The Common Cold

Common cold is a viral infection of the upper respiratory tract. It is caused by rhinoviruses, which invade the cells lining the nose and throat. The virus enters your body through the nose or mouth. It then travels down the throat and into the lungs. Rhinovirus, a common cold virus, is spread by a cough or sneeze.

Common Cold Signs and Symptoms

Runny nose, sneezing, sore throat, and cough are common signs and symptoms of a cold.

Other common signs and symptoms include: nasal congestion, watery eyes, and a general feeling of malaise. These symptoms are caused by the inflammation of the nasal and throat tissues.

Most people recover from a cold within 7 to 10 days. However, some people may experience complications such as sinusitis or pneumonia. If symptoms persist or worsen, it is important to consult a healthcare professional.

Nasal and Throat Issues

The nasal cavity is a complex system of passages. When the nasal cavity becomes inflamed, it can lead to nasal congestion and a runny nose. This is often caused by the release of histamine, which causes the blood vessels in the nasal lining to dilate.

The throat is also affected by the cold virus. Inflammation of the throat can lead to a sore throat and difficulty swallowing.
