University of California Chronicle, Vol. 5 (Classic Reprint) ,2018-01-16 Excerpt from University of California Chronicle Vol 5 Wherever men and women meet to do honor to a university they meet in the faith that education is a life long growth not an access to books and teachers for a few fortunate years but a process that keeps pace with life that broadens and deepens with experience We test books by no less magical a touchstone than life itself We search life unceasingly for the evidence of those great hopes which we have learned from literature I wish to take this tenet of our common creed and apply it to a somewhat wider field than that of the individual The national life too is a long process of education The nation like the individual tests by experience the value of its bookish theories and out of its experience in turn spring its Vital books The history of literature in America is the history more or less accurately translated of American life Not every phase of national existence it is true receives adequate translation into literature and yet most periods of heightened national consciousness have found some sort of literary interpretation About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve

Collected Reprints Ivan Clifford Hall, 1913 The University of California Chronicle, Vol. 18, 2017-09-17 Excerpt from The University of California Chronicle Vol 18 An Official Record 1916 All of this is what Borrow never grasped Moreover the Spaniard is an inveterate smoker and Borrow hated tobacco The idiomatic flavor of the Spanish language had no interest for him apart from its linguistic traits Indeed at times the reader is inclined to believe that Borrow was either ignorant of the English equivalents of certain Spanish words or that he wrote nonsense on purpose Thus he invariably translates caballero cavalier or sir cavalier when he must have known after years of experience that it either means man or that it is the ordinary way of addressing any man as for example Dispense usted caballero which simply means I beg your pardon sir usted he translates your worship when it would never occur to anyone to say to a waiter for example Will your worship bring me another glass Here for example is a piece of bonne blague which Borrow sets down as the usual Spanish manner of speech He is addressing a simple soldier I dismounted and taking off my hat made a low bow to the constitutional soldier saying senor Nacional you must know that I am an English gentleman travelling in this country for my pleasure I bear a passport which on inspecting you will find to be perfectly regular It was given to me by the great Lord Palmerston Minister of England whom you of course have heard of here At the bottom you will see his own handwriting Look at it and rejoice perhaps you will never have another opportunity As I put unbounded confidence in the honor of every gentleman I leave the passport in your hands whilst I repair to the posada to refresh myself When you have inspected it you will perhaps oblige me so far as to bring it to me Cavalier I kiss your hands About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books
