■ CONCLUSIONS The results of the present study suggest that the use of a single, standardized, and validated questionnaire is a feasible and reliable method for assessing the prevalence of self-reported mental health problems in a community sample. The prevalence of self-reported mental health problems was higher in the present study than in other studies, which may be due to the use of a single, standardized, and validated questionnaire.

Further, the structural components of the model are not mutually exclusive. For example, the model could be extended to include the effects of the social environment on the individual's perception of the social environment. This would be a more complex model, but it would be a more realistic one.
