Women And Politics In Iran Veiling Unveiling And Reveiling:

Women and Politics in Iran Hamideh Sedghi, 2007-07-09 Why were urban women veiled in the early 1900s unveiled from 1936 to 1979 and reveiled after the 1979 revolution This question forms the basis of Hamideh Sedghi s original and unprecedented contribution to politics and Middle Eastern studies Using primary and secondary sources Sedghi offers new knowledge on women s agency in relation to state power In this rigorous analysis she places contention over women at the centre of the political struggle between secular and religious forces and demonstrates that control over women s identities sexuality and labor has been central to the consolidation of state power Sedghi links politics and culture with economics to present an integrated analysis of the private and public lives of different classes of women and their modes of resistance to state power Women and Politics in the Islamic Republic of Iran Sanam Vakil, 2011-04-21 Women and the Islamic Republic Shirin Saeidi, 2022-01-27 Based on extensive interviews and oral histories as well as archival sources Women and the Islamic Republic challenges the dominant masculine theorizations of state making in post revolutionary Iran Shirin Saeidi demonstrates that despite the Islamic Republic s non democratic structures multiple forms of citizenship have developed in post revolutionary Iran This finding destabilizes the binary formulation of democratization and authoritarianism which has not only dominated investigations of Iran but also regime categorizations in political science more broadly As non elite Iranian women negotiate or engage with the state s gendered citizenry regime the Islamic Republic is forced to remake oftentimes haphazardly its citizenry agenda The book demonstrates how women remake their rights responsibilities and statuses during everyday life to condition the state making process in Iran showing women s everyday resistance to the state making process Female Bodies and Sexuality in Iran and the Search for Defiance Nafiseh Sharifi, 2018-01-22 This book uses storytelling as an analytical tool for following wider social attitude changes towards sex and female sexuality in Iran Women born in 1950s Iran grew up during the peak of secularization and modernization whereas those born in the 1980s were raised under the much stricter rules of the Islamic Republic Using extensive ethnographic research the author juxtaposes narratives of body and sexuality shared by these different generations of women showing the intricate ways in which women construct and convey meanings and communicate their emotions about the unspoken aspects of their lives Women's Activism in the Islamic Republic of Iran Samira Ghoreishi, 2021-03-21 Through an intersectional feminist re reading of the Habermasian theoretical framework this book analyses how women s activism has developed and operated in the Islamic Republic of Iran Chapters look at three key areas of women s activism in Iran how women deliberately engaged with media activism despite the government s controlling and repressive policies women s involvement in civil society organisations institutions and communities and cooperation through multilevel activism and women s activism in the political sphere and its connection with media and civil society activism despite the theocratic system Drawing upon interviews analyses of journal and newspaper articles and documentary non documentary films as well as personal experiences observations and communications the book examines to what extent Iranian women's rights groups and activists have collaborated not only with each other but with other social groups and activists to help facilitate the formation of a pluralist civil society capable of engaging in deliberative processes of democratic reform. This book will be of interest to scholars in Gender Studies and Middle Eastern Studies particularly those who study women's and other social movements in Iran.

Anti-Veiling Campaigns in Turkey Sevgi Adak, 2022-02-24 The veiling and unveiling of women have been controversial issues in Turkey since the late Ottoman period. It was with the advent of local campaigns against certain veils in the 1930s however that women's dress turned into an issue of national mobilisation in which gender norms would be redefined. In this comprehensive analysis of the anti-veiling campaigns in interwar Turkey Sevgi Adak casts light onto the historical context within which the meanings of veiling and unveiling in Turkey were formed. By shifting the focus from the high politics of the elite to the implementation of state policies the book situates the anti-veiling campaigns as a space where the Kemalist reforms were negotiated, compromised and resisted by societal actors. Using previously unpublished archival material Adak reveals the intricacies of the Kemalist modernisation process and provides a nuanced reading of the gender order established in the early republic by looking at the various ways women responded to the anti-veiling campaigns. A major contribution to the literature on the social history of modern Turkey the book provides a complex analysis of these campaigns which goes beyond a simple binary between liberation and oppression.

Temporary and Child Marriages in Iran and Afghanistan S. Behnaz Hosseini, 2021-02-06 This book discusses the popularity of temporary and child marriages in Iran and Afghanistan and explores their historical background and the reasons why they still persist today. Further it offers readers insights into the emotional and psychological violence that the women who have been subjected to these practices experience. The respective contributions address the persistence of these traditions, their ramifications for the wellbeing of women and the development of societies and human relations. Taken together they offer an excellent academic tool for students, academics and researchers studying the anthropology and sociology of kinship and family in the Middle East.

Islamophobia and Lebanon Ali Kassem, 2023-01-26 Thinking through anti-post and decolonial theories this book examines, analyses and conceptualises visibly Muslim Lebanese women's lived experiences of discrimination, assault, wounding and erasure. Based on in-depth research alongside over 100 Sunni and Shia participants between 2017 and 2019 it situates these experiences at the intersection of the local and the global and argues for their conceptualisation as a form of structural and lived anti-Muslim racism. In doing this it discusses the convergences and divergences of anti-Muslim racism in Lebanon with anti-Muslim racism in other parts of both the global north and the global south. It examines the production of this racialisation as well as its workings across spheres of public, private work and state including an analysis of internalised self-hate. It further explores various forms of resistance and negotiation and the contemporary possibilities and impossibilities of working beyond the epistemic framework of Eurocentric modernity. As the first in-depth and extensive study of anti-Muslim racism within Muslim majority and Arab majority spaces it offers an urgent and timely redress to multiple gaps and biases in the study of the Muslim majority and Arab majority worlds as well as racialisation broadly and Islamophobia specifically Islam, Gender, and Democracy in Comparative Perspective Jocelyne Cesari, José Casanova, 2017-04-14 The relationship between secularism democracy religion and gender equality has been a complex one across Western democracies and still remains contested When we turn to Muslim countries the situation is even more multifaceted In the views of many western commentators the question of Women Rights is the litmus test for Muslim societies in the age of democracy and liberalism Especially since the Arab Awakening the issue is usually framed as the opposition between liberal advocates of secular democracy and religious opponents of women s full equality Islam Gender and Democracy in Comparative Perspective critically re engages this too simple binary opposition by reframing the debate around Islam and women s rights within a broader comparative literature Bringing together leading scholars from a range of disciplines it examines the complex and contingent historical relationships between religion secularism democracy law and gender equality Part One addresses the nexus of religion law gender and democracy through different disciplinary perspectives sociology anthropology political science law Part Two localizes the implementation of this nexus between law gender and democracy and provides contextualized responses to questions raised in Part One The contributors explore the situation of Muslim women s rights in minority conditions to shed light on the gender politics in the modernization of the nation and to ponder on the role of Islam in gender inequality across different Muslim countries Captive Society Saeid Golkar, 2015-06-16 Iran s Organization for the Mobilization of the Oppressed Sazeman e Basij e Mostazafan commonly known as the Basij is a paramilitary organization used by the regime to suppress dissidents vote as a bloc and indoctrinate Iranian citizens Captive Society surveys the Basij s history structure and sociology as well as its influence on Iranian society its economy and its educational system Saied Golkar s account draws not only on published materials including Basij and Revolutionary Guard publications allied websites and blogs but also on his own informal communications with Basij members while studying and teaching in Iranian universities as recently as 2014 In addition he incorporates findings from surveys and interviews he conducted while in Iran Feminine Visibility in Contemporary Iran, 2024-07-22 In Feminine Visibility in Contemporary Iran Women Religion Culture and the State Esmaeil Zeiny and Seyed Javad Miri bring together a collection of essays which offer a number of new perspectives on the role and power of Iranian women in refashioning the country s politics culture and religion This collection threatens the stereotypical representations of Iranian women and illustrates how high women leapt over the hurdles obstructing their progress and how much they have achieved to renegotiate the roles demanded by Iranian society Mother Persia Zhinia Noorian, Brian Griffith, 2024-08-13 This book tells the story of Iranian women s accomplishments and struggles over the course of history spanning from ancient Elam to the present day It explores the evolving conditions of women s lives in each era and how women s choices and initiatives have shaped Persian civilization In the process it presents a cast of unique often brilliant individuals and refutes the traditional assumption that men were always the authors of Iranian culture business law religion art education literature agriculture science architecture philosophy social mores and the writing of history It shows how Iranian women have always been creative influential players in these fields and how their contributions have enriched the world ICSPS 2019 Ali Munhanif,A. Mateo Mohammad Farzaneh,2021-02-22 Eighteen months after Iran s Islamic Revolution in 1979 hundreds of thousands of the country's women participated in the Iran Iraq War 1980-88 in a variety of capacities. Iran was divided into women of conservative religious backgrounds who supported the revolution and accepted some of the theocratic regime's depictions of gender roles and liberal women more active in civil society before the revolution who challenged the state's male dominated gender bias. However both groups were integral to the war effort serving as journalists, paramedics, combatants, intelligence officers, medical instructors and propagandists. Behind the frontlines women were drivers, surgeons, fundraisers and community organizers. The war provided women of all social classes the opportunity to assert their role in society and in doing so they refused to be marginalized. Despite their significant contributions, women are largely absent from studies on the war. Drawing upon primary sources such as memoirs, wills, interviews, print media coverage and oral histories, Farzaneh chronicles in copious detail women's participation on the battlefield, in the household and everywhere in between. NGOs, Policy Networks and Political Opportunities in Hybrid Regimes Mohsen Moheimany, 2021-02-14. This book discusses the diversity and resilience in a hybrid regime where civil society organisations are either provided with complex sets of opportunities or face severe constraints. By studying the case of Iran between 1997 and 2013, it shows how the Islamic Republic regime went in two opposite directions under two presidencies and played in between supporting and suppressing advocacy NGOs. After accommodating a novel theoretical framework enabling scholars to identify the contributing factors of diversity in the regime, four case study chapters are designated for comparing the women's rights and environmental NGOs across local and national governments. These two political and technical policy areas demonstrate the different scopes of freedoms for advocacy NGOs. The contrasting narratives of the civil activists and policymakers imply paradoxes and shifts in the arrangement of opportunities for action and advocacy, although the leadership and structure of the regime remained unchanged during the period of study. Revolutionary Bodies K. S. Batmanghelichi, 2020-12-10. Gender and sexuality in modern Iran is frequently examined through the prism of nationalist symbols and religious discourse from the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. In this book, Kristin Soraya Batmanghelichi takes a different approach by interrogating how normative ideas of women's bodies in state religious and public health discourses have resulted in the female body being deemed as immodest and taboo. Through a diverse blend of sources, a popular cultural women's journal, a red light district, cases, studies of temporary marriages, iconic public statues and an HIV/AIDS advocacy organization in Tehran, this work argues that conceptions of gender and sexuality have been mediated in public discourse and experienced and modified by women themselves over the past thirty years of the Islamic Republic. Expanding upon existing philosophical theory, technological research and scholarship on gender and sexuality in Iran, this book focuses much needed attention on understudied marginalized communities such as widows living with HIV. This work interrogates how bodily technologies are constructed discursively and socially in Iran and the values and perspectives which are incorporated in them. Equal Rights Is Our Minimum Demand Diana Childress, 2011-01-01. We want to live, we do not want to face persecution for expressing our political opinion as women we don't want to walk on the street with the constant horror that we could be intimidated for showing an inch of hair Narges Kalhor a young Iranian filmmaker October 2009 On June 12 2005 hundreds of women gathered outside Tehran University in Tehran Iran These women were protesting an issue that Iranian women have battled for more than one hundred years gender inequality Living in a conservative Muslim culture Iranian women are subjected to discriminatory laws that serve the male dominated society In public Iranian women must not be seen with men not related to them and they must wear clothing completely covering their body and their hair Many laws punish women even more harshly If a woman is caught committing adultery she can be sentenced to death by stoning Yet men are free to have many wives and even enter temporary marriages In the 1900s Iranian women began protesting unjust laws and fighting for equality For a time under monarchs wishing to modernize Iran became more lenient Women began dressing as they wished mixing socially with men and working outside their homes But after the Islamic Revolution of 1979 harsh punishments for moral offenses again became law Women in professional occupations lost their jobs and gender separation was enforced in public places Iranian women continue to struggle against an oppressive regime but they refuse to stop protesting In this powerful story we'll learn how Iranian women have been punished and discriminated against by their patriarchal government but yet they maintain their pursuit of equal rights We'll also see what their hopes and dreams are for the future
