The Oxford Handbook of the Five Factor Model Thomas A. Widiger,2017-03-27

The Five Factor Model which measures individual differences on extraversion agreeableness conscientiousness emotional stability and openness to experience is arguably the most prominent dimensional model of general personality structure In fact there is now a considerable body of research supporting its construct validity and practical application in clinical health and organizational settings Taking this research to the forefront The Oxford Handbook of the Five Factor Model showcases the work of expert researchers in the field as they each offer important insight and perspective on all that is known about the Five Factor Model to date By establishing the origins foundation and predominance of the Five Factor Model this Handbook will focus on such areas as construct validity diagnosis and assessment personality neuroscience and how the Five Factor Model operates in business and industry animal personality childhood temperament and clinical utility The Psychology and Management of Project Teams François Chiocchio,E. Kevin Kelloway,Brian Hobbs,2015-04-10 In this volume a cross disciplinary set of editors brings together perspectives from leading I O psychology and project management scholars The volume includes comprehensive coverage of team selection development learning motivation and communication conflict management and well being leadership diversity performance from a multi level perspective and career development

Concussive Brain Trauma Rolland S. Parker,2016-04-19 Focusing on a public health problem affecting millions of people of all ages the second edition of Concussive Brain Trauma Neurobehavioral Impairment and Maladaptation reflects Dr Rolland S Parker s more than 25 years of neuropsychological practice and research in traumatic brain injury and stress and his prior experience as a clinical psychol The Nature of Intelligence Gregory R. Bock,Jamie A. Goode,Kate Webb,2003-10-31 Evolutionary psychology and behavioural genetics are two successful and important fields in the study of human behaviour but practitioners in these subjects have different conceptions of the nature of human intelligence Evolutionary psychologists dispute the existence of general intelligence and emphasise the differences among species They argue that natural and sexual selection would be expected to produce intelligences that are specialised for particular domains as encountered by particular species Behavioural geneticists consider general intelligence to be the most fundamental aspect of intelligence and concentrate on the differences between individuals of the same species This exciting book features papers and discussion contributions from leading behavioural geneticists evolutionary psychologists and experts on intelligence that explore the differences and the tensions between these two approaches The nature of g or general intelligence is discussed in detail as is the issue of the heritability of intelligence The alternative approaches that emphasise domain specific intelligences are explored alongside wide ranging discussions on a broad range of issues such as the biological basis for intelligence animal models and changes in IQ scores over time
