Uncommon Soldier The Story Of The Making Of Today's Diggers:

Anzac's Long Shadow James Brown, 2014-02-15 A century ago we got it wrong We sent thousands of young Australians on a military operation that was barely more than a disaster It's right that a hundred years later we should feel strongly about that But have we got our remembrance right What lessons haven't we learned about war and what might be the cost of our Anzac obsession Defence analyst and former army officer James Brown believes that Australia is expending too much time money and emotion on the Anzac legend and that today's soldiers are suffering for it Vividly evoking the war in Afghanistan Brown reveals the experience of the modern soldier He looks closely at the companies and clubs that trade on the Anzac story He shows that Australians spend a lot more time looking after dead warriors than those who are alive We focus on a cult of remembrance instead of understanding a new world of soldiering and strategy And we make it impossible to criticise the Australian Defence Force even when it makes the same mistakes over and over None of this is good for our soldiers or our ability to deal with a changing world With respect and passion Brown shines a new light on Anzac's long shadow and calls for change Bold original challenging James Brown tackles the burgeoning Anzac industry and asks Australians to re-examine how we think about the military and modern day service Leigh Sales The best book yet written not just on Australia's Afghan war but on war itself and the creator-destroyer myth of Anzac John Birmingham James Brown is a former Australian Army officer who commanded a cavalry troop in Southern Iraq served on the Australian taskforce headquarters in Baghdad and was attached to Special Forces in Afghanistan Today he is the Military Fellow at the Lowy Institute for International Policy where he works on strategic military issues and defence policy He also chairs the NSW Government's Contemporary Veterans Forum He lives in Sydney

Memory and the Wars on Terror Jessica Gildersleeve, Richard Gehrmann, 2017-10-24 This edited collection aims to respond to dominant perspectives on twenty-first century war by exploring how the events of 9/11 and the subsequent Wars on Terror are represented and remembered outside of the US framework Existing critical coverage ignores the meaning of these events for people nations and cultures apparently peripheral to them but which have as shown in this collection been extraordinarily affected by the social political and cultural changes these wars have wrought Adopting a literary and cultural history approach the book asks how these events resonate and continue to show effects in the rest of the world with a particular focus on Australia and Britain It argues that such reflections on the impact of the Wars on Terror help us to understand what global conflict means in a contemporary context as well as what its representative motifs might tell us about how nations like Australia and Britain perceive and construct their remembered identities on the world stage in the twenty-first century In its close examination of films novels memoir visual artworks media and minority communities in the years since 2001 this collection looks at the global impacts of these events and the ways they have shaped and continue to shape Britain and Australia's relation to the rest of the world
