intercourse used in the present study.
