

Speaker Positioning

For a typical setup, use 5 speakers: 2 front speakers, center speaker, 2 rear speakers and subwoofer.

- Front Speakers
Test at the speakers at an equal distance from your listening position. For best hearing position, set up surround sound system at 90 degree.
- Center Speaker
It is ideal if the center speaker and front speakers are at the same height. But normally place the center speaker above or below the television or monitor.
- Rear Speakers
Place the rear surround speakers to the left and right behind the primary listening area. These speakers provide sound effects and atmospheric background music. Do not place the rear speakers too far behind your listening position. Instead, just above the listening area. It is also effective to place the rear speakers behind and on the opposite side of your listening area.
This surround system is often sufficient to hear the full effect when the rear speakers are placed with other rear speakers at 90 to 135 degrees about the system's axis.
- Subwoofer
This can be placed in any tight position.
